JAPAN ORDERS NONNI CLEARED AS FIGHT RAGES

Crowds at Tokyo Cheer New Brigade Headed for Battle.

MOVE SEEN TO PLACE BOY RULER ON THRONE

Puppet Chinese Government in Manchuria Reported Aim of Nippon.

Tokyo, Saturday, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The war office announced today that Gen. Honjo has been instructed to inform the Chinese Gen. Mah Chan-Shan he must evacuate his position in the Nonni River area by November 25 or Japan "will take effective steps."

A mixed brigade of the eighth division started for Manchuria from Aomori amidst the Banzais of a large crowd gathered despite the earliness of the hour, the Rengo news agency reported today.

Special trains went out in quick succession and were greeted by crowds at stations all along the route.

Conditions Are Enumerated.

The following conditions of evacuation were stipulated: Gen. Mah shall withdraw to Tsitsihar; such Chinese forces as now are concentrated at Tsitsihar and Anganchi must be returned to their original posts.

The Chinese general, under the war office conditions, shall not come south of the Chinese Eastern Railway, and the Taonan-Anganchi Railroad is to be administered by a board of administation under a Japanese advisor.

Gen. Honjo, commander of the Japanese forces in Manchuria, was instructed to caution Gen. Mah that he must not interfere with the management of the Taonan-Anganchi Railroad or place any obstacles in the way of the administrators.

The war office announced that Gen. Honjo was instructed to negotiate with Gen. Mah through Maj. Hayashi and the Japanese consul in Tsitsihar.

Furious Battle Rages.

London, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—A furious battle along the Nonni River took place today, according to the Harbin correspondent of the Daily Herald, who claims to have been an eyewitness of the engagement.

Four thousand Japanese infantrymen, he says, supported by artillery, air bombers and cavalry, engaged several thousand Chinese in the encounter.

The Japanese cavalry attempted to turn the Chinese flank, but was repulsed by the Chinese who withstood the assault several hours.

According to the Daily Herald report, the Chinese concentrated 5,000

Man, 69, Drowned In Eastern Branch

Breaking of Plank Walk Is Blamed for Death of Carpenter.

Within 15 minutes after police were asked yesterday to search for John B. Fitzgerald, 69-year-old carpenter, who had been missing from his home at 217 Twelfth street southwest since last Wednesday, his body was found by Policeman W. E. McCarten, of the Ninth Precinct, floating in the Eastern Branch near the Benning Bridge

According to a friend, William P. Normoyle, of 810 F street northwest, Fitzgerald left his home early Wednesday to do some carpenter work at the Potomac Gardens greenhouses near Benning road northeast. With a party of friends, Normoyle said he vainly searched the vicinity of the greenhouses for several hours.

Private McCarten learned that Fitzgerald had been in the habit of walking along a narrow plank spanning a portion of the branch known as Kingman's Lake. Investigation revealed that part of the plank had rotted and split in the middle. With the aid of a long pole, McCarten discovered the man's body floating just below the surface in more than 8 feet of water.

Railroad Heads Agree To Meet Brotherhoods

Committee Named to Confer With Employes' Representatives; Executives Also Vote Approval of I. C. C. Freight Rate Pool Plan.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The railways of the country today wrote a couple of new chapters in the history of their relations with the public and labor.

Leading officials of the most important lines held an informal "railway presidents' conference" in New York at which it was voted to appoint a committee which will accept an invitation for a meeting with representatives of the railway brotherhoods.

And, just prior to the presidents' meeting, a formal session, with practically the same officials present, voted approval in principle of the Interstate Commerce Commission's scheme to pool increased freight rates for the benefit of the weaker carrier systems.

There was some divergence of opinion among the rail officials, some of them believing that the conferences with labor should be regional and decisions rest with the individual roads. It was finally decided, however, to appoint a single committee, to meet with the brotherhoods' representatives at a date and place to be fixed soon.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, chairman of the presidents' conference, was also named chairman of that committee He issued the following statement:

"Following adjournment of the meeting of the railway executives' association, there was an informal meeting held of railway presidents, at which a small committee was appointed from the Eastern, Western and Southern regions to meet with Mr. (D. B.) Robertson (president of the Railway Labor Executives Association) and his associates at a meeting to be arranged in the near future."

The members of this committee are: Eastern—C. E. Denny, president of the Erie; Mr. Willard and J. J. Pelley, president of the New Haven; Western—L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central; L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific, and

MOSES CALLS U. S. 'GOAT' IN CHINA ROW

Asserts League of Nations Seeks to "Dump Whole Mess" on America.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Senator George H. Moses, Republican, tonight asserted the League of Nations was "attempting to dump the whole Manchurian mess into the lap of America, thus making us the goat."

In an address to the Wonolancet Club, a men's organization, the senator devoted considerable time to the Manchurian situation. He said it was difficult for Americans to "visualize the domestic situation in Japan, where, apparently, the civil government is at the mercy of militarists, just as was the German government in the summer of 1914."

He said the Japanese government seemed to be most desirous of avoiding anything that would provoke formal conflict, but it might be forced into war by a series of incidents much like the border outbreaks in the Balkans, previous to 1912, that culminated in the first Balkan war.

"There is plenty of evidence," he asserted, "that the League of Nations would like to dump the whole Manchurian mess into the lap of America, thus making us the goat. The policy of the administration has prevented this."

Japanese in Manchuria, he said, had attempted colonization but had been unsuccessful because of the inability to compete with Chinese.

"During the war," the Senator continued, "the Japanese undertook a

U.S. Group to Try to Aid South American Finance

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York today announced that three representatives will meet with representatives of five Latin-American countries at Lima, Peru, December 2, to confer on means of rehabilitating the economic situation in those countries.

The three are Prof. E. W. Kemmerer, of Princeton University; Allan Sproul, assistant deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and Eric P. Lamb, of the foreign department of the bank. Attending the conference will be representatives of Bolivia, Peru, Colombia and Ecuador.

GRANDI TO AIR VIEWS ON ARMS AND PACTS

Talks With Hoover to Center on These Points; U. S. Names Experts.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The forthcoming conversations between President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson and Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, here, will revolve around two fundamental points of vital interest to both the United States and Italy, respectively: Disarmament and revision of treaties.

The arrival of the Italian statesman has been somewhat delayed by the storms that are reported on the high seas in the path of his ship, the Conte Grande. However, they will not delay his arrival here on Monday except by a few hours.

The United States is keenly interested in the success of the general disarmament conference, which will meet in Geneva on February 2 next. The staff of advisers and technical experts who will accompany the delegation was announced yesterday by the State Department and they have already made their plans for preparation of what will be the American thesis. On this thesis the United States and Italy may yet take common ground.

The advisers will be three, one for the State Department and one each for the Army and Navy. It is regarded as highly significant here in naval circles that the man to represent the Navy will be Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, close personal friend of Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, who personally carried through the naval reduction features at the London Naval Conference. Admiral Hilary P. Jones, who was re-

Mexican Federalists Frustrate Revolution

Mexico City, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—An Excelsior dispatch from Zacatecas City tonight said an alleged revolutionary plot in favor of Jose Vasconcelos had been frustrated by federal forces at Colotlan, Jalisco, with the capture of the reputed leaders, Hipolito Chavez and Santiago Cortes.

Vasconcelos was last reported in Europe. He was the losing independent candidate in the 1929 president elections, and before that was secretary of education. He has lectured extensively in the United States and Central and South America.

Harvard Bars Announcer For Calling Play "Putrid"

Remarks of Ted Husing, of Columbia System, Concerning Wood and Crickard, Stars, Brings Ban.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Ted Husing, radio announcer, who termed the play of Barry Wood "putrid" in his broadcast of the Harvard-Dartmouth football game last Saturday, was barred by Harvard today from further broadcasts at the stadium.

Numerous complaints were received at Harvard regarding the broadcast of the game. The complaints were that Husing had been too critical of the general play of the Harvard team and had been especially critical of the work of Jack Crickard and Wood. No official cognizance of the complaints from alumni and the general public over Husing's broadcast. He said the complaints termed the broadcast the most unfair and unjust performance ever heard by them on the air.

Bingham said the Harvard authorities had been deluged with complaints termed the broadcast the most unfair and unjust performance ever heard by them on the air.

"No announcer," said Bingham, "can go into the Harvard Stadium and refer to any player or any play made by any member of either a Harvard team or its opposing team as 'putrid.' Mr. Husing will not be admitted to the Harvard Stadium in the capacity of a radio announcer again."

Wood has been considered all-American timber for two years because of his general quarterback play. With Crickard, the outstanding ball carrier for the Crimson this year, Wood was generally credited with pulling the Army game out of the fire with a 14 to 13 victory after the West Point team had scored 13 points in the first quarter. Wood is considered one of the best forward passers in football today. He is a Phi Beta Kappa student and president of his class at Harvard.

Husing has admitted the use of the word "putrid," but said he used it comparatively when referring to Wood's play of last Saturday and to his work against Army at West Point. Although Wood threw a long pass for a touchdown with only four minutes to play and then kicked the point

G. O. P. LEADERS ARE IN WRANGLE ON SPEAKERSHIP

Both Tilson and Snell Say They Have Necessary Votes for Post.

CAUCUS WILL DECIDE ISSUE NOVEMBER 30

Democrats in Full Harmony Behind Garner; Four Vie for Floor Leader.

(Associated Press.)

Discord among House Republicans over the party's speakership nomination yesterday produced confusing claims of superior support for two outstanding candidates.

Backers of Representative Snell, of New York, called his nomination assured. Supporters of Representative Tilson, Connecticut, claimed the votes of approximately half of the party membership. A caucus November 30 will settle the question.

The party has about lost all hope of actually electing a Speaker. Nevertheless, the contest for the nomination goes on unflaggingly. In reality, the prize at stake is that of the party leadership.

Mr. Tilson was selected floor leader at the Republican's February caucus He holds that that action stands. On the other hand, Mr. Snell's friends contend that if he is nominated for Speaker and defeated, he automatically would become minority leader.

In the last Congress with the late Nicholas Longworth as Speaker, Mr. Tilson was floor leader and Mr. Snell, chairman of the rules committee The caucus ...ich renominated Mr Tilson as floor leader renamed Longworth for the speakership.

Complications Are Increased.

When Chairman Hawley, of the Republican caucus, called the November 30 meeting, he said it was to "consider amendments to the rules of the House, a candidate for Speaker and such other business as may properly come before the conference."

Mr. Tilson's friends claim the call is not for a selection of a floor leader, adding to the complications in the party's ranks. The Snell camp maintains that if the question is not settled at the caucus another must be called after the House is organized.

Both factions are looking to 33 Pennsylvania Republicans for heavy support. The claims of each indicate a split in the Pennsylvania group. If united, it might determine the nominee, because it is the largest State delegation of the party in the House. It will caucus November 27 to determine its choice.

Campaigns for compromise candidates virtually have been dropped since the Republicans lost control to the Democrats through elections and deaths. The Democrats have united in supporting Representative Garner, of Texas, for the speakership.

Democrats Will Confer.

He said yesterday his statement Thursday night on the Democrats' position had been favorably received.

Today a group of Senate Democrats, including Harrison, of Mississippi, and

Virginia Approves Wine Bricks' Sale

But Threatens Arrest if They Are Used to Make Liquor.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Virginians can buy wine bricks, but they can not use them to make wine the attorney general announced today.

Attorney General John R. Saunders said Federal, State and city authorities would not interfere with the sale of wine bricks, and that officials of the Government "wanted it clearly understood" that persons who buy the bricks and make wine therefrom are subject to arrest.

The announcement followed a series of tests by State Chemist W. Catenby Jones, which showed no trace of alcohol. Mr. Jones said his examination showed they were composed of raisins and grape and cane sugar. Assistant Attorney General Edwin Gibson said that so far as he could see "there is no way to stop the sale of these bricks."

Special Election Date in Texas Set

Wurzbach Vacant Seat to Be Filled by Vote on November 24.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Gov. R. S. Sterling late today set November 24 as the date to hold an election in the Fourteenth Texas Congressional District to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Harry M Wurzbach of Seguin.

Wurzbach was the only Republican member of the Texas congressional delegation. He held office largely through his personal following, and it generally is believed he will be succeeded by a Democrat.

The election date was set early enough to permit the returns to be canvassed and the successful candidate seated by the time Congress opened December 7. Election of a Democrat would bolster a slim Democratic majority.

VIRGINIANS BACK BYRD TO GUIDE '32 DEMOCRATS

Glass Opposes Ritchie With Campaign for Southern Leader.

MARYLAND'S CHIEF HITS TRADE CURES

(United Press.)

Virginia, mother of Presidents, is going to put forward her favorite son, former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd, for the Democratic nomination for President next year.

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), Virginia, dominant figure in the State's Democracy, announced yesterday he would seek to have the delegation committed to Byrd. Senator Claude L. Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, has previously said he favors Byrd's candidacy.

Senator Glass coupled his statement with recent activities of a neighboring State's favorite son, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland. But among politicians here Senator Glass's move was interpreted primarily as an attempt either to postpone a decision until candidates crystallize at the convention, or to obtain the vice presidential nomination for Virginia.

South's Chances Doubted.

Likelihood of the presidential nomination coming to rest below the Mason-Dixon Line is believed to be small. From the Western wing of the party, as represented by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana, came another attack on Gov. Ritchie. Senator Wheeler said Ritchie's campaign was a part of "the effort of financial and other interests" to block the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

Senator Wheeler, a strong Roosevelt supporter, who ran for Vice President on the La Follette ticket in 1924, asserted that if a liberal and a progressive is not nominated, there will be a third party next year.

"I do not think Ritchie has a chance for the nomination," he said, "and I want to warn the Democrats that if they permit some of the party bosses to block the nomination of a liberal and a progressive they will find themselves faced with a third party next year."

Ritchie Makes Speeches.

Gov. Ritchie has been making speeches and holding conferences with leaders in many sections of the East recently. He made another speech last night in New York. He has taken an emphatic stand against governmental interference in business, and apparently is drawing some support from leaders who believe Roosevelt might be too liberal.

Former Gov. Byrd, "Harry" of the picturesque Virginia family's "Tom, Dick and Harry," is a brother of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the explorer. He is an apple-grower in the historic Winchester Valley region, and retired from the governorship only two years ago. He was here Thursday, conferring with Senators Swanson and Glass on what were described as "personal matters."

Byrd, who is 44 years old, is publisher of the Winchester (Va.) Star.

Senator Glass launched his advocacy of Byrd in an informal chat with newspapermen yesterday.

Plea for Virginia.

"If a man from the South is going to have a chance," he said, "I think Virginia should put forward former Gov. Byrd. His record in the governor-

Poisoning Suspect Near Breakdown

Woman Awaits Hearing on Charge She Killed Her Two Daughters.

Lexington, N. C., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. Lola Pickett, middle-aged widow, nervous and lacking the nonchalance with which she accepted arrest, apparently was near collapse today as she waited in the county jail here for a preliminary hearing on charges of poisoning her two little daughters.

She said she had retained no counsel nor made any plans about asking for an early hearing. She said she had some hope that relatives in Virginia, hearing of her plight, would provide counsel and arrange for the hearing.

Mrs. Pickett was held without bond after a coroner's jury had considered the case for several weeks. Her oldest daughter, Virginia, 10, died last spring. Elizabeth, 6, died in September and a chemist's examination revealed she had been poisoned. Virginia's body was exhumed and she was found to have been poisoned also.

Former Capital Woman Is Ill in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Police today were attempting to locate friends or relatives of Miss Grace Greenwood, 50, apparently a woman of means under observation in the psychopathic ward of the Philadelphia General Hospital, who said she formerly lived in Washington.

She became ill Saturday in a local hotel.

Mrs. Caraway Named To Succeed Husband

Appointment Restoring Tie In Senate Hailed by Woman's Party.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. Hattie Caraway was appointed by Gov. Harvey Parnell today as the temporary successor of her husband, the late Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, who died here last week, and by virtue of that she will become the second woman in history to sit as a member of the Senate.

She will occupy the seat until a successor for the unexpired term is chosen at a special election January 12. The governor said he also would seek her election for the remainder of the term, which ends March, 1933.

Informed of her appointment at her home at Jonesboro, Mrs. Caraway, who is 54 years of age, said she would make a statement later.

She will take her seat when Congress convenes December 7 and thus, even if she is not elected for the remainder of the term, she will serve more than a month. Her colleague is the Senate Democratic leader, Senator Joe T. Robinson.

Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton, of Georgia, was the first woman senator, but her appointment was solely complimentary. She merely took the oath and retired in favor of Senator Walter F. George. Therefore, Mrs. Caraway will be the first woman actually to serve in the Senate.

Mrs. Caraway's appointment again created a tie between Democrats and Republicans at 47 each, and restored

BEDELL MUST FACE LEGATION CHARGES

Rum Robbery Suspect Is Ordered Extradited From New York.

William E. Bedell, 30 years old, will be returned here from New York City today or early tomorrow in the custody of a United States marshal to answer a charge of robbing the Salvadorean Legation of 12 cases of whisky on May 12.

Detective Sergt. Larry O'Dea returned here early last night after appearing before a United States Commissioner in New York, where Bedell was arrested several weeks ago on a charge of forgery. The United States Commissioner yesterday took cognizance of a warrant sworn out against Bedell by Detective O'Dea specifically charging him in connection with legation liquor robbery and ordered the man turned over to Washington authorities.

No charge of assault was mentioned in the warrant naming Bedell in the robbery, although Dr. Carlos Leiva, charge d'affaires of El Salvador, has positively identified a picture of Bedell as the man he engaged in a struggle with when he entered the legation

Sam Beard Bailed In Tax Indictment

Posts $10,000 to Appear for Trial on Charge of Evasion.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Nov. 13.—Bail in the amount of $10,000 today was posted for the appearance for trial of Samuel Beard, well known in sports circles of Washington. Beard was indicted yesterday by a Federal grand jury on a charge of evading income tax payments amounting to more than $33,000.

The defendant appeared with Samuel S. Levin, his attorney, in the office of Simon E. Sobeloff, United States attorney, and after a short conference posted bail.

No date has yet been set for his trial. The indictment alleges that he evaded payment of tax on income derived during 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1930.

TREATY LIMIT NAVY BY 1936 REJECTED

Admiral Pratt Says Ships Would Become Old All at Once.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy's highest officer said yesterday it never was intended to build the fleet up to London Treaty limits by the time that pact expires in 1936. Besides that, he added, "No right-thinking" naval officer would want that to happen.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, made the statement. He was explaining that President Hoover's reduced budget plan, announced Thursday, means a substantial number of vessels will be placed in reserve.

"Certainly not, we never intended that it should be," was the admiral's reply when asked if the Navy could be built up to treaty tonnage by 1936

"Why, no right-thinking American naval officer would want such a thing. We are suffering now from having rushed construction all at one time so that our ships become overage all at once," he added.

The British fleet is substantially up to the treaty limit. The United States fleet, at the present rate of construction, will be 250,000 tons short of parity in effective underage ships by July, 1933.

"What I want to find is the eventual strength at which the fleet will be fixed and then build steadily up to it, replacing each year a few vessels so that we shall always have a large number of modern ships," Admiral Pratt said.

Other treaties may alter the American tonnage, the admiral explained,

Sing Sing Prisoner Held As Slayer of Another

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Antonio Moreno, a Mexican, serving a five-to-ten-year sentence for burglary and grand larceny, was placed in solitary confinement at Sing Sing Prison today, charged with the murder yesterday of Abner Schoonmaker, a fellow prisoner.

Also placed in solitary confinement were Michael Monadas, a Porto Rican, and Caesar Leal, a Mexican, who, according to Warden Lewis E. Lawes, shielded Moreno after the murder. Monadas is serving a sentence for burglary and Leal for robbery.

Harrowing Shipwreck Tale Is Told as Survivors Land

Captain of Sunken Baden Baden Carried Ashore as Ten Members of Crew Rejoice Over Arrival at Canal Zone.

Colon, Panama, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Eleven worn-out and haggard survivors of the schooner Baden Baden, who were alternately drenched by rain and baked by the sun while their open lifeboat tossed on the stormy Caribbean for three days, arrived here tonight on the U. S. S. Swan.

Capt. Hewitt Walters, of Mobile, Ala., who was badly injured by a falling timber as he sought to escape from the sinking schooner, came off on a stretcher and was carried to Colon Hospital.

His back was bruised from neck to waist, two ribs were broken and it was feared he might be suffering from internal injuries, but he smiled cheerfully through a five-day growth of beard.

Chief Engineer Halder, whose knee was injured, was able to walk ashore

The rest of the castaways, wearing uniforms of the United States Navy given to them by their rescuers, herded on the deck, smoking sailors' cigarettes and chatting among themselves, apparently well over their frightful experience.

They had learned the value of news from offers that had been radioed to the rescue ship, and they refused to talk to reporters who flocked aboard unless they were paid for it.

The castaways were picked up yesterday by the Swan. Their vessel foundered off the Colombian Coast Monday.

Before the rescue was effected the castaways had the unpleasant experience of sighting the mast of the Swan and of seeing the ship slowly disappear on the horizon. It was a sight that made them give up all hope.

The mine sweeper had undertaken the search after the castaways had been sighted by an aviator. While the ship was cruising about the approximate position given by the airman, Commander Alva Bernhard, in charge of the Coco Solo Air Base, received a radio message from the S. S. Wistera saying that a deserted raft had been sighted.

Lieut. George B. Evans, commanding the Swan, changed his course to the position of the raft and within a short time came upon the lifeboat with the survivors.

As the minesweeper drew near, Lieut. Evans said, the castaways for-

HOOVER TELLS PLANS TO HELP HOME OWNERS

Proposes New System of Loan Banks to "Melt" Frozen Paper.

MORE BUILDING ALSO SOUGHT BY PROJECT

Would Give Small Investor Service Federal Reserve Provides Business.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

President Hoover yesterday outlined in detail the proposal he will submit to Congress next month for the establishment of a new nattional system of home loan discount banks.

The project contemplates an effective financial structure to serve the millions throughout the country who invest in home ownership.

In the long-time view, the program seeks to provide for the small home investor the same service which the Federal Reserve system's rediscount arrangement supplies in the field of commercial finance. It is calculated to stimulate home building by reducing financing costs and to modernize the Nation's country squire system of construction mortgages.

To Melt Real Estate Paper.

As a measure of relief in the present economic emergency, the plan seeks to render liquid a tremendous amount of frozen real estate paper, to check disastrous forced liquidation of farm and home mortgages.

Finally, the project is a step "to safeguard against the repetition of such experience in the future."

In announcing his plan, at the regular afternoon press conference of Friday, the 13th, President Hoover said it was the result of months of study and conference by representatives of all branches of the building industry and the existing home-financing groups. In its embryonic form, he added, it had been well received in many quarters.

The whole scheme, of course, must be approved by Congress.

Parallels Federal Reserve.

One new home loan discount bank would be set up in each Federal Reserve District. Each of these twelve banks would have a capital of something between $5,000,000 and $30,000,000, according to the needs of the territory. The initial capital would come from private stock subscriptions; but in each district the Federal Government would take up the unsubscribed margin with temporary advances, as was done in establishing the Federal Reserve System.

The President's conferences led him to the conclusion that such a capital structure, on a credit basis of $12 to $1, would release approximately $1,800,000,000 in new-construction funds.

The projected discount chain would closely parallel the Federal Reserve System in organization and method, but would operate independently. Because of its close relationship with the whole national financial structure, however, it is not unlikely that some liaison arrangement with the Federal Reserve and Farm Loan Boards might be worked out through the composition of the new national board.

Duplication to Be Avoided.

The new financial structure would not in any way displace the National Credit Association, which occupies an entirely different field of action, the President emphasized. Nor would it take over the functions of existing building and loan associations. On the other hand, it would supplement all sound arrangements now operative with a great national superstructure.

Recent estimates place home mortgage loans in the United States at approximately $25,000,000,000.

"The immediate credit situation," the President said, "has for the time being, in many parts of the country, restricted severely the activities of building and loan associations, deposit banks, including country banks, and savings departments, savings banks and farm loan companies in such a fashion that they are not only not able to extend credit through new mortgages to home and farm owners, but are only too often unable to renew mortgages or give considera-

REPORTS AID HOPES OF ACCORD IN EAST

Cable to Stimson Says Quiet Prevails in Manchuria at Nonni River.

Confidential reports from American military attaches on the scene of the clashes between Japanese and Chinese in Manchuria tended to confirm the cautious optimism prevailing the last two days for the solution of the international deadlock. For the first time since the present situation in this part of Asia became a subject of international concern, Secretary Stimson made available one of the many reports he has received. On the basis of these reports the State Department is forwarding instructions to American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who will represent the United States at the meeting of the Council of the League of Nations in Paris next Tuesday.

Secretary Stimson announced that Consul General George Hanson, who has lived in Harbin for many years, and is regarded very highly for his sound and dispassionate estimate of such a situation as prevails today in Manchuria, had cabled him the following dispatch:

"I have been informed that on November 11 quiet prevailed in the region near the Nonni River Bridges. I also learn that the state of panic which had existed in the city of Tsitsihar has somewhat subsided. The assistant military attache telegraphs me from the Tsitsihar station that the personnel of the American mission at Tsitsihar City is safe and well."

Three Officers on Scene.

Three officers of the American Military Intelligence are now in various sections of Manchuria, and are reporting their impressions to the State and War Departments. It is believed that the exact and precise nature of these reports give a truer picture of the conditions now prevailing in these regions than the versions turned out by the Japanese Foreign Office or the propaganda agents of the Chinese Nationalist government.

The three American officers now "somewhere in Manchuria" are: Lieut. Col. Nelson T. Margetts, Capt. Parker G. Tenny and Lieut. W. G. Wyman. Their reports are regarded as highly interesting in view of the imminent state of war existing between the Japanese trained troops and the guerrilla bands of Gen. Mah and the other Chinese war lords.

An American officer was on his vacation in Manchuria at the time the first outbreak occurred between Japanese troops and Chinese officials which precipitated the present crisis.

Close Watch Kept.

The United States is maintaining a close watch on all developments in Manchuria, but is awaiting the opening of the negotiations in Paris next week before any decisive action can be taken with regard to the outcome of the struggle.

Ambassador Dawes will be in Paris at least 24 hours before the conference of the League Council is called. During that time he will confer informally with the other members of the council there, and will evolve, in conjunction with French Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and the British delegtaes, Sir John Simon and Lord Cecil, a plan of action for bringing peace to the two countries. It is believed that the peace negotiations will revolve around the Nine-Power Treaty, rather than the terms of the Kellogg-Briand pact or the covenant of the league. The pact of Paris is believed to be too indefinite and the league covenant too stringent and drastic to permit of either British or American acceptance. The Nine-Power Pact expressly provides for the maintenance of Chinese territorial integrity and is the treaty which most exactly covers the situation in Manchuria at the present time.

Georgetown Official Tells Sons of the Revolution Views Are Libel.

The Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University, who bitterly assailed G. Bernard Shaw in two radio addresses recently, last night turned the shafts of his criticism on Senator William E. Borah, chief proponent of Russian recognition, whom he charged with "a curious logic for a man under oath to defend the Constitution."

Addressing the Sons of the Revolution, meeting at the Willard Hotel, Dr. Walsh called Senator Borah's assertion that the United States refuses to recognize Russia because it "fears" the Soviet, "a libel against the intelligence of the American people." He ridicules Senator Borah's proposal to extend Treasury funds to assist Russia in development of the five-year plan, and charged that the whole Soviet movement, from the five-year-plan to the Third Internationale "is nothing but the length and shadow of one man, Nicholas Lenin."

Citing an interview given him by Kerensky, Dr. Walsh declared the latter was permitted by Lenin to escape the country "in return for a favor." Princess Anastasia, who claims to have survived the execution of the Russian royal family, he branded a fraud.

Nellie Tayloe Ross Raps Republicans

National Committee Vice Chairman Hits Tactics in Scranton Talk.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—In the opinion of Nellie Tayloe Ross, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, it would help just now and in the future to have more Democrats and fewer Republicans in public office.

She told the League of Women Voters, of Pennsylvania, the Republicans stood indicted of "conniving with grasping, ruthless private interests." Democratic forces, she said, offered the Nation a program to cope with unemployment—the Wagner bills, providing for joint State-Federal employment exchanges; a long-range public works building program, and collection of labor statistics.

"If Democratic control in the next Congress materializes, and if its action is not thwarted by the Chief Executive, there is reason to believe that the principles of the Wagner measures will be converted into law," she said.

AMERICANS QUIT HOSPITAL IN LINE OF FIRE

All Americans at the United States Methodist Mission, Hospital and School at Tientsin, China, were asked to seek places of safety in the foreign areas after they had spent a night dodging bullets. While a number of stray bullets penetrated buildings in the mission's area, no one was injured. The problem of moving a number of patients from the hospital, shown in above photo, was difficult.

DAWES IS IN PARIS FOR LEAGUE PARLEY

U. S. Rights Under 9-Power Pact Presumably Are Concerned, He Says.

Paris, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes came to Paris tonight to stand by at the meeting of the league council on Monday and stated in succinct terms his mission in deliberations over the Manchurian conflict.

"I am here to confer with the council members individually with regard to problems which are to commonly concern and involve mutual treaty interests," he said. "I hope to make every contact which is essential to the exercise of any influence we may have in properly supporting the league's effort to avert war and to make effective the Kellogg pact."

He emphasized the fact that the United States was not a member of the League of Nations and said: "The methods which have been followed on occasions when matters of mutual concern to the league and ourselves were under consideration have varied.

Simon on Way.

"On this occasion there is no anticipation on the part of the Government or myself that it will be found necessary for me to attend the meetings of the council.

"The council in considering the Manchurian situation is dealing with matters which presumably affect not only the treaty rights and general interests of the United States under the nine-power pact, but relate to the Kellogg pact as well."

Sir John Simon, Great Britain's new foreign secretary, is coming from London Sunday to replace Lord Reading as the British representative on the council.

League Is Encouraged.

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—News of an optimistic attitude at Washington regarding the outcome of Monday's meeting of the League of Nations council has encouraged league officials to hope that the meeting may produce a solution of the Manchurian dispute.

They found this encouragement in a statement by Undersecretary of State Castle that a "compromise proposal" is likely to be presented when the council meets.

There has been considerable speculation on the nature of this proposal. If Mr. Castle had reference to the suggestion that a neutral commission be sent to Manchuria, that proposal was advanced privately in September, but was withdrawn in the face of Japanese opposition and what was said at the time to be objection on the part of the American Government also.

Bankruptcy Peril Confronts R-K-O

Stockholders Are Notified of Emergency From Reduced Receipts.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation in a letter to holders of its shares, made public today, states that it "finds itself faced with an emergency which required prompt action by stockholders if a receivership is to be avoided."

The same communication gives notice of an extraordinary meeting of stockholders at the principal office in Baltimore on December 10. The purpose of this meeting, it was said, is to reduce the outstanding shares of class A stock to one-fourth the present number; the reduction of the number of outstanding class B shares to none; the reclassification of both class A and B stock into common stock so that the authorized common stock of the corporation shall be 4,500,000 shares without nominal or par value.

Estimates of the corporation, it was said, indicate it must procure some $4,000,000 to meet requirements to and including January 1, 1932. Throughout September and October, it was explained, there was "an unexpected and unprecedented decline in gross receipts."

Santa Barbara Greets Curtis and Mrs. Gann

Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Vice President Charles Curtis, his sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann, and members of their party were welcomed here today on their return from San Simeon by a committee headed by Mayor H. T. Nielson.

Accompanying the Vice President and Mrs. Gann were Sen. Samuel Shortridge; Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Mayer; Dr. A. H. Giannini; Ernest Van Pelt and Capt. William F. Hynes.

men in their first line defenses, while their reserves exceeded 5,000.

The Chinese ranks were filled with many raw recruits, however, the correspondent added.

The American consul at Harbin, George Hanson, is reported to have stated, following a tour of the Tsitsihar region, that there is no evidence that the Soviets have provided any assistance to Gen. Mah Chan-Shan. He declared, however, that unless the unexpected happens, Gen. Mah Chan-Shan will be unable to withstand the Japanese pressure long.

Nanking (Saturday), Nov 14 (A.P.).—The Central Daily News, Nationalist government organ, said this morning that the Japanese have launched an offensive north from the Nonni River in Manchuria and have occupied Angangchi.

Mah to Defend City.

The paper quoted Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, Chinese commander, as saying that the Japanese were approaching Tsitsihar, which he would defend "at all costs."

Tahsing, Manchuria, Saturday, Nov. 14 (U.P.).—Cavalry skirmishes continued today near Tahsing. One Japanese officer was killed yesterday.

Tientsin, China, Saturday, Nov. 14 (U.P.).—Two hundred and twenty Japanese women and children were evacuated from the concession in Tientsin today, taking passage on steamers bound for Japan.

Another group of 300 will leave Tientsin November 16.

All outgoing ships are crowded with fugitives.

Moscow, Saturday, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—Moscow newspapers today published dispatches from Pieping saying a White guardist named Ushakov had been arrested on his arrival from Harbin and documents in his possession were proof that provocative action against Russia was being prepared by Japanese military authorities.

White Russians Active.

White Russians are cooperating with the Japanese in these purported preparations, the dispatches said.

Ushakov was declared to have had a letter from a Japanese military mission addressed to a Japanese military agent in Manchuria named Weddo.

The white Russian, the dispatches said, described himself as a member of the "Kharbine active group of Amur Cossacks," controlled by white guardists named Kriukanov and Belkov.

Members of this group have been sent to Tsitsihar and Hailar, the dispatches stated, to communicate with bandit elements in preparation for an insurrection. The uprising reportedly was to be handled as an "emancipation movement."

In Moscow the reported arrest of Ushakov caused a sensation and official publication of the documents he carried as well as the statements he is said to have made to the Chinese authorities was expected.

Moscow, Nov. 13 (U.P.).—The declaration by Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander in Manchuria, that Chinese forces have the aid and support of the third Red (Siberian) army, was characterized officially tonight as "a provocatory lie, from beginning to end, and totally unfounded."

Soviet officials declared that the only explanation for such a statement was that it was "the invention of adventurers who want to distract world opinion from their own activities."

The declaration was authorized by the government.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Tientsin, China, Nov. 13.—An expeditionary force, described as Communists from Siberia, was reported in White Russian circles today to have descended on Japanese troops in the Nonni River sector and driven them back beyond the bridgehead.

A brigade, composed of Chinese, Koreans and Buriats from the vicinity of Blagoveschensk, on the Manchurian border, was said to have swept from the north into the highway near Tsitsihar, and attacked the Japanese with machine gun fire, demoralizing them and forcing them to retreat. Several Japanese airplanes were said to have been captured.

At the same time, Henry Pu-Yi, China's former boy emperor, was represented by Chinese sources to be on his way to Manchuria, with the former empress, to be installed by the Japanese as the ruler of the independent government which they set up several days ago, after deposing Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang.

Report Termed Premature.

A Japanese official termed the report "premature," but intimated that plans were under foot to elevate the youth to a Manchurian throne, sooner or later.

The story persisted, however, that he and his party had been hustled out of the Japanese concession, in which he has lived since 1924, late last night and placed aboard a steamer for Dairen. He was escorted to the water front by Japanese soldiers, it was said, and embared on a launch, from which he was later transferred.

Mr. Pu Yi's uncle, Prince Kung, recently went to Dairen, and was quoted as saying he would not leave until he had been appointed premier of Manchuria in a restoration of the dynasty. He refused to recognize the abdication of the emperor when it was effected about ten years ago.

Tientsin Troops Withdraw.

Peiping, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed Governor of Manchuria, capitulated tonight to a demand by Japanese authorities that Chinese troops in Tientsin withdraw to a point six miles from the city.

This was said to be in accordance with the terms of the Boxer protocol of 1900 which laid down protective measures for the foreign concessions. Marshal Chang insisted, however, that the native police in Tientsin be allowed to increased their numbers.

Nanking, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—American Minister Nelson T. Johnson, speaking in Chinese, conferred today with President Chiang Kai-Shek for two hours, presumably in connection with the Manchurian conflict.

He also called on Acting Foreign Minister Frank Lee. Statements on the conferences were not issued but it was assumed that Mr. Johnson was conveying the United States' wishes that a compromise be reached with the Japanese.

Cannon's Council Files More Data

Additional Facts Contained in Document Supporting Demurrer.

Robert H. McNeill, attorney for Bishop James Cannon, jr., who is indicted as a violator of the corrupt practices act, yesterday filed in the office of the criminal clerk's office of the Supreme Court of the District, additional reasons for invalidating the indictment on which the bishop is to be tried.

The lack of the names of the members of the anti-Smith committee in Virginia, the failure to assert that contributions were ever received by the treasurer of the committee, or that the treasurer ever had knowledge of any contributions are causes set forth to support the contention that the indictment is faulty.

Previously, a demurrer had been filed by the attorney, and the papers filed yesterday support that document.

10 Million Dry Violations Laid to 54 in Chicago Ring

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Fifty-four alleged participants in what the Government termed a huge Middle West liquor ring that in two years' operation broke the prohibition laws 10,000,000 times, stepped before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindsey today and pleaded not guilty.

Then Tony Romano, No. 55, accused of being a "cooker" for a Chicago liquor syndicate, elbowed through a crowd of attorneys, defendants and spectators, and said he pleaded guilty. Expressing surprise, Assistant United States District Attorney Daniel Anderson made Romano repeat the plea three times, "just to make sure." All will be tried November 30.

The ring, the Government charged, was linked with "Scarface Al" Capone, jailed Chicago gang ruler, and operated large distilleries in Aurora, Ill., and in Whiteside County, near Fulton, Iowa. It sold, Anderson said, about 2,000,000 gallons of alcohol throughout the Middle West before a year's investigation by undercover men posing as "partners," checked the sales.

The Capone connection, Anderson said, was traced through Gabriel and Paul Cinquina, of Chicago, reputed Capone "tribute" collectors, who were among those denying the charges.

The leaders of the ring, the Government charged, were Mike Blumberg, called "the self-styled Capone of Clinton, Iowa," and Mike and Joseph Meyer, of Aurora. Among the other defendants before the court today were Robert W. Beese, former assistant State's attorney of Whiteside County, and Russell, Frank and Raymond Rice, of Waterloo, Iowa.

REV. BOB SHULER ORDERED FROM AIR

Radio Commission Refuses to Renew License of Coast Station.

(United Press.)

The Rev. Bob Shuler, whose radio utterances in Los Angeles have made him the center of many bitter disputes on religious, political and civic matters, yesterday was ordered off the air by the Federal Radio Commission.

The commission, after denying Shuler's application for a renewal of the license of Station KGEF, telegraphed Shuler an order calling for immediate cessation of all broadcasting.

The action placed Shuler in the category of other "bad boys of the air" whose broadcasts, in the commission's judgment, have violated Federal regulations. In this group are J. R. Brinkley, the Kansas "goat gland" specialist, and Norman Baker, whose activities with a cancer clinic in Iowa caused him to be barred from the air.

Shuler still has the opportunity to appeal the commission's decision through the courts, but must suspend all broadcasting until he can obtain a stay order in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Long Controvery Center.

Should the court refuse such an order, Shuler must go through a lengthy procedure to gain back, even temporarily, the radio privileges which the commission has taken from him.

The commission had intended to permit Shuler to operate for the usual twenty days' period of grace, but the unanimous opinion against him, and the strong condemnation of his activities that was written into the commission's report, prompted the more drastic course.

Shuler has been a center of controversy for much of the five years his station has been in operation. Although licensed in the name of the Trinity Methodist Church, South, the station was said by the commission to be owned and dominated by Shuler.

The commission found that Shuler's broadcasts rendered the station "undesirable and obnoxious to several religious organizations," thus "serving to promote religious strife and antagonism."

Shuler, according to the commission's decision, "repeatedly made attacks upon public officials and courts which have not only been bitter and personal in their nature, but oftentimes based upon ignorance of facts, for which little effort has been made to ascertain the truth."

"When Shuler has not had possession of definite facts he has proceeded by the well-known method of innuendo," the commission said.

"In two instances shown in this record Shuler was convicted of having attempted by his radio talks to obstruct the orderly administration of justice and in the opinion of the commission, such use of radio facilities does not meet the statutory standard."

The commission's decision reversed the recommendation of its chief examiner, Ellis A. Yost.

Preacher Will Appeal.

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—A fight to the highest courts is planned by the Rev. Robert P. Shuler, militant Methodist preacher, whose license to operate a radio station was revoked today at Washington.

"The only thing I will say now is that I still believe in free speech, whether they do down in Washington or not. I expect to keep up the fight, regardless of what the politicians may do. I am prepared to go to the highest court in the land and I can not believe that those courts will close the lips of a man battling for righteousness."

Mr. Shuler said his attorneys will seek a restraining order. He appeared deeply moved by the decision of the Federal Radio Commission and for a moment could not speak. Over the radio he has conducted many campaigns against what he has been wont to call "political gangs."

Atlanta Reserve Bank Raises Rediscount Rate

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Reserve Board announced yesterday the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta has increased its rediscount rate from 3 to 3½ per cent on all classes, effective today.

The action of the Atlanta bank brings to eleven the number of banks which have increased their rediscount rates in the last two months. The only one which has not announced an increase is Minneapolis.

GANDHI PREMATURE, INDIAN NOBLE SAYS

Burdwan Maharajah Holds Independence Not Possibility at Present.

Independence? "Not now within the realms of possibility."

Dominion status? "Not feasible at the present time, because of the 500-odd native states of India, the color, race and cultural differences."

Such was the estimate of the Maharajah of Burdwan, senior Hindu noble of Bengal, recent delegate to the round table conference in London, who addressed the National Geographic Society at the first lecture of its season series last evening in the Washington Auditorium.

Moderates of India, according to the Indian statesmen, foresee for their vast country a confederation, similar to that of the German empire before the war, with the possibility that a member of the British royal family should be viceroy.

Gandhi Plan "Premature."

The "Indian India"—India made of the 500 native kingdoms aggregating some 75,000,000 of India's 350,000,000 people—are accustomed to royalty, the speaker said. He characterized the idea of independence, in the sense that Gandhi and the Nationalists urge, as "fantastic and premature."

Fewer than 100,000 British soldiers could not rule India's teeming millions, he pointed out, without the good will of India. And, he asserted, "British connection with India is as essential to the good of India as it is important to England."

The maharajah was introduced by Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society.

Presented at White House.

The address of the Indian statesmen was followed by a showing of pictures of colorful India, full of contrast, by Howard Breton McDonald. The motion pictures and color photographs ranged from the Himalayas with mighty Everest, to the plains of the far south, and the deserts at the tip of the peninsula.

He showed the country's amazing architecture, culminating in the beautiful Taj Mahal; the squalor of its towns, the splendor of its rich capitals and pageants, and the curious primitive processes of its industry, such as the extraction of linseed oil, and the grinding of grain by stones.

Earlier in the day the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, escorted the maharajah to the White House, where he was presented to President Hoover.

New York Chinese Ban Enemy Trade

Patriot Groups Declare Perpetual Boycott on Japanese.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Chinatown declared a "war" today on New York's Japanese, with an undying boycott as its weapon.

The Chinese Patriot Association and the Chinese Merchants Association joined hands in launching the campaign. A proclamation was issued. It went onto a 10-foot billboard beside the latest "war bulletins."

Every Chinese must swear never to buy or sell "anything Japanese." The pledge must be kept for life and passed on to the next generation so the boycott will continue forever. Those who break their promise will be blacklisted—and in a place like Chinatown that is penalty enough.

Accuser of Pantages Is Recalled to Stand

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Eunice Pringle, dancer, and accuser of Alexander Pantages, vaudeville impresario, was recalled unexpectedly for testimony in the retrial today of the theater man and denied that she had attempted to "frame" a charge of criminal attack against him.

After the dancer left the witness stand, Judge Clair S. Tappan unexpectedly barred from the trial evidence concerning a $1,000,000 damage suit Miss Pringle has pending against Pantages. The State then rested its case and court was adjourned until Monday.

HARROWING SHIPWRECK TALE IS TOLD AS SURVIVORS LAND

got their exhaustion and hunger and rowed madly toward the ship.

Flying from their mast was a white undershirt. All those who were not rowing waved excitedly toward their rescuers.

Capt. Walters, lying athwart the lifeboat, was almost done in from fatigue, but the sight of the minesweeper revived him and he waved as wildly as the others.

"As the boat drew alongside," Lieut. Evans said, "all who were able scrambled aboard and then got down on their knees on the forward gangway and thanked God for their deliverance."

The rescued men enjoyed baths, new clothes, cigarettes and the sleeping quarters of the crew. The men of the Swan were moved to deck cots.

According to the account given Lieut. Evans by Capt. Walters, the Baden Baden's first trouble developed in the engines. Then heavy seas caused the cargo to shift, but for a time it was possible to hold the vessel on her course. Monday morning the pumps failed and all hands were ordered to the boat deck.

The ship was sinking slowly and the two owners—Hans J. Lau and Adolph Schoenek—prepared to take off with the mate in one lifeboat and the captain and the rest of the crew got ready to occupy the other.

As the captain, the last to leave the ship, was about to jump into his lifeboat he was hit by a timber and thrown into the water. The blow knocked him helpless and his crew rescued him.

The lifeboat of the owners and the mate was swamped and they took to a raft, but one by one they were washed off by heavy seas before the eyes of the men in the other boat who, because of the rough weather, could not go to their aid. The last seen of them they were struggling in the water. Two other members of the crew meanwhile had been washed from the pilothouse.

Fifteen minutes after the men left the Baden Baden they were sighted by a Pan-American Airways airplane. The ship, flying close overhead, was a promise of quick aid and the castaways were greatly encouraged.

But aid seemed a long time coming. Despite careful rationing, the small amount of food they had been able to store in the boat was exhausted Wednesday. When they left the Baden Baden they had two cans of beans, two cans of cheese and one banana.

Thursday morning only the banana was left and they cut it into eleven pieces. There was no water at all and they lived by catching rain in their hands.

Wednesday night the driving rain nearly drowned them and they were so cold and weary, so crazed with fear that they would not come, it seemed to them every cloud on the horizon was a ship. So they strained at the oars toward rescue vessels that were not there.

Their first meal aboard the Swan was boiled eggs and soup, but when they had their second meal they were fit for seamen's rations.

"They went after it," said Lieut. Evans. "Their appetites were still good."

When the Swan was sighted beyond the Colon breakwater tonight the members of the crew were even more tired than the men they had rescued. They had had a hard trip.

From the time they departed Wednesday until their return, Lieut. Evans said, they had had no accurate bearings because of the murky weather.

The return voyage was through heavy seas, and when the Swan steamed slowly into the harbor, with her searchlight playing, through the rain and mist surf could be seen high over the breakwater 2 miles away.

STAFF IN CONGRESS TO AID CHEST DRIVE

Hoover Plan for Contributions of Three Days' Pay to Be Extended.

Completion of organization of the new Congress, with its probable shifting of jobs among the congressional staff, will be the signal for an extension to the Capitol of President Hoover's plan to have Government employes contribute three days' pay this winter to relief funds.

Extension of the scheme to include congressional employes will be taken up with those in authority as soon as the new Congress is organized, it was said by Gov. Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission and chairman of the special committee named by the President to organize the giving by Government workers.

Although President Hoover's direct appeal was only to employes of the executive departments in the National Capital, Gov. Campbell said he felt confident that as soon as matters were settled at the Capitol those in authority there would be glad to cooperate. It is planned to seek the cooperation of the judicial branch of the Government in the effort also, as well as to have the plan extended throughout the Government service outside the National Capital, it was said.

Plans for the drive among employes of the executive departments in Washington were worked out at a meeting between Gov. Campbell and 65 representatives of various departments and independent establishments held yesterday in the War Department.

The drive for $1,000,000 in donations by Government workers will be launched next week and it is expected to have the canvass completed and all pledges received by December 12. The first contribution would be due on or before January 15 and the second and third in February and March, respectively. The sum of $1,000,000 was accepted as the quota of the Government service in the Community Chest's efforts to raise $2,601,000 to meet its budget.

The campaign will be conducted through Government officials or employes who shall be designated as agents to canvass and receive contributions in each of the bureaus and divisions of the Government machine. The amounts collected will be turned over to the Community Chest in a lump sum. This plan, it was estimated, will save between $60,000 and $70,000, which it would cost the Community Chest to do the work.

An explanation of the machinery, which has been decided on, together with an appeal for whole-hearted support, will be set forth in a letter which will be sent the various divisions of the Government service by Gov. Campbell.

One of the things decided on yesterday was to request Government employes living outside of Washington to make their contributions through their offices. Whatever proportion of their contributions they may wish to go to relief organizations in their home communities rather than to the Washington Community Chest will be forwarded, it was said.

Another point which was decided was that the gross rate of pay as shown in the Government salary table shall be the basis of the amount contributed as a day's pay.

Publisher Hits Movie Portrayal of Reporter

Los Angeles, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The motion picture idea of a reporter, as portrayed in the current cycle of newspaper films, goes back 30 or 40 years to dig up a character who doesn't exist, E. H. Harris, publisher of the Richmond, Ind., Palladium, told Hollywood today.

"The newspaper reporter of today," he said, "must be just as much of a gentleman and as sober and efficient as any bank clerk. The movie characterization of the reporter who curses and bullies everyone with whom he comes in contact, absorbs a drink each 5 minutes and prides himself upon his disreputable appearance is a reflection upon the point of view in Hollywood."

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE Home Plate Glass Insurance Co. of the City of Washington in special meeting assembled, on this 10th day of November, 1931, unanimously adopted the following:

We record with profound sorrow the untimely death on November 9, 1931, of our president and associate, John Bell Larner.

One of the organizers of this company, he always manifested a very deep interest in its welfare and progress.

Dignified in manner, yet very democratic, conservative in speech, strong in his convictions, yet considerate for the views of others, a sound thinker his words and counsel always carried sincerity.

Our expressions of deep and unfeigned regret do but small justice to our departed friend and associate.

BE IT RESOLVED: That the Board of Trustees of the Home Plate Glass Insurance Co. of the City of Washington, in token of its profound respect for the deceased, desires that this expression of its feelings be spread upon the minutes of its records, and that a copy be sent to the immediate family.

building as the robbery was being committed.

Detective Sergt. O'Dea said that Bedell bears an unmistakable scar on his left index finger knuckle and he believes this indicates that Bedell was the man Dr. Leiva fought with in the legation building inasmuch as the diplomat has stated that he bit his assailant on the hand during the affray. During the struggle Dr. Leiva was struck over the head with the butt of a pistol which harmlessly discharged. He was at Emergency Hospital for some time undergoing treatment for injuries thus received.

At the time Bedell was arrested in New York he professed willingness to come here to face the legation charges. Later, however, he refused to do so and Detective Sergt. O'Dea instituted legal proceedings with yesterday's result.

Bedell has contended that he was not in this city at or around the time of the legation robbery. O'Dea testified that he was here then. The Washington detective was corroborated by Detectives Peter Nathan and Wilson, of the New York detective bureau, who have questioned Bedell at length.

Both New York detectives testified that Bedell admitted to them that he was here on or around May 12.

WINKLER FREEDOM OFFER IS REJECTED

Nebraska Prosecutor Spurns $600,000 Exchange for Release From Jail.

Lincoln, Nebr., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The offer of August "Gus" Winkler, identified by Nebraska officers as a lieutenant of "Scarface Al" Capone to exchange $600,000 worth of bonds taken in the $2,500,000 Lincoln National Bank holdup for his release from a bank robbery charge was rejected today by County Attorney Max S. Towle.

"I would never have consented to any compromise with crime or any exchange of freedom for stolen property," he said.

The prosecutor said he had never authorized Sergt. Roy Steffers, of Chicago; the "secret six," or any other person to barter with Winkler for return of the securities. Steffens asserted Towle sponsored the negotiations with the gangster.

The prosecutor said he hoped the "secret six" would continue to assist him in the case. He then prepared to leave tonight for Chicago and Buffalo, N. Y., to investigate an alibi offered by Winkler, who is under $100,000 bond pending trial for the robbery September 17, 1930.

Winkler was injured seriously in an automobile accident in Michigan last summer and was arrested. While he was in a hospital at Benton Harbor, Towle said he authorized Steffens, a Chicago city detective assigned to the Cook County State's Attorney's office, to question Winkler about the stolen securities. The officer asked what kind of a trade could be made and Towle asserted he instructed Steffens that no deal of any kind could be made with the gangster.

Winkler offered to spend $75,000 of his money and that of unnamed friends to obtain the stolen securities. He proposed to turn these over to the bank if the charge against him were dropped. He did not reveal who has the bonds. He said he was in a Buffalo hotel the day of the robbery and that his "double", Tom Slattery, who was killed in Maryland, was the man who robbed the bank.

Towle will investigate this alibi to aid him in the prosecution of the charge against Winkler.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 105

Dr. Bouquillon, a noted sociologist of his day, taught Dr. W. J. Kerby, present professor of sociology at the university, and Dr. John A. Ryan, who is now professor of moral theology at the institution.

Fears of Navy Backers For Naught, It's Still There

By JOHN J. DALY

AFTER all the fears of the Navy, the new budget shows a way out. There will be plenty of reduction in the maintenance charges, without the loss of a man or a ship.

All the navy yards in the country will operate as usual. Each admiral will fly his own flag. The gobs will have their girls, each ship its goat. Things will go on in the same old style, full pay distributed, and yet the Navy will cost less than it did last year.

Here, now, is a stunt in higher mathematics that will interest each and every householder in the Nation. Everything kept going in the grand manner, and yet a saving.

It sounds like magic, as if there were a trick in it somewhere. Yet, simmered down, it comes under the head of common sense; for what the Navy has done, or intends to do, is to get along with what it needs, actually, and not what it would like to have. Happily, the Navy men are aided in their plans by the higher purchasing power of the dollar, a seagoing dollar going as far this year as when Washington threw one across the Potomac.

LOWER prices and wants reduced to a minimum are the secrets back of the Navy's budget, like what the well-dressed man will wear—a brown suit this year, if he wore a brown suit last year.

When England went off the gold standard the price of gold lace automatically dropped. So the admirals in the King's Nav-ee, whether they knew it or not, were instrumental in saving Great Britain from a crisis. In international exchange, the same boon comes to the American Navy.

Everything has come down but the admiral's ensign. The midshipmate has a lower rating, but a higher return on his salary—or, wages. The lazarette is filled to overflowing with the best foodstuffs purchasable on the open market, all hands aboard ship better fed than ever. A lean year, and they are all getting fat.

THE Navy economists who put this new plan in operation will be besieged by all the husbands and fathers in the land, especially those who have young Navy and Army men on their hands. How to make both ends meet is the perennial problem. The Navy plows the way.

It is just one of the little paradoxes of life, this saving while spending, but it must be true since the President himself, the commander in chief of all the armed forces, has okehed the proposition.

Boston and Charleston and Norfolk, and some of the other seaport towns interested in the fleet, thought sure there would be a back-to-the-farm movement, most of the sailors discharged and sent home. It develops now that while all the looked-for economies are effected, the American Navy will still ride the high seas.

Folks in the Midwest, who have never seen a battleship or the Navy on parade, can hardly understand why they should be taxed to furnish dancing partners for Newport society matrons, or escorts for the maidens fair of Portsmouth and San Francisco. They never had the advantage of seeing the boys on shore liberty, thus missing all the gayety while footing the bills.

FROM now on it will be different. Taxes will be reduced because the Navy has trimmed sail—and while this is so it does not mean a return to hard tack. Instead, the star boarders will feed on T-bone steaks bought with the savings put into effect by the supreme command who know how to sink a ship and sail it, too.

CATHOLIC U. MARKS 42D ANNIVERSARY

Only Two Are Believed Still Alive of Audience at Founding Rites.

It was a different sort of day in Washington yesterday from that other November 13 when Catholic University was dedicated 42 years ago.

Rain, in a deluge, and mud, in a soft, sticky ocean, lingered uppermost yesterday in the memory of Dr. Henry Hyvernat, professor of Semitic languages at the university, only member of the original faculty now alive.

Rain and mud—and the fact that The Washington Post published an elaborate special edition in honor of the occasion, back in a day when special editions were rarities.

Seated in his tiny library and study, Dr. Hyvernat paused in his work of translating an ancient Coptic manuscript, written almost 2,000 years ago, to recall the thrilling day when President Harrison and hundreds of notables of the church and state, both here and abroad, made the arduous trek out through the mud to what is now Brookland to dedicate Caldwell Hall, then the only building of the university.

Only Two Still Living.

So far as Dr. Hyvernat knows, he is the only person still alive of all who attended the ceremony with the exception of old Tom Fitzpatrick, then fireman in charge of the institution's engine room and heating plant, more recently a night watchman at the university.

There were Cardinal Gibbons, who presided at the rites; Bishop John J. Kane, first rector at C. U.; Bishop Gilmore, of Cleveland, who preached the first sermon to the new student body of 45 pupils; Monsignor Schroeder, of Cologne, Germany, who, speaking in Latin, delivered the first lecture to the class, and all the rest, and of them all only Prof. Hyvernat, now more than 73 years old, and "Old Tom" remain.

And yet, says Dr. Hyvernat, it seems no more than the passing of a single day since the time when he and the other three members of the faculty were unable to crowd into the tiny Divinity Chapel in Caldwell Hall where all the bishops, cardinals and other high church dignitaries were attending the dedication ceremonies. The four professors had to guess at what was going on inside.

Anniversary Is Observed.

Celebration of the anniversary was held in the auditorium of McMahon Hall yesterday, attended by students, faculty and friends of the university. The Right Rev. Mgr. Edward A. Pace, vice rector of the university, delivered the opening address and pointed out that the anniversary of the dedication of the institution in 1889 falls in National Education Week this year.

He reviewed the period since the university received its charter from Pope Leo XIII, on the day which marked the centenary anniversary of the founding of the Catholic hierarchy in America. The Paulist Fathers was the first religious order on the campus then, he remarked, reviewing steady development and expansion of the university to the present.

Another speaker was Dr. George Johnson, professor in education, who scored the "bitter controversy and strife between various sects" which has resulted in religion being stricken from the curricula of public schools as educational boards have striven to maintain religious neutrality.

TREATY LIMIT NAVY BY '36 IS REJECTED

but in any case he regarded it essential to get construction on a steady base to go on unchanged year after year, at a speed that will meet replacement needs in every category of combatant vessels. It might take fifteen years of slow building to reach this point, he suggested.

He would not comment on the possibility of a new building program being presented to Congress this year. He held that it is a question for future discussion.

The secret of keeping al the fleet in commission while decreasing expenses lies in the "rotation plan" mentioned by the President when he announced the new, reduced Navy budget, Admiral Pratt explained. Many of the ships will be in "reserve commission," manned by 25 per cent of their normal crews, but ready to jump into action immediately.

The active fleet will not be curtailed in its operations. Every ship in the line will execute its full program. Periodically a number will have their places taken by ships which have been idle.

Probably two of the new 10,000-ton cruisers will be out at a time, for a period of a year. Destroyers in greater number will be tied up for longer periods. Submarines also. Battleships and aircraft carriers may not be affected immediately since three dreadnaughts now are being modernized and carriers are scarce. The 7,500-ton cruisers also will be exempted from the rotation because they are too few and too scattered to be spared.

The war games to be held around Hawaii early next year will not be affected. Pratt plans the greatest fleet concentration ever executed and because of participation by the Army, he is hopeful for the best maneuvers ever conducted by the American fleet.

JURY HOLDS ALLEN ON MURDER CHARGE

Friend of Slain Man Tells Coroner That Shooting Was Unjustified.

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Edwin H. B. Allen, young society man who shot to death Francis A. Donaldson 3d, also socially well known, today was ordered held by a coroner's jury on the charge of murder for the action of the grand jury.

"There has been testimony," said Coroner George R. Huff, before the jury retired, "that Allen shot young Donaldson, and testimony that there was no justification."

The only witness of the killing, Albert Gallatin H. Lucas, friend and confidant of the slain man, was the central figure in the inquest, and told of the shooting in the Allen apartment last Monday night, and the events that led up to it.

Prisoner Absent.

The prisoner was not present. Nor was Rose E. W. Allen, his 18-year-old sister present to hear Lucas say that Donaldson had admitted to him he had been guilty of misconduct with her.

Instead, dressed in black, she was in the sun parlor of the home of friends, working on a jig-saw puzzle. Her father, Horace Allen, lay seriously ill in a bedroom in the same house, having suffered a nervous breakdown last night.

Lucas said he had been summoned to the Bellevue Stratford Hotel by Miss Allen. Donaldson was in the hotel room. There were three hand bags in the room. "I was told to do as Edwin said or get out of the house, and here I am," Lucas testified she said.

She had been told by her brother not to bring Donaldson into their apartment in the Green Hill Farms Hotel.

It was decided that Donaldson and he should go to the Allens and "see if Rose could not come home again."

When they arrived at the Allen apartment young Allen was lying on a couch and the father was sitting in a chair.

"Eddie jumped up and said: 'Get the —— out of here.'" Lucas testified. "With that Eddie made a pass at Skinny—I should say, Mr. Donaldson. Then there was a sort of scuffle and Francis let him have one in the mouth."

Tried to Stop Fight.

Lucas said he held back the father and asked the boys to stop fighting.

Lucas let go of the father and Allen again ordered them from the room. They refused to go and the younger Allen summoned hotel help. Lucas said he and Donaldson again refused to leave.

"Finally," Lucas testified, "Eddie said: 'If you don't go out, I'll get the police.' I said 'That's probably the best thing to do.'"

Allen left and the two visitors and the elder Allen discussed the girl's situation. Mr. Allen denied his daughter had been ordered out of the apartment. He said she was with friends.

When Donaldson and Lucas started out of the apartment they were confronted by young Allen with a shotgun under his arm. The next moment, Lucas said, he heard Allen say "You didn't," or something like that. Then there was a shot and Donaldson fell.

"I stooped down and gave his hand a squeeze," Lucas went on, "and Donaldson said: 'Are you with me?' I said, 'Yes, Skinny, to the end.' He said 'You are always with me to the last.'"

They were his last words.

G. O. P. CHIEFS WAGE SPEAKERSHIP BATTLE

Copeland, of New York, are to call on Mr. Garner for an informal discussion. However, no definite policy is expected to be formed until Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, arrives next week.

On the Senate side, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican floor leader, planned to hold another conference with President Hoover soon to discuss the legislative situation.

The brisk contest between Representatives Rainey, of Illinois; Rankin, of Mississippi; McDuffie, of Alabama; Crisp, of Georgia, and Byrns, of Tennessee, for the Democratic leadership, continued. The floor leader and committee chairmen will be selected at a Democratic caucus December 5.

From Representative Michener, of Michigan, strong administration supporter, came the suggestion of another political holiday in legislation like that of World War days.

"Emergency Just as Great."

"We face just as great an emergency," he said. "It is unfortunate that we have an election in 1932 in view of the present economic condition. Let us hope that legislators will represent all the people and not just a political party."

Mr. Michener said he did not expect House Democrats to abandon the principles of their party. He held, however, that purely political motives should not be the guiding factor in the treatment of legislation, including recommendations of the President.

The Michigan member, who is a ranking Republican on the powerful rules committee, said he favors increases in the higher bracket income taxes, restoration of a gift tax and higher inheritance taxes. He opposes a sales tax.

Michigan G. O. P. Faces Bitter Fight

Elated by Hart's Victory, Democrats Set Out to Win State.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—For the first time in years, Michigan Republican leaders concede the Democrats a chance next year in this stronghold of Republicanism.

Frankly alarmed over the victory of Michael I. Hart, Democratic foe of prohibition and the Farm Board in the dry and preponderantly agricultural Eighth Congressional District, the party's chieftains are preparing for the bitterest fight in years. Hart is the first Democratic representative elected in the Eighth District since 1895.

The Democratic State organization, more optimistic than in a decade or more, is preparing to consolidate its advance into the Republican stronghold. Some party leaders have suggested Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit, reelected this month by one of the greatest majorities Detroit voters ever gave a mayoralty candidate, as the gubernatorial standard bearer. Mayor Murphy has taken no public notice of the suggestion.

Dr. N. L. Wilson Dies; Originated "Adrenalin"

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Dr. Norton L. Wilson, noted eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, generally credited with coining the word "adrenalin," died in the General Hospital today. He was 70 years old. Death was caused by a heart ailment from which he had suffered for some time.

Sheriff's Slayers Die in Chair.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Walter Ralls, 34, and Blanton Ralls, 19, his nephew, both Negroes, were put to death in the electric chair of the Ohio Penitentiary tonight for the killing of Sheriff George Davenport, of Crawford County, almost a year ago.

INDIA GIVES BRITAIN FIVE DAYS OF GRACE

Gandhi Repudiates Truce on Minorities and Lays Plans to Leave.

London, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi repudiated the communal agreement between Moslems and smaller Indian minorities today and announced that on Thursday he intends to leave London because he has abandoned all hope of obtaining independence for India.

At a meeting of the minorities committee of the round-table conference, Mr. Gandhi took sharp issue with Prime Minister MacDonald, who presided. The Nationalist leader expressed astonishment that the prime minister should have said the minorities agreement, reached yesterday, was acceptable to 46 per cent of India's population.

Asserting his Nationalists are at least 85 per cent of India, the mahatma declared he would renew the anti-British campaign rather than permit an arrangement under which the "untouchables" would remain a separate caste.

When the meeting was over Mr. Gandhi told questioners that only a drastic change in the government's attitude toward the Nationalists could avert a return of chaos and tragedy in India and utter prostration of British trade.

The government has until Thursday for a change of heart, he said. On Thursday he plans to go to Paris to make an address. Later he will go to Geneva to discuss measures for relieving the world's woes.

J. C. Christopher Expires in Hospital

Deputy Clerk of Montgomery County to Be Buried Tomorrow.

James C. Christopher, 51 years old, deputy clerk to the Montgomery County Commissioners for the Western Suburban District, died yesterday at Georgetown Hospital, where he was taken Wednesday night suffering from spinal meningitis. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, 6407 Delaware avenue, Chevy Chase, Md. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Rockville, Md.

Mr. Christopher was born in Baltimore, the son of James C. Christopher and Mrs. Henrietta Griffith Christopher. He moved to Laytonsville District in early youth. He was a farmer in that district until about 10 years ago when he entered the office of Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, at Rockville. In 1927 he was appointed deputy clerk for the Bethesda district. Since then he has been reappointed yearly.

Mr. Christopher is survived by his widow, the former Miss Irene Yearley of Rockville; a son, James C. Christopher 3d, and a sister, Mrs. Samuel Riggs, widow of Judge Samuel Riggs, late judge of the county police court.

MRS. CARAWAY NAMED TO SENATE

Democratic hopes for organizing the Senate.

As the wife of a representative for eight years and of a senator for ten years, Mrs. Caraway has acquired a wide knowledge of the workings of national politics and government, although she always kept herself in the background.

She was the close adviser of Senator Caraway on all important questions. Her friends say she possesses the same sharpness of tongue and caustic wit as her husband.

On her visits to her home in Jonesboro, she was in great demand as a speaker before women's clubs on political questions.

In 1920 when her husband first ran for the Senate, Mrs. Caraway was an active worker in his headquarters, and her friends gave her much of the credit for the large political following which he had in Arkansas.

She has three sons, Lieuts. Paul and Forrest Caraway, 26 and 22, respectively, who are West Point graduates, and Robert, 15, a student in Washington. She and Senator Caraway lived in an old colonial mansion in Maryland, near Washington, which they bought several years ago.

Born at Bakersville, Tenn., on February 1, 1878, she attended Dickson College, Dickson, Tenn., where she first met Senator Caraway. They were married in 1902 and thereafter made their home in northeast Arkansas.

The State Democratic central committee will meet December 1 to nominate a candidate to succeed Senator Caraway for the unexpired term. The nomination is equivalent to election.

(Associated Press.)

Man's last political stronghold—the United States Senate—was pierced yesterday with the appointment of Mrs. Thaddeus H. Caraway to succeed her late husband as senator from Arkansas.

A Republican is expected to be appointed, however, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Morrow, of New Jersey, which will make the line-up 48, 47—1, unless there are other changes in the meanwhile.

Mrs. Felton, who was known as "The Grand Old Lady of Georgia," was appointed to the Senate as a courtesy.

She was chosen by Gov. Hardwick in 1922 to fill a vacancy created by the death of Senator Thomas E. Watson. Before she took her oath, however, the State had elected Walter F. George in a special election.

George withheld his credentials for one day so that Mrs. Felton could receive the honor of being the first woman senator.

Mrs. Caraway's selection was hailed yesterday by officers of the National Woman's party. Miss Maude Younger, congressional chairman of the party, said "No one is so well fitted to fill her husband's vacancy as Mrs. Caraway."

Miss Muna Lee, director of national activities, said the party would "thoroughly rejoice" at having a woman senator and predicted Mrs. Caraway would aid in removing inequalities against women in the law.

BOND FIXED FOR MAN IN AGENT'S SHOOTING

Harding Held for $10,000; Harry D. McMunn, Victim, Slightly Better.

Aubrey Harding, who is said to have confessed to shooting a dry agent during a raid on a still near Rosaryville, Md., was held in bond of $10,000 yesterday on liquor charges preferred against him before U. S. Commissioner J. Frank Parran in Marlboro.

A warrant charging the Spotsylvania, Va., youth with assault with a dangerous weapon was also sworn out, but no bond on this charge has been set. Prince Georges County officials also have Virginia warrants which charge Harding with being a fugitive from justice in that State.

The dry agent who was shot early Thursday morning, Harry D. McMunn, was reported to be slightly better at Providence Hospital last night.

Two other young men from the Virginia town, Marshall Green and Nelson Patton, were also charged with possession of liquor, manufacture and possession of a still. They are alleged to have been concerned in the operation of the still Harding is said to have been tending when McMunn led a raiding squad to it. Green and Patton were held in bond of $5,000.

The liquor charges against the three were sworn to by dry agents, but the assault charge is being pressed by county officers at the request of the agents. According to these officials, they also have fugitive warrants against Green and Patton, and none of the three can be released until they have posted bond with the Virginia authorities.

Attorney J. Wilson Ryon has been retained by friends of the three youths to defend them. He was present at the hearing yesterday.

Brandeis Receives Many Felicitations

Messages From All Over World Greet Seventy-fifth Anniversary.

(Associated Press.)

Congratulations from all over the United States and many other parts of the globe arrived yesterday at the home of Justice Louis Dembitz Brandeis as he celebrated his 75th birthday.

Telegrams and cabled best wishes from friends everywhere added their bulk to letters piled high on Justice Brandeis' desk. An admirer in remote Australia cabled wishes for happy returns.

Aside from the record pile of correspondence to which the Justice gave personal attention, the day passed without incident. His office is maintained at home, so he had no need to go to the Capitol.

Fifteen years on the bench of the Nation's highest court have dealt kindly with Justice Brandeis. He enjoys excellent health which enables him to do full justice to his multifold duties. His interest in court and outside affairs is as keen now as when he first took office.

Schools to Close Early To Aid Benefit Shows

District school officials have signified their intention of cooperating with the committee on unemployment by allowing school children who may wish to attend the special benefit matinees being given in local theaters for the relief of the unemployed, to leave school at 2:45 p. m. instead of 3 p. m. on benefit matinee day, Wednesday, November 18, according to an announcement made yesterday at the Franklin School.

The metropolitan police force will be on duty at the schools at the earlier hour to give the usual crossing protection to the children who may be going to the matinee.

Lawyers Fail to Find Buried Treasure Box

Hope of finding a buried box of treasure which William Owens, 71, accused of slaying a 14-year-old girl, claims he hid in the basement of his home at Greater Capitol Heights, Md., dimmed yesterday when an empty hole was found.

Owens' attorneys, Joseph di Leo and John P. Mullen, announced last night that unless Owens' brother, David, can lead them to the spot where the money is hidden, the search will be abandoned. The lawyers thus far have been guided by a map given to David Owens by the accused man, whose defense is that he shot Elsie Louise Bryan by accident when he was attempting to shoot a youth with whom, he declares, she had plotted to rob him.

Scions of Jefferson Hold Session Here

Association Organized to Provide Memorial to Third President.

Several descendants of the author of the Declaration of Independence were guests last night at a meeting of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association at the Hay-Adams House. The association was organized to provide a suitable memorial in the District for the third President.

The guests included Col. Jefferson Randolph Kean and Mrs. Kean and their son, Robert Hill Kean, Col. Kean being the great-great-grandson of Thomas Jefferson, and Mrs. Allen M. Sumner and her daughter, Miss Margaret K. Sumner. Temporary officers of the association will be named at a meeting November 19.

Francis Scott Key-Smith, great-great-grandson of the author of "The Star-Spangled Banner," was named chairman of the nominations committee.

Capital Baptist Churches In Convention Next Week

Gathering Will Be the Fifty-fourth and Will Last Three Days—Sessions to Be Held in National Memorial Church.

The fifty-fourth annual convention of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches convenes at the National Baptist Memorial Church, Sixteenth street and Columbia road, on Tuesday morning and will continue with day and evening sessions through Thursday. The Rev. Samuel Judson Porter is moderator; W. W. Everett, vice moderator; S. G. Nottingham, clerk, and George B. Bryan, treasurer.

The program on Tuesday morning includes the election of officers, the enrollment of delegates, the reading of the letters from the 27 churches included in the association from the District of Columbia and nearby Maryland. Reports from the executive board, treasurer, the trustees of the Baptist Home for Children and the Baptist Home for the Aged will be given in the afternoon, followed by an address by Bishop William F. McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The evening service will be devoted to Sunday school work, with E. B. Shaver, chairman on Sunday school work, presiding. Children from the Baptist Home for Children will present exercises in keeping with the topic for the evening. The Rev. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist Church, of Atlanta, Ga., will deliver an address.

The work of the women's missionary organizations of the District will feature the program on Wednesday morning, with reports of the various committees and treasurer, and addresses by Miss Minnie V. Sandberg, and Mrs. W. Eugene Salee, representatives of the Northern and Southern missionary boards. The afternoon and evening sessions will be devoted to a discussion of the missionary activities of the denomination, with addresses by the Rev. Austen K. de Blois, the Rev. William H. Allison, the Rev. J. B. Lawrence, and the Rev. Dana Murphy Albaugh, missionary from the Belgian Congo.

The annual convention sermon will be delivered on Thursday morning by the Rev. Samuel Judson Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and the various committees will report on the work of the year. Miss Gertrude S. de Clercq, secretary for missions of the Home Mission Society, Dr. Alfred W. Yocum, medical missionary from North China, and the Rev. John R. Sampey, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, will deliver addresses in the afternoon, to be followed by miscellaneous business.

The closing session of the convention will be given over to the work of the young people's organizations, with Chairman Thomas R. Wilson presiding. The closing address will be delivered by the Rev. Theodore F. Adams, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Toledo, Ohio.

Robber of Shoemaker Given 10-Year Term

Justice James M. Proctor yesterday sentenced Vincent Bruno, alias Louis Martini, to serve 10 years in prison following his conviction on a charge of having taken $1,300 from Letterio Brigulio, a shoemaker, of 4602 Fourteenth street northwest.

Through one of the ancient money handling games Bruno got the shoemaker to give him the $1,300 and when the shoemaker looked for his money later it was gone.

Interstate Gangster Law to Be Framed

Proposal Would Extend Commerce Regulation to Criminals.

(Associated Press.)

A heavier fist for Uncle Sam in crushing the Al Capone of gangsterland is the purpose of legislation planned for the new Congress by Representative Woodruff.

Encouraged by the Government's success in reaching racketeers through income tax laws, the Michigan Republican would utilize the Federal powers under the commerce clause of the Constitution to reach interstate organized crime.

Woodruff said yesterday he will propose legislation to give the Government authority to send to jail gangsters who cross State lines. He said the Mann act and the Harrison narcotic act were built on the same constitutional power.

SECRECY HELD ISSUE IN RUM INDICTMENT

Tydings and Tumulty Attack Charges in Baltimore Conspiracy Case.

Baltimore, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—United States Senator Millard E Tydings and Joseph P. Tumulty, once secretary to President Woodrow Wilson, yesterday appeared in Federal Court to attack the validity of three indictments charging 16 firms and 36 individuals with conspiracy to convert lacquer thinner into beverage alcohol.

The court was asked to dismiss the indictments and told unauthorized persons were permitted in the grand jury room in the six weeks' investigation that ended in return of the true bills. The Government called the case as the largest liquor conspiracy uncovered in the country in the history of prohibition.

Defense attorneys in seeking the quashing of the indictments charged the secrecy of the grand jury proceedings had been violated because Edward I. L. Koontz, appointed special United States attorney so he could take stenographic notes of the testimony, had not transcribed the notes himself on a typewriter, but had permitted that to be done by someone else.

Government attorneys declared there was no statute requiring that proceedings of the grand jury be kept secret.

Senator Tydings declared that the grand jury was a shield of the people and not an instrument of the Government. He traced the history of grand jury proceedings and pointed out that for 200 years it had been the custom to keep secret matters coming before that body so as to protect innocent people.

At the session Mr. Tumulty sat at the counsel table.

Judge William C. Coleman said he would take the matter under advisement. No date was set for handing down a decision.

Some of the firms seeking dismissal of the charges were the United States Industrial Alcohol Co., the United States Industrial Chemical Co., the Amazon Industrial Chemical Co., and the Baltimore Paint & Color works.

Hunter Finds Body Of Woman in Wood

Fur Coat Thought Bought in Capital Is One Clew; Dead 7 Months.

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, Nov. 13.—Apparently dead about seven months, the body of a woman, who had died from an undetermined cause, was found by a gunner, William Strickland, of South Media, Pa., in dense woods on the 60-acre estate of the Garrett Williamson Lodge, 2 miles south of Newton Square, near the highway which leads to Baltimore and Washington.

Strickland told the story of his find to detectives who went to the scene. The body was devoid of any mark of identification with the exception of a label on an expensive fur coat which is believed to have been purchased in Washington, D. C. Because of condition of the label it was impossible to make out the store name.

Belief that the skeleton is that of a school teacher or musician was announced when nearby was found a small silver pitch whistle, at first believed to be a lipstick. A vial, about a third full of pale pink fluid, and a hypodermic needle also were found. Contents of the vial will be analyzed in hope of finding a clew to the cause of death.

Dr. Simon Is Honored On School Appointment

Following services at which Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, celebrated Jewish leader of New York City, was principal speaker, the Washington Jewish Congregation held a reception last night in the honor of Dr. Abram Simon, newly elected president of the District School Board.

In his talk Dr. Wise appealed for the congregation's aid toward remedying conditions which exist among the Jewry of eastern Europe, particularly in Poland.

Mountain Slaying Laid to Jealousy

Hearing May Be Waived for Woman Held in Death of Husband.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Nov. 13.—The fact that Mrs. Blanche Deavers, 42, admits that she killed her husband, C. W. Deavers, November 2, will probably result in the woman not being given a preliminary trial. Nothing material to the mountain tragedy could be adduced by it, it is pointed out by lawyers.

Those close to the Deavers family in the Blue Ridge, ten miles north of Luray, declare that jealousy prompted the crime. It is alleged that Deavers on numerous occasions had upbraided his wife for intimacy with other men. When Mrs. Deavers came to Luray and surrendered to Sheriff Lucas soon after she had murdered her husband she said her life was a daily dread, believing she would at some time be slain by him.

Schoolgirl Driver Must Stay in Jail

Philadelphia Judge Refuses to Consider Parole Until Thanksgiving.

Philadelphia, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Pleas of influential citizens, including Mayor Harry A. Mackey, failed today to win freedom for Mary Mazmanian, 18-year-old high school senior, who has served nine days of a six months' sentence as a result of an automobile accident in which two men were injured.

The girl was convicted of assault and battery by automobile. The Commonwealth charged that on September 14 she drove between 40 and 60 miles an hour, swerved to avoid hitting a truck and crashed into the window of a drug store. John Hirsh and John Cipriotti were injured by flying glass.

Informed that a delegation had called on the mayor, asking him to intervene, Judge Utley Crane, who presided at the trial, said today: "I will not consider the girl's case before Thanksgiving Eve under any consideration."

NEW JERSEY BANK LOOTED OF $81,000

Five Robbers Escape After Locking Victims in Cashier's Cage.

Rahway, N. J., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Citizens National Bank early today handed over $81,000 in payroll money to five men, who made their demands behind loaded guns.

The money had arrived in an armored car just a few minutes before the robbery. Thirteen persons, some of them paymasters for local firms, others employes of the bank, were held at bay while the robbers scooped the loot into a waste basket.

There was no alarm system and officials of the bank were not in position to grasp emergency revolvers. The robbers jumped into an automobile and escaped.

Suspect Is Arrested.

A little later in the day August Holdireid, 19, was arrested at Elizabeth, N. J. He told the police the robbers had jumped from their own car at Linden, N. J., and commandeered his, forcing him to drive to Newark. He said there were six men, and he dropped all except two off before he got to Newark, where the pair entered a house, leaving behind $100 and a revolver.

The five robbers showed surprising acquaintance with the interior of the bank. They were unmasked. One man walked behind the tellers' cages and stopped at that of Martin F. Getting, where lay $82,000. Another walked to the counter in front of the teller. The third moved quickly toward J. H. Farrell, paymaster.

Covers Employes.

The other two covered the remainder of the group.

The robber behind the cages picked up a waste paper basket, scooped all but $1,080 of the $82,000 into it, and backed away.

One robber herded the customers, clerks, and others to a cage in the rear of the bank and locked them in.

Burlington, N. C., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Two masked bandits held up J. A. Long, cashier of the Bank of Haw River, 2 miles east of here today and robbed him of $1,000.

Long came to Burlington today to get the $1,000 in small bills and silver for use in making up pay rolls at Haw River. Mrs. Long accompanied him.

They were on their way back to Haw River when an automobile occupied by the two men drove up alongside Long's car. The bandits flourished pistols, forced Long to stop his car and took the money.

Escape With $2,011.

New Hope, Ky., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Locking three employes in a vault, two robbers escaped with $2,011 in a hold-up today at the People's Bank here. They fled with a third man in an automobile bearing Indiana license plates.

When the robbers entered the bank they ordered T. J. Miller, cashier, and Miss Wilhelmina Gilkey, bookkeeper, to put all available money into a sack. P. D. Corbett, assistant cashier, was in a rear room at the time and entered the bank during the hold-up. He and Miller and Miss Gilkey were forced to enter a vault, in which they remained until their cries attracted a passerby.

Police last night were investigating the death of Elizabeth Newman, 27, colored, of 2725 Poplar place northwest, who died in Gallinger Hospital without regaining consciousness after being taken to the institution Thursday for treatment for alcoholic poisoning.

Nimrod White, 36, of the same address, and Lizzie Gattis, 48, of 2726 Poplar place, both colored, are being held on an open charge pending the investigation. The woman had been taken to Gallinger after a call had been made for an ambulance.

VIRGINIA SENATORS BACK BYRD FOR '32

ship was brilliant and unsurpassed in the history of Virginia. If Maryland is going to have a favorite son, we shall have one, too."

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—More "love, forbearance and neighborliness," instead of so many experts and so much "talk" was the economic prescription Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, wrote tonight for America.

"If we could all once get our feet on the ground, see things whole and recover our morale, this crisis would be over the sooner," the Academy of Political Science was told by the man who frequently has been mentioned as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Perhaps we have too many doctors at the bedside," he continued; "too many plans and experts; too much diagnosis and prognosis; too much talk and too little action."

Swope Defends Plan.

The Governor spoke at the evening session of the Academy's annual meeting. The principal speaker at the afternoon session was Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., who defended the plan he outlined two months ago for stabilizing of industry.

The plan calls for the control of wages and production, the standardization of products, and the supervision of trade practices through trade associations under governmental supervision. It also provides that employers and employes share equally in paying for unemployment insurance.

Mr. Swope argued today that the supervision of the trade associations by a Federal board would preclude the possibility of the trade groups boosting prices by overcurtailing production.

Anti-Trust Change Urged.

He suggested the modification of the Sherman antitrust law to remove the "criminal aspects of the law and to allow companies to make agreements which would be filed with the Department of Justice." He said this would encourage companies to participate in his plan by joining the trade associations.

He also suggested corporations might be allowed to deduct from their Federal taxes the sums which they might contribute to employe insurance fund.

Critics who had said the plan would put the Government in business were told by Mr. Swope the Government would act only as a referee, while the trade associations took all the initiative.

Hoover Proposes Plan For Home Loan Banks

The text of President Hoover's statement on home loan discount banks is as follows:

I shall propose to Congress the establishment of a system of home loan discount banks for four purposes:

1. For the present emergency purpose of relieving the financial strains upon sound building and loan associations, savings banks, deposit banks, and farm loan banks that have been giving credit through the medium of small mortgage loans upon urban and farm properties used for homes. Thereby to relieve pressures upon home and farm owners.

2. To put the various types of institutions loaning on mortgage in a position to assist in the revival of home construction in many parts of the country and with its resultant increase in employment.

3. To safeguard against the repetition of such experience in the future.

4. For the long-view purpose of strengthening such institutions in the promotion of home ownership particularly through the financial strength thus made available to building and loan associations.

* * * *

The immediate credit situation has for the time being in many parts of the country restricted severely the activities of building and loan associations, deposit banks, including country banks, and savings departments, savings banks and farm loan companies in such a fashion that they are not only not able to extend credit through new mortgages to home and farm owners but are only too often unable to renew mortgages or give consideration to those in difficulty with resultant great hardships to borrowers and a definite depreciation of real estate values in the areas where such pressures exist.

A considerable part of our unemployment is due to stagnation in residential construction. It is true there has been some overbuilding in certain localities in the boom years. But even in these localities the inevitable need is obscured by the tendency of the population to huddle temporarily, due to unemployment. The real need steadily accumulates with increasing population and will become evident and insistent as we come out of the depression. The high importance of residential construction as a matter of employment is indicated by the fact that more than 200,000 individual homes are erected annually in normal times, which, with initial furnishing, contribute more than $2,000,000,000 to our construction and other industries. This construction has greatly diminished. Its revival would provide for employment in the most vital way.

As a people we need at all times the encouragement of home ownership, and a large part of such action is only possible through an opportunity to obtain long-term loans, payable in installments. It is urgently important, therefore, that we provide some method for bringing into continuing and steady action the great facilities of such of these great national and local loaning concerns as have been under pressure and should provide against such difficulties in the future.

The farm mortgage situation presents many difficulties to which this plan would give aid.

I have consulted with representatives of the various groups granting credit on mortgage loans for the home and farm as well as Government officials and other economic agencies, and as a practical solution from the various needs and the various ideas advanced, I propose the following general principles for the creation of an institution for such purpose:

(a) That there be established twelve home loan discount banks (if necessary), one in each Federal Reserve District, under the direction of a Federal Home Loan Board.

(b) The capital of these discount banks shall be initially of minimum of $5,000,000 to $30,000,000 as may be determined by the Federal board upon the basis of the aggregate of such mortgage loans and probable needs of the particular district.

(c) The proposed discount banks to make no initial or direct mortgages but to loan only upon the obligations of the loaning institutions secured by the mortgage loans as collateral so as to assure and expand the functioning of such institutions.

(d) Building and loan associations, savings banks, deposit banks, farm loan banks, &c., may become members of the system after they have satisfied the conditions of qualifications and eligibility that may be fixed by the Federal board.

(e) The mortgage loans eligible for collateral shall not exceed $15,000 each and shall be limited to urban and farm property used for home purposes.

(f) The maximum amount to be advanced against the mortgage collateral not to exceed more than 50 per cent of the unpaid balance on unamortized or short term mortgage loans and not more than 60 per cent of the unpaid balance of amortized long term mortgages, and no advance to be made on mortgages in default. Such loans are to be made on the basis that there are sound appraisals of the property upon which such mortgages have been made. In other words, given sound appraisals, there will be advanced in the case of short term or unamortized loans 25 per cent of the appraisal and in case of amortized long term loans, 30 per cent of the appraised value of the property.

(g) The discount banks as their needs require from time to time to issue bonds or short term notes to investors to an amount not to exceed in the aggregate twelve times the capital of the issuing bank. The bonds of these Discount Banks would be thus secured by the obligations of the borrowing institutions, the mortgages deposited as collateral against such obligations and the capital of the Discount banks. These bonds to be acceptable for security for Government and postal deposits. The result would be a bond of high grade as to quality and security.

(h) If the aggregate initial capital of the Discount banks should, in the beginning, be fixed at $150,000,000 it would be possible for the twelve banks to finance approximately something over $1,800,000,000 of advance to the borrowing institutions, which could be further expanded by increase in their capital.

(i) It is proposed to find the initial capital stock, for the discount banks in much the same way, insofar as is applicable, as the capital was found for the Federal Reserve banks—that is, that an organization committee in each district should first offer the capital to the institutions which would participate in the service of the bank. And as was provided in respect to the Federal Reserve banks, if the initial capital is not wholly thus provided, it should be subscribed by the Federal Government; and further, somewhat as was provided in the case of the Federal Land banks other institutions using the facilities of the discount banks should be required to purchase from time to time from the Government some proportionate amount of its holdings of stock if there be any. In this manner any Government capital will gradually pass over to private ownership as was the case in the Federal Land banks.

The above details of the proposal are put forward as suggestions in order to give clarity to the central idea rather than as inflexible conclusions. The whole plan would necessarily be subject to the action of Congress and many parts of it will no doubt need development.

There is no element of inflation in the plan, but simply a better organization of credit for these purposes.

This proposed institution does not in any way displace the National Credit Association, which occupies an entirely different field of action."

tion to those in difficulty, with resultant great hardships to borrowers and a definite depreciation of real estate values in the areas where such pressures exist.

One Cause of Depression.

"A considerable part of our unemployment is due to stagnation in residential construction. It is true there has been some overbuilding in certain localities in the boom years. But even in these localities the inevitable need is obscured by the tendency of the population to huddle, temporarily, due to unemployment. The real need steadily accumulates with increasing population and will become evident and insistent as we come out of the depression.

"The high importance of residential construction as a matter of employment is indicated by the fact that more than 200,000 individual homes are erected annually in normal times, which, with initial furnishing, contribute more than $2,000,000,000 to our construction and other industries. This construction has greatly diminished. Its revival would provide for employment in the most vital way.

"As a people, we need at all times the encouragement of home ownership, and a large part of such action is only possible through an opportunity to obtain long-term loans payable in installments. It is urgently important, therefore, that we provide for some method for bringing into continuing and steady action the great facilities of such of these great national and local loaning concerns as have been under pressure and should provide against such difficulties in the future."

Glass to Study Plan.

Senator Glass, of Virginia, coauthor of the Federal Reserve act and vigorous defender of that system against all ill-considered modifications or expansions, was one of the congressional leaders consulted by the President when he began his formal outline of the project. Senator Glass offered no comment on the President's statement last night, beyond an assurance that as ranking Democratic member of the Senate committee on banking and currency he would give the plan thorough consideration.

The project is regarded generally as the first concrete development from the President's conference on home building and ownership, set up in August, 1930, to deal with the various aspects of the home builder's problem. Frederick H. Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., is chairman of the conference committee on finance. Reports from 30 other committees are now in preparation. They will be presented at the first plenary gathering of the conference here on December 2.

The proposal was put forward, President Hoover said, in a form which would "give clarity to the central idea rather than as inflexible conclusions."

"The whole plan would necessarily be subject to the action of Congress, and many parts of it will, no doubt, need development," he said.

He was equally emphatic in the statement that "there is no element of inflation in the plan." It seeks simply "a better organization of credit for these purposes."

RAIL CHIEFS BALLOT TO MEET EMPLOYES

J. G. Gorman, president of the Rock Island; Southern—C. A. Wickersham, president of the Atlanta and West Point; A. C. Needles, president of the Norfolk & Western, and H. H. Pollard, president of the Central of Georgia.

Those who advocated the joint conference, it is said, pointed out that the railway presidents, by simply meeting with the brotherhoods' representatives, did not admit anything as to either wages or working conditions.

The railway officials are hoping that their employes will voluntarily suggest a reduction of wages, at least temporarily, and it is thought that if the employers and the workers can get together and air their views at a friendly conference some good may result. However, it is explained, the final decision as to wages and working conditions must be made by the individual roads where different conditions prevail.

The railroad officials also call attention to the fact that the unions do not represent all of the labor employed by the lines. Consequently it is thought that the result of the coming joint meeting will have to be discussed and worked out by each road before any action can be taken one way or the other.

HOOVER AND GRANDI WILL SEEK PANACEA

Conferences Here Are Likely to Prove of Great Aid to Friendships.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

A bristling cluster of international misunderstandings, with the continuing troubles of Germany at its center, will command the earnest attention of President Hoover and Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy, when they meet in Washington next week.

Grandi in approaching American shores convinced that all Europe, and Germany in particular, stands in urgent need of relief from the burdens and the enmities that followed the Great War.

Mr. Hoover is prepared to go as far as he can consistently toward further alleviation of those burdens, pledging a new American cooperation toward a reconstructed world relationship.

To what degree these mutual desires can be translated into concrete action remains problematical. The feeling in Washington is that the conferences are more likely to foster intangible sentiments of friendship than to lead to specific acts like those which came out of the meeting of President Hoover and Premier Laval, of France. But the conviction is universal that real good will result.

Viewpoints of Conferees.

From authentic sources, the Associated Press presents herewith the convictions of the Italian foreign minister and the American President as they approach their meeting.

Grandi has had borne home to him in many ways the irritations throughout Europe originating from the war. He regards Germany as the chief present danger point. He has visited there in recent weeks, and just before he left Rome he gathered together every scrap of official information as to the German situation respecting reparations and the possibilities of political revolution.

He feels that Germany is on a smouldering volcano. He has faith that she will emerge triumphant eventually, but that everything possible should be done quickly to remove the uncertainty from her future.

He regards President Hoover's proposal of a year's war debt and reparations holiday as a stroke of genius. He fears, however, that the delay and debate which preceded its full acceptance has made a bad impression, and that America will be thinking: "We have done everything possible for you, but you won't accept our hand stretched out to help you. We may as well withdraw, and leave you to your fate."

Would Speak as European.

Grandi believes that if his coming to America has any value, it will be that of demonstrating that there is another Europe besides that which sticks to the letter of the Versailles treaty. As there are no points of conflict between the United States and Italy, he hopes to speak to Mr. Hoover more as a European than as merely an Italian.

Italy believes, like the United States, in smaller armies and navies. She hopes to see her naval treaty with France, now under negotiation, concluded before the arms conference of next February. She sees eye to eye with Washington on most economic questions, such as the gold standard. Above all, she wants such a readjustment in Europe as will remove present danger spots and let the company of nations go forward, forgetting the war and building solely for the future.

Signor Grandi will find President Hoover a good listener. The United States would like to see the European tangle unraveled once and for all. It can not propose nor be a party to the solution of purely European questions, nor to the revision of the treaty of Versailles, which it did not sign. It does have this definite interest: It is anxious that the existing irritations be not permitted to lead to war. Laval was told this, and Grandi will be told this.

Hoover Opposes Cancellation.

So far as reparations and war debts are concerned, the President is eager for a helpful solution, but stands on his opposition to cancellation. The American Government never has considered such a sweeping step necessary. It has offered, first, a year's moratorium; secondly, American cooperation in whatever further scaling down may be found needful after an examination of all the facts.

Hoover and Laval agreed that the initiative for this latter step must come from Europe, and the European nations now are discussing the form of this initiative. It is the hope here that an agreement will be possible shortly.

Both the American and Italian governments are convinced that Germany herself must do everything within her power to save herself, or else all outside help will fail. There is a mutual belief that the conferences here may bolster German confidence and help direct it along the most beneficial lines.

Mrs. McLean Acts To Enjoin Divorce

Petition Says Publisher Has Spent $100,000 in Trip to Europe.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean petitioned the District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday to enjoin her husband, Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, from seeking a divorce at Riga, Latvia.

She charged he had fled this country to evade prosecution "for the transportation in interstate commerce of a woman for immoral purposes," and to deprive her and their three children of support directed by local courts.

Mrs. McLean named Rose Douras Van Cleve, also known as Rose Davies, and averred that McLean had brought her improperly to the family residence.

The petition said McLean last July received more than $100,000 upon an agreement to devote it to the needs of The Washington Post and "almost immediately" afterward left for Europe, "where he squandered much of the aforesaid sum in extravagant living with the said Rose Davies."

Fund Complete For Apples.

Capt. T. M. Hamilton, chairman of the apple fund, has received a sum in excess of $350 for the purchase of apples for the school children at the lunch hour daily. It is stated that the distribution of apples will begin on Monday next.

Panama Steamer Service Dropped

U. S. Withdraws So as Not to Compete With Private Lines.

(Associated Press.)

Discontinuance of the steamship service by the Panama Railway Steamship Line between New York and the West Coast of South America was announced yesterday by Secretary Hurley.

The Secretary said the board of directors of the Panama Railroad Co., a Government concern, had voted unanimously to abandon the service on or before December 31.

The department added that an American steamship company, the Grace Line, has entered this field and the withdrawal "is in line with the policy of the Government keeping out of competition with American private interests."

THOUSANDS OF REDS FACE JAIL IN CANADA

Dominion Plans Round-Up of Party as Eight Leaders Get Prison Terms.

Toronto, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Thousands of Canadian Communists faced arrest as eight of their leaders were sentenced to prison today and authorization was issued for the confiscation of all the party's property in Canada.

Seven of the defendants were given five-year and two-year sentences, to run concurrently. The court recommended they be deported after the expiration of their terms. The eighth defendant was given a one-year and a two-year sentence, also to run concurrently.

The trial and conviction of the eight for belonging to an unlawful organization and for conspiring against the government followed one of the longest and most intensive investigations ever conducted by the Canadian Royal Mounted Police.

When the jury ruled the defendants were members of an unauthorized organization, it paved the way for the arrest of the 4,000 or 5,000 Communists whose names appear on party rolls confiscated by Sergt. John Leopold during his seven years' inside investigation.

The attorney general of Ontario said he would turn over these lists and other evidence collected by the mounted police to attorney generals of other provinces, so they could round up the entire membership.

In Calgary, Alberta, Phil Luck, Communist leader and candidate for mayor in an approaching election, said the Communists would carry their fight to be called a legal organization to the party council if necessary. He said he doubted whether the government legally could deport any more persons than already have been sent out of the country.

At the department of justice, however, it was said the naturalization act provides for the cancellation of naturalization papers in case of conviction for a criminal offense.

military maneuver in Eastern Siberia, but that was thwarted by President Wilson. Since then, lustful Japanese eyes have been turned toward Magdalena Bay and Lower California.

"One reaction in America to this state of affairs, very likely, will be an attempt in Congress to give Japan a place among the quota nations, under the immigration laws. Should this proposal be made, it will be seriously pressed, and will be resisted with equal vigor. To this matter, we should give careful attention and attempt to meet the situation when it arises in a form sufficiently active to demand attention in Congress."

W. H. MOSES RITES TO BE TOMORROW

Prominent Merchant Born in Ohio, Widely Known in Civic Circles.

Funeral rites for William Henderson Moses, chairman of the board of W. B. Moses & Sons, will be held from the Church of the Most Blessed Sacrament at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Interment will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Moses died suddenly at his home, 3033 Sixteenth street northwest, late Thursday evening. He had been seriously ill for several days, but it was not believed at the time that his condition was dangerous.

He was born at Cleveland, Ohio, September 8, 1859, and was brought to this city with his family in 1861. He is survived by his wife, Estelle M. Moses; his son, Radford Moses; his brother, Arthur C. Moses, and four grandchildren, all of Washington, and his sister, Mrs. Fannie J. Gosling, of St. Davids, Pa.

During his years in the local business world, Mr. Moses won the friendship and esteem of a host of Washington business men and civic leaders. From the time he took an active part in the original partnership with his father, until he became chairman of the board of W. B. Moses & Sons in 1927, he covered all the branches of modern department store activity.

He served on numerous committees of the Board of Trade and in other civic bodies, including many inaugural committees, and at the close of the Spanish War was chairman of the Admiral Dewey reception committee on the occasion of Dewey's return from the Battle of Manila Bay.

He was educated in the Rittenhouse Academy. After graduation he spent some time at school in England. He had been a charter member of the Columbia Country Club, a life member of the Racquet Club, and of many other local clubs.

As a result of an attack of pneumonia in 1923 Mr. Moses was unable to get around by himself a great deal. He was delighted when friends came to visit him and in the last years of his life added a store of knowledge to others lives, hopes and aspirations.

E. O. Power Rites To Be Held Today

Veteran of 3 Wars Widely Known and Practiced Law in New York.

Funeral services for Maj. E. Ormonde Power, who died in Biarritz, France, on October 21, will be held this morning from the chapel at Fort Myer, Va., at 11 o'clock. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Maj. Power served in the Spanish-American, Filipino Insurrection and the World War. During 1917 he was attached to the 306th Infantry, Seventy-first Division. For many years he was a member of the Seventh Regiment and Twelfth Regiment of the New York National Guard.

He was a member of the Military Order of the Caribou, was a thirty-second degree Mason, Holland Lodge, of New York; the New York Army and Navy Club, Chevy Chase Club, and the Army and Navy Club, of Washington. He was also a member of the New York Bar Association and practiced in that city for many years.

Maj. Power was stationed in Washington for some time during his service in the Army and had many friends here. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Pinkney Gummy Power, and his brother, Dudley P. Power, of Hohokus, N. J.

CHARLES WATTS EXPIRES.

Chief Clerk of Trees Department Had Served 35 Years.

Charles Watts, chief clerk of the District department of trees and parkings, died today at his home, 612½ Seventh street southwest. He was 51 years old and had been connected with the department for 35 years, having started as a water boy with the tree gangs.

When Watts first went to work for the District government, Truman Lanham, father of the present superintendent of trees and parkings, was in charge of the department.

garded as opposed to the reduction thesis of Admiral Pratt came home before the London conference ended on account of illness.

Admiral Hepburn was former chief of staff for Admiral Pratt and is now in charge of the submarine fleet of the United States, on board the U. S. S. Bushnell at Philadelphia. Brig. Gen. George S. Simonds will advise on the military features of the conference for the United States and the ensemble of the general technical and diplomatic details will be handled by J. Theodore Marriner, former chief of the division of western Europe, who has made a profound study of disarmament for Secretary Stimson.

The list of delegates to be appointed by the President will not be made for some time, it was expected. Several of the men whom the President would like to name will not be available for the extended absence from Washington that the disarmament conference will entail and he is casting about carefully before announcing the membership of the official delegation.

Pell to Handle Press.

Robert Thompson Pell, who handled so capably the details of the visit of French Premier Laval to this country, has been placed in charge of press relations.

The conversations between Signor Grandi and the Secretary of State will revolve around the two topics closest to the respective interests of both countries. The United States is anxious to establish a disarmament program that will be assured of some definite adoption by the assembled delegates. The strategic needs of France will not allow any great reduction of French military expenditures, but Italy, which has been sorely pressed by the recent economic depression, will be anxious to achieve some kind of military reduction that will enable her to cut her army and navy budget. The funds thus released would be applied to the industrial and economic improvement of Italy, under the broad scheme of improvement laid down by Premier Mussolini.

If the necessities of the United States tend toward disarmament, Italy's are even more vitally concerned with the revision of the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain. In his previous conversations with Secretary Stimson, in Italy last year and during the London Naval Conference, Signor Grandi exposed the needs of Italy with her rapidly expanding population.

Italy Gained No Territory.

Italy, he stressed during those conversations, has already 1,000,000 more population than France, and nevertheless is one of the allied countries that did not benefit by the territorial changes of the postwar treaties. What will become of this rapidly accumulating excess of population? France, with her valuable territories in Africa, north and central, has ample colonial resources for her population, which Signor Grandi will advantageously point out has no corresponding necessity in the comparatively slow increase in French population.

President Hoover, during his conversations with French Premier Laval, touched on the various phases to be opened up by the general disarmament conference, but it is not believed that he was able to reach any understanding with the French statesman except on the most negligible details of disarmament.

The complete list of advisers for the Geneva conference is as follows:

For the State Department, Theodore Marriner, counselor of embassy.

Army, Brig. Gen. George S. Simonds.

Navy, Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn.

State Department, S. Pinkney Tuck, first secretary of embassy.

Army, Lieut. Col. George V. Strong, Maj. James B. Ord and Maj. James E. Chaney.

Navy, Capt. A. H. Van Keuren, Commander Thomas C. Kinkaid and Commander Richmond K. Turner.

Secretariat.

Secretary to delegation, James Clement Dunn, chief of the division of international conferences.

Assistant secretaries to delegation, David McK. Key, third secretary of embassy, and Samuel Reber, jr., third secretary of embassy.

Press relations, Robert Thompson Pell.

Senate Body Aims At Stock Reforms

Committee Will Seek to Bar Use of U. S. Money in Manipulations.

(Associated Press.)

If the Senate special banking investigating committee achieves its aims, the country will see no recurrence of the frenzied financing during the days of '28 and '29.

The committee was called yesterday by Chairman Glass to meet here November 25 to pass on a comprehensive measure tightening the Federal reserve act and the national banking laws against speculators.

The bill has been in formulation for more than a year.

Strengthening of the Federal Reserve act to prevent the use of Federal facilities and money in stock market speculative activities is the primary purpose of the measure which Senator Glass will present.

THE NAVY BUDGET.

Charges that President Hoover intends to starve the Navy are crushed by his statement on the naval budget. In reality the Navy will fare better in 1933 than it has done in the present year if Congress adheres to the Executive budget. Its appropriation will be $343,000,000, or less than 5 per cent below the actual allowance for the Navy during the current fiscal year. Because of cheaper prices, the actual efficiency and development of the Navy will doubtless be stronger in the forthcoming year than it is today.

Reports that President Hoover has trimmed $59,000,000 from the naval budget are misleading. It is true that the preliminary requests of bureau chiefs totaled $401,000,000. Every bureau places its estimated requirements above what it expects to receive, and these preliminary figures are trimmed down as a matter of course. All of the departments go through the same experience. Unnecessary expenditures are ruled out by the Budget Bureau to make the allotments to all departments conform, in some measure, with the anticipated revenue.

President Hoover has gone through departmental requests with a fine comb, eliminating every unessential item. His statement shows that the personnel of the Navy will not be reduced by a single man. No fighting ships will be decommissioned. No naval yards will be abandoned, and employment in the Navy and in naval construction will be slightly increased.

The President's program contemplates the expenditure of $57,000,000 "for the expansion of combatant ships." This is more than twice as much as was spent for that purpose in 1926, and it exceeds the expenditures for naval construction during any year since then. Work on all of the treaty ships authorized by Congress, except six destroyers, will go forward. The destroyer program has been extended over a longer period to provide steady employment in the yards. President Hoover calls attention to the fact that at present this country has under construction combatant ships of nearly twice the tonnage of the war craft under construction in Great Britain.

It is apparent that an organized attempt has been made to dupe the American people with false propaganda regarding President Hoover's economy program. The Navy is not being and will not be starved.

ADJUSTING REPARATIONS.

The plan through which Germany's financial troubles will be eased at the expiration of the Hoover moratorium is beginning to take shape in Paris and Berlin. Germany has not yet officially accepted the French proposal, but it is considered certain that negotiations will proceed along the line that has been tentatively agreed upon. Inasmuch as Premier Laval has won a vote of confidence since visiting Washington by a majority of 39 and his program of rapprochement with Germany is moderate, he may be able to push it through the Chamber of Deputies without jeopardizing his own position.

It is clear that whatever action is taken will be within the scope of the Young plan. That was decided in the conferences between President Hoover and M. Laval. Germany probably will take the initiative by making an official request for an inquiry into her financial status as provided in the Young plan. In doing so the German government will recognize the Young plan as the legal basis of its relations with the creditor nations. When the work of the investigating committee has been completed, Germany is expected to lay her cards upon the table at a meeting of creditors. Means of paying reparations and private debts will be discussed. It is intimated that Germany will present a definite plan for the repayment of short-term obligations and that the resulting improvement in that government's financial status will induce some firms to renew their credits.

One important point in the French plan, to which Germany is supposed to have assented, is that the Reich will not use its private indebtedness as an argument in favor of postponing official reparations. This is a blow to the international bankers who are working for cancellation of all reparations and war debts so that Germany will be able to pay her debts to them. If Germany agrees to abide by the Young plan and does not attempt to play off one group of creditors against the other, world confidence in the Reich will be materially strengthened.

Premier Laval does well to explain that the understanding arrived at between himself and President Hoover commits neither of them to a reduction of obligations growing out of the war. Germany's creditors will have no excuse to sacrifice reparations for the benefit of international bankers in the hope that similar reductions will be made in their obligations to the United States. President Hoover has made clear that any negotiations on war debts owed to this Government must be based on capacity to pay, and that each case must be considered separately. It is improbable that the adjustments in reparations to be made under the Young plan will vitally change the capacity of any of Germany's creditors to pay their debts to the United States. Hence, the assumption that any action will be taken on this side of the Atlantic is entirely premature.

PSYCHOLOGICAL DEPRESSION.

Many and varied have been the expressions of opinion that continuation of the depression has been due to a state of mind. Today the new National Credit Corporation furnishes convincing evidence of the part that mob psychology has played.

Five weeks ago plans for the credit organization were announced. Last Friday it was ready for business and not a single application for a loan had been received. This week a few scattering applications have come in. Several small loans were made in the New York district, and in Chicago Chairman George M. Reynolds announces that loans totaling $2,100,000 have been approved. The demand has been so light to date that the first installment of bank subscriptions to the Credit Corporation's debentures has not been called, such small loans as have been made being covered by borrowings from local banks.

If this vast credit reserve had been available two months ago it is quite probable that there would have been an immediate demand for loans of not less than $100,000,000 and possibly much more. Knowledge on the part of banks, recently apprehensive, that relief funds would be available if needed has removed the actual need of them. Numerous institutions that contemplated making application for loans when the corporation was first announced now find that the strain upon their resources has diminished due to the general reversal of feeling that came with the launching of this project.

Simultaneously with safety measures at home came the demonstration of the unquestionable ability of the United States to support the dollar and the gold standard. The world-wide consternation caused by Great Britain's abandonment of gold redemption might not have been communicated to Americans if European rumors that similar action was contemplated here had not resulted in sudden heavy gold withdrawals.

The compliance with all demands and the demonstrated ability of the Federal Reserve system to liquidate all foreign gold holdings without in any measure endangering the financial structure of the United States caused a prompt reaction everywhere. European fears have been quieted and among Americans the momentary shock of surprise that our institutions could be so questioned was quickly overcome. Since confidence has been restored there is no obstacle to a steady return of normal business activity.

BRITAIN'S NEGATIVE POLICY.

If Great Britain's new national government has a definite plan for lifting that country out of its economic quagmire, it was not revealed in the address of King George or in the first remarks of Prime Minister MacDonald in Parliament. The coalition of Conservatives, Liberals and a few Laborites went before the electorate with a plea for a "free hand" to deal with the adverse economic situation. Now that the coalition has an enormous majority in the House of Commons it appears to be embarrassed by the magnitude of the responsibility that it has been given. Again the people are asked to expect no definite action in the near future, but to trust in the ultimate wisdom of the new cabinet.

Much of the vagueness of the coalition's program arises over the question of a tariff. In principle the groups supporting Mr. MacDonald are committed to a protective tariff. But it is apparent that they do not intend to rush high protective legislation through Parliament. Since Britain suspended the gold standard the exporting industries of that country have intrenched themselves behind the deflated pound. Apparently the government intends to wait and see how this form of protection works out before enacting any general tariff law. Any immediate legislation of this kind probably will be confined to antidumping regulations.

One other factor is causing Parliament to go slow with tariff legislation. A tariff barrier around Britain would be a blow to Germany. Further complication of the German situation would in turn react against the stability of Britain. Mr. MacDonald retains vivid memories of how the last crisis in Germany threatened collapse for Great Britain and resulted in suspension of the gold standard. The new government intends to investigate the situation from every angle before taking any definite action.

In the meantime Mr. MacDonald's policy centers about an international conference to straighten out what he calls the "crazy economy" of reparations and war debts. He is well aware that no such conference will be held. President Hoover made plain through his joint statement with Premier Laval that the United States would not enter into an international conclave to discuss debts and reparations. Premier Laval has apparently sanctioned a conference of Germany's creditors, but he is meeting with stiff opposition from members of the French Parliament. If the European powers are able to agree upon a program to relieve Germany under the Young plan it will be one of the miracles of the depression period.

Mr. MacDonald is concentrating upon this means of foreign relief to camouflage the negation of his domestic policy. It is perfectly safe to demand a reduction of foreign debts and a rapprochement between France and Germany, because failure of these projects can be laid at the door of France and the United States. But it is not so easy to frame a program that will put Britain on her own feet and thus lay the groundwork for a more prosperous Europe.

A WOMAN SENATOR.

To Mrs. Hattie Caraway goes the honor of being the second woman appointed to the United States Senate. Gov. Parnell has not only appointed her to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her late husband, Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, but he will ask the Democratic central committee of Arkansas to nominate her as its candidate in the special election.

Mrs. Caraway will undoubtedly serve with credit to her State and her sex. Apparently she has the support of the Democratic party in Arkansas and is considered an able successor to her husband. It is unfortunate, however, that Gov. Parnell should have based his action on the theory that "the office belonged to Senator Caraway." No office in the Senate or the House of Representatives belongs to any individual or to any family. Representation in Congress is a privilege that belongs to the people of the State. Mrs. Caraway should have been given the appointment on her own merit and not on the basis of sentimentality or family claim upon the seat.

On the death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow powerful interests began working for the appointment of Mrs. Morrow to succeed him in the Senate. But Mrs. Morrow promptly refused to be considered for the position. Apparently she had no desire to get into politics and did not care to assume so important a public trust on sentimental grounds. Her decision has been widely commended.

In Texas a brother of the late Representative Harry M. Wurzbach is said to be the outstanding candidate to succeed him. Although Mr. Wurzbach was a Republican and his brother is a Democrat, it is intimated that the Republicans will not put up a candidate if the brother wishes to run.

Several congressional districts have elected widows of their former representatives for purely sentimental reasons. The practice of offering a seat vacated by death to the surviving widow or some other member of the family is beginning to harden into precedent.

No woman or man should be appointed to the United States Senate for sentimental reasons. There can be no objection to widows carrying on the work of their husbands in Congress if they are qualified by training and temperament. But the choice ought to turn upon merit alone. No more insidious influence could develop in the American system of government than a precedent recognizing family claims to preference in the appointment and election of congressmen.

Students in our colleges are taught how Uncle Sam spends his billions. The funny thing is that it is called political economy.

Chicago offers Jim Ham Lewis for the Presidency, with this slogan: "Stop feeding the country applesauce and give it Ham!"

We are a patriotic nation. The country is in the red, its streets are covered with white lines, and the people are blue.

Cheer up! Some banks are being closed, but the gangsters are blowing them open.

From the New York Times.

Mr. Owen D. Young, in response to a Southern editor offering the support of especially formed clubs to promote Mr. Young's supposed presidential aspirations, has written a letter which sets a standard that most politicians would regard as painfully high. He denied, as he has done repeatedly, that he has any desire of entering politics, and declared once more that he would not countenance any movement to promote his nomination. Then he added:

> My disappointment is that people who seem to think I am qualified for the Presidency still persist in disbelieving my statements. I should think that one of the first qualifications for the Presidency would be not only to tell the truth, but to have all people believe that you told the truth.

Is this a counsel of perfection? Does it take sufficiently into account the weakness of human nature, especially of political human nature? Mr. Young must know that there are ways of putting away the crown which, in effect, indicate a willingness, even a desire, to accept it. Our own political annals contain more than one instance to raise a doubt about inflexible truth-telling by public men. In 1868 Gov. Horatio Seymour of New York told the Democratic national convention to its face, "Your candidate I can not be." But presently he was its candidate. Gen. Garfield endeavored in 1880 to protest to the Republican national convention that he must not be nominated for the Presidency, since he had come to Chicago to support the candidacy of John Sherman, but was refused the floor by the presiding officer, and in a little while found himself named for the Presidency. Both these prospective candidates told what they doubtless believed in their own hearts to be the truth, but did not succeed in making the people believe that they told it. Even when Grover Cleveland sent his famous telegram to his personal and political friend in Buffalo, "Tell the truth," there were those who doubted if he really meant it. It would be, in fact, a rare bird among politicians who would agree to exclaim with the poet:

> Shame to stand in God's creation,
> And doubt truth's sufficiency!

Jesting Pilate's question, "What is truth?" is too broad to fit the particular case of truth in politics. We are not dealing with something abstract and general, but with a specific thing, "the truth." Renunciation of any office in advance is always a little under suspicion. When it is the highest office in the land that is renounced people begin to wonder how sincere the act may be. Of Mr. Young's sincerity there can be no challenge. He will be universally believed when he says that he is not seeking the Presidency, and will not lift a finger to win delegates to the national convention of his party. But this would not preclude him in honor from accepting the nomination if it came to him spontaneously.

Members of the American Hotel Association vote 90 per cent in favor of prohibition repeal. Packed juries are the order of the day.

With the prospect of the upper house being graced by a senatress as well as the Chesterfieldian example of Ham Lewis, distinct improvement in senatorial speech and manners should be evidenced this winter.

Senator Pittman's objection to the silver report of the International Chamber of Commerce experts is that they considered it as silverware rather than silver dollars. When others reconcile themselves to the fact that for 95 per cent of the business world silver is a ware and not money, plans to aid silver will be more practical.

Gov. Pinchot's determination to do something different in politics may result in disastrous delay in helping Pennsylvania's unemployed.

"France and Germany near agreement on reparations and private credits." If Laval's visit determined the necessity of such accord other things that were done or left undone do not matter.

Seventy members of Congress are going to Canada. Your suspicions are quite unjustified—they want to see how the sales tax works.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LOVE AND LIFE.

Though lovers tread the flowery paths and dream the hours away,
The road of life is strewn with strife, bedeck it as we may.
'Tis sweet to nestle cheek by cheek,
but every maiden fair
Expects the man who wins her heart to stand face-front to care.

Love prattles many a golden speech of moon and star and stream.
Of blossoming trees, and summer seas,
it paints a pretty dream,
But there's no woman long can love
the coward or the shirk.
He loses her who takes his ease when he should be at work.

O'er moonlit paths 'tis sweet to stray and steal the tender kiss,
But woman knows, ere it shall close that life is more than this.
And though of idle hours she dreams,
when trouble comes along
She trusts the man who wins her heart to prove that he is strong.

'Tis very nice at times to sit and watch the throngs go by,
To think that love holds nothing of the common hue and cry;
But every woman hopes her man in times of stress and doubt
Will have the courage and the strength to stand and fight it out.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: I suppose you saw that story in a magazine about the woman who didn't want her children to believe in God.

One of the big publishing houses, having prepared a book for children, asked a number of women to censor it. The book contained a picture of two children kneeling beside their bed to pray, and the women thought this objectionable. One of them, a Mrs. Blaisdell, wife of a Columbia University professor, said such a picture would be hard to explain to her children. She has taught them nothing about religion and doesn't want them to believe that an Omnipotent Father watches over them.

I suspect she will find it even more difficult to explain when her children observe a land full of churches where God-fearing millions worship and begin to ask why she was afraid to tell them about such things.

But that isn't your business, or mine.

I mention the matter only to show you how little people are to blame for the things they say and do.

To you it seems shameful to deny children knowledge of the Saviour who loved their kind, but that is because you were taught to believe in Him.

It is true that I never attempted to make you believe anything or pretend to believe anything that your natural good sense rejected, nor have I asked you to accept any scientific or religious belief unsupported by evidence; but you were trained to see the self-evident fact of a Creator and to love the incomparably beautiful words of Jesus.

You are what you are because of what you were taught. Trained in another home, you might ridicule the idea of a God, sneer at people who are ambitious to accomplish great things, and claim the right to marry a new boy every day if such variety suited your pleasure. Russian girls of your age are like that.

The point is that all of us, with few exceptions, are products of early environment. Our follies, handicaps, superstitions, tastes, morals and faiths were wished upon us by the ignorance or prejudice or wisdom of those who taught us while we were too young to know better.

Not one person in a thousand investigates and studies with an unbiased mind to form convictions for himself. It is almost impossible to get the truth established in a head where untruth has already jelled.

Remember that, my dear. Pity the folly of the misguided, but don't be intolerant. Don't blame people for things they can't help. Every fool notion in a human head seems wisdom to the owner. Don't sneer. Pity as you would pity one with a deformed body. The deformed mind was made that way by an unwise parent. Love,

DAD.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

A Do-Nothing Congress.

Morris (Minn.) Tribune.

The forthcoming session of Congress is more likely to be a hindrance rather than a help to the recovery of business. In the first place, there is little in the way of national legislation that would be of any benefit, and in the next place, the parties are so evenly divided that neither could put through any important legislation anyway. The real balance of power, if any constructive legislation does come up, will be held by an unofficial third party, the so-called "progressives," who never yet did anything constructive and never will. Political speeches on the tariff, farm relief, the equalization fee, the power trust and prohibition will be made for home consumption and for franking to the voters, but the tariff will not be touched, farm relief will spend itself in talk, the equalization fee will not be passed, the authority of the Federal Power Commission will not be impaired, and the prohibition law will not be modified. If the country generally would forget the mischief-making possibilities of a congressional session and settle down to a sane realization of how little Congress really will do, business recovery would be several steps ahead in a very few months.

Sam Church's New Party.

Topeka Capital.

President Samuel H. Church, of Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, is out with a plan for the formation of a Liberal Party, to hold a national convention next year and nominate candidates for President and other offices.

Dr. Church predicates his belief in the popular readiness for a new party on the experimental campaign last year in Pennsylvania, when the Liberal candidate for governor received 400,000 votes.

In his statement he outlines a Liberal platform, which includes, among other things, return to the election of senators by State legislatures and repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Tariff a Local Issue.

Kansas City Star.

In a debate with Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, at Sioux City, Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, calls the tariff law a "monstrosity," whereupon the Iowa senator retorts that the gentleman from Mississippi "actively worked for" tariff protection on those products in which his own States was interested, condemning all the rest. That is the kind of thing, of course, that makes the tariff strictly a local issue. It also makes it a monstrosity, provided the list of local items is not long enough to make it a piece of beneficent legislation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Signal Corps' Training of Carrier Pigeons to Fly at Night in Order That Important Messages May Be Transported Unseen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Army Signal Corps is breeding a new type of carrier pigeon. This type is known as night-flying carriers. Pigeons do not fly at night as a rule. If a carrier pigeon is taken a great distance from the home loft it will fly homeward until the arrival of dusk, when it will go to roost and resume the homeward journey at dawn.

The night flyers are being taught to overcome this tendency to go to roost at dusk. This is done in gradual stages, which require considerable patience. The young pigeon is taken out of the loft at dusk and placed on the landing board, where it is allowed to look around for a while and then made to enter the loft, where it is fed. After this process is repeated several times, and the pigeon is aged enough to be able to fly, it is taken a little distance from the loft and released. It flies to the loft, where it obtains food. The distance is gradually increased nightly until the maximum distance for flight of a homing pigeon is obtained.

The night flyers are trained for just the purpose that the name signifies. During the World War there were times when night flyers could have been used to much advantage, but at that time the Signal Corps did not have any such pigeons. It will be interesting to note if the night flyers will breed a race of pigeons that will instinctively fly by night, instead of possessing the usual instinct of going to roost as soon as dusk arrives. ALFRED SANDBOY.

Public Opinion Not Inclined Toward Government Ownership of Railroads and Public Utilities.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: According to press reports, Commissioner Eastman of the Interstate Commerce Commission stated in an address in Philadelphia last week that "the public opinion is inclining more and more toward Government ownership of railroads." This statement, coupled with his plan submitted for public control of all utility systems, indicates that he must have spent the week-end or at least had luncheon with Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania before making his speech.

For years it has been the custom of politicians when there were no worth-while questions out of which an issue could be coined to lambast the railroads and the public utilities in an effort to gain office or some public notoriety, or both. A look-in at the complexion of the men who have succeeded in landing on Capitol Hill will readily disclose that "public opinion" is not inclining toward the communistic idea of Government ownership and operation of railroads and public utilities, as advocated by Mr. Eastman. On the contrary, the great majority of the citizens of this country are utterly opposed to any such policy and will see to it that their Government steers clear of this socialism.

No doubt Mr. Eastman will, if he has not already done so, receive a vote of thanks for his utterances from the "Progressive conference committee," which has just issued its report, and receive an invitation to join its ranks, but public opinion will see to it that the Government is kept out of business which rightfully belongs to the individual. VIRGINIA DEMOCRAT.

Spending of Christmas Savings Should Help to Knock Out Old Man Depression.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With Christmas approximately six weeks away, Yuletide tinglings are heard already. The bankers throughout the United States are preparing to distribute more than $1,000,000,000 to the members of the different Christmas savings clubs. What a huge amount this is to have salted away for the purpose of doing Christmas shopping!

We have all heard that prosperity is just around the corner. When this vast amount enters into circulation in the forthcoming few weeks it might make prosperity turn the corner and actually appear. The experts who developed the Christmas savings club plan to its present capacity estimate that 38 per cent of the funds will be spent during the shopping season, which means that red blood will be poured into the veins of business to the extent of at least $380,000,000 during the month of December.

When this billion-dollar avalanche starts moving it should certainly help in dealing old man Depression a fatal blow. C. C. PARSONS.

Writer Disagrees With the Suggestion Made by Evans Ford for a World-Wide Boycott of Japanese Goods.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I be pardoned for raising a voice against Mr. Evans Ford's suggestion for "a world-wide boycott of Japanese goods for the purpose of dethroning the war lords of Japan?"

It was the Chinese local war lords, over whom the Nanking government has no control, by exploiting and undermining Japanese rights, backed by treaties, solely for their private gains, that led the situation to such a pass as to have necessitated Japan to use her armed force. So far as the present armed action of Japan is concerned, the Tokyo government and the whole people of Japan stand back of it.

The point in question is whether public opinion is right or wrong, ignorant or well-informed, and not whether it can be coerced or not. Besides, may I suggest that boycotters themselves can not go against economic laws with impunity?

BERLIN IS WARNED ON PRIVATE DEBTS

Baldwin Holds Reparations Must Not Endanger Business Credits.

London, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council and leader of the overwhelming Conservative majority in the House of Commons, served warning today that payment of Germany's private debts must not be endangered by reparations demands.

London, having invested heavily in German credits over a period of ten years, can not permit those investments to be jeopardized, he declared in the course of a speech in the House on the prospects for international action to alleviate the world's financial troubles.

"The financial advances made to Germany over the past ten years were not speculative," he said, "but were the best type of security on the market. Those obligations must not be endangered by political debts."

If her commercial obligations were endangered, he said, Germany's credit would be destroyed "and once that happened there would be no future prospect at all for reparations."

He expressed a hope that the governments concerned would be able to reach an agreement on that point, admitting, however, that the issue involves "political prejudices and preoccupations in other great countries than our own."

The government obtained another smashing majority today when a Labor party amendment to the king's speech which opened Parliament was defeated by 422 to 38.

The amendment expressed regret that the speech from the throne made no mention of "unjust economies imposed upon the unemployed."

Hoover's Football Mates Join Early Morning Sport

Coed Who Cheered Team of 1894 Hostess at Dinner; Reunion Group Visits Battlegrounds of Gettysburg.

(Associated Press.)

Time was put into reverse again last night for the members of Leland Stanford's football team of 1894.

Joyously continuing the reunion they began with President Hoover at the White House Thursday night, members of the team gathered at a dinner in the Mayflower Hotel. This time a woman entertained them.

She is Dr. Annie G. Lyle, San Francisco physician, who was graduated from Stanford in 1895, a classmate of the President. Visiting in the Capital, she decided that a coed who cheered the team might well join in its festivities.

Although two members of the '94 varsity that sat at the White House dinner table at the invitation of their former financial manager could not be present, one new member found a place at last night's board.

Charles M. Fickert, Los Angeles attorney, who played guard, was forced down by a storm while flying to attend the President's dinner. Arriving yesterday afternoon instead of Thursday as planned, he joined the group.

Members of the team yesterday had what one called "a grand time."

The President's invitation to return to the White House after leaving it Thursday night near midnight, most of the team members accepted. And within eight hours, at that.

They joined Mr. Hoover's early morning medicine ball cabinet on the south lawn of the executive mansion, and more than one pleaded a lack of breath after the swift round of combination volley ball, hand ball and medicine ball.

A White House breakfast followed.

One member said there had been a friendly argument, reminiscent of college days, as to what the team should do for entertainment during the day. A compromise was reached on a trip to Gettysburg, Pa., and the battlegrounds were inspected until late afternoon.

During the day and last night there was a further revival of memories. One of the tales recalled was that President Hoover might some day be recorded as the first student to register at Stanford.

Will Irwin, his one-time biographer, said that if he was not the first he at least registered on the first day the college opened.

"The President himself is not sure," Irwin said.

Most of the West Coast contingent of the team left the Capital late last night. Those from the Far West are Paul Downing, W. H. Harrelson and Dr. J. B. Frankenheimer, all of San Francisco, and Fickert and Dr. Guy Cochran, of Los Angeles.

Jackson E. Reynolds, president of the First National of New York, and Cochran left the Capital Thursday night.

Governor of Tennessee Calls Special Session

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Gov. LEACH IS APPOINTED MILITIA OFFICE HEAD

Former Minneapolis Mayor Succeeds Gen. Everson in Bureau Here.

(Associated Press.)

The job of running the National Guard was placed yesterday in the hands of George E. Leach, a former mayor of Minneapolis.

Secretary Hurley announced his selection to become chief of the militia bureau to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, famous "fighting preacher."

Gen. Everson, an ordained minister, has resigned, effective November 31, to return to the ministry as pastor of a Denver congregation.

A brigadier general in the Minnesota National Guard, Leach has served more than 26 years in that division of the service. His specialty is artillery. In the World War, he commanded a Minnesota Field Artillery regiment assigned to the Rainbow Division, winning numerous decorations, including the French Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor and the American, Distinguished Service Medal.

Gen. Leach, who is 55 years old and a native of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, will have complete charge of coordinating national defense relations between the States and the War Department and supervising all National Guard training and disbursements.

Peculations Charged to Clerk.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Evelyn M. Albus, 29-year-old former deputy clerk of Jefferson County, Ky., was traced to New York through a telegram and arrested today on charges of participating in the misappropriation of $60,000 of public funds.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Hoover to See Corner-Stone Laying of Phoebe Hearst Public School Today; Secretary Adams Goes to Chicago

MRS. HOOVER will be the guest of honor this afternoon at the laying of the corner stone of the Phoebe Hearst Public School on Wisconsin avenue, at 3 o'clock. Entrance to the grounds will be through the suburban place of Admiral Cary T. Grayson through the courtesy of Admiral and Mrs. Grayson, as the building is back of their place and no street has as yet been cut through. The building has been named for the late Mrs. Hearst, of California, because through her philanthropy and generosity free kindergarten schools were established in this country, which are now a part of the public school system.

Italians Will Hold Reception for Grandi.

Through the courtesy of Donna Antoinetta de Martino, wife of the Italian Ambassador, the Italy-America Society, of Washington, will entertain at a reception at the embassy on Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock for the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Italy and Signora Grandi.

After their visit in Washington, which will terminate on Friday, Signor and Signora Grandi will go to Philadelphia for a brief visit and will then go to Baltimore to pass the week-end with the United States Ambassador to Italy and Mrs. John W. Garrett. On November 23 they will go to New York, where that evening they will be guests of honor at a reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Taylor at their home on East Seventieth street. The following night Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler will give a reception for the visitors at Casa Italiana, Columbia University.

The Polish Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, accompanied by the Attache of the Embassy, Mr. Jan Tomaszewski, and Mr. Edward Weintal, also of the embassy staff, left yesterday for Augusta, Ga., to attend the unveiling of the monument of Dr. Fitzmaurice Eve. The ceremony will take place today.

New York's Woman Register Visitor Here.

Among the distinguished visitors to the Nation's Capital is Martha Byrne, who was elected on November 3 to the office of register of New York by a plurality of 167,793. Accompanied by Mrs. Rose Kersten, of New York, she motored from Atlantic City. They are stopping at the Hotel Carlton and intend to remain over the week-end.

To fill a vacancy caused by the death last summer of Rebecca F. Hoffman, Gov. Roosevelt appointed Miss Byrne to her present post—one of the most important held by a woman in the United States—and she was the unanimous choice for the place in the Democratic primaries. The position commands an annual salary of $12,000.

With John F. Curry, head of Tammany Hall, Miss Byrne is coleader of the Fifth Assembly District of New York City and is particularly proud of the fact that she has been a life-long resident of it. Her family is prominent in musical circles, a sister, Miss Anne Byrne, being the leader of one of society's orchestras, while she herself is an accomplished vocalist.

Miss Byrne is a strong advocate of the need for more active participation of her sex in public affairs and believes that truly constructive results in that direction can be best brought about through alignment with regular political organizations.

A substitute program will be provided at the Arts Club tomorrow evening to take the place of that previously announced. The guest of honor and entertainer will be the noted impersonator, author and reader, Mrs. Agness Greene Foster, of New York and Montgomery, Ala. Mrs. Foster has been called the first woman orator in America, has won international prizes in this art, gaining for herself thereby the entree to the Paris Conservatory and Trinity College, Dublin. She promises to give the members and guests of the Arts Club a generous example of her varied gifts.

The club's hospitality committee is sponsoring this entertainment, with Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston as hostess.

MONTGOMERY JURY BRINGS IN 25 BILLS

Most of Indictments Presented Are for Manslaughter and Violence.

Included in the 25 indictments returned by the Montgomery County grand jury made public yesterday were two for murder, four for manslaughter, three for intent to murder and twenty for larceny. One arson indictment was returned.

Maynard Miles, colored, of Bethesda, was indicted for the murder of Benjamin Oldfield, also of Bethesda. Miles is alleged to have struck Oldfield with a piece of wood, inflicting injuries which caused his death several days later in Georgetown Hospital. James Thomas Bell, colored, was indicted for the murder of Leroy Gaines, also colored.

Ewell Bean, of Rockville, Md., was indicted for manslaughter in connection with the death of Corporal Mack Marosy, 21 years old, member of the District National Guard, August 23 on the Rockville pike near Bethesda. Bean was alleged to have been driving on the wrong side of the road when his car struck one operated by Marosy.

Held for Manslaughter.

Lawrence McCullough, of Washington, was indicted on two charges of manslaughter in connection with the deaths of Ludwell Lee and Calvin Brown, both of Bethesda, in an automobile accident May 17 on Rockville pike. McCulluogh was driver of the car which struck a telephone pole. A fourth passenger escaped uncathed.

Thomas Bailey, colored, was indicted on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of Aaron Campbell, also colored, whom he is alleged to have struck on the head with a shovel while the two were working on the road near Silver Spring.

Alfred Aquilino, of Washington, 17 years old, was indicted on charges of assault with intent to murder, robbery, assault to rob, simple assault and receiving stolen goods. He is alleged to have fired two shots at Wallace Wright, of Washington, a dinner guest at a sanitarium near Forest Glen, while attempting to hold up Dr. N. A. Springer, the manager, then to have commandsered two taxicabs in a wild ride through Northwest Washington, while Montgomery County police pursued.

Glenwood Wims, colored, was indicted on a charge of assault with intent to murder on Fred Wims, also colored, and Charles Washington was indicted on the same charge for having shot at another Negro. Walter R. Benson and William J. Pier, both of Potomac, were indicted on a charge of arson. They are alleged to have fired the home of John Hill, Potomac, in revenge after a disagreement.

William R. Buchanan, of Indianhead, Md., was indicted on a charge of perjury. He was arrested on complaint of his mother, Mrs. Lillie M. Buchanan, of Richmond, Va., who charged that he had violated Maryland's miscegenation law by marrying a Negro girl. He was acquitted of this charge when it was shown in court that the wife was white, but it was discovered that he had sworn to the wrong age.

Other Presentments.

Other indictments were Clifton Dorsey, larceny; Claude D. Reddick, bastardy; Walter Clay, larceny; William Campbell, larceny; Deliah Corn, receiving stolen property; Chauncey Dorsey and Albert Scott, robbery, assault to rob, assault and receiving stolen goods; Aaron Bland, larceny; Everett Martin and David Clagett, housebreaking and larceny; William J. Deckert and Willie E. Griffith, larceny; Emory G. Haines, two larceny charges; Walter Chun, larceny, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle; Ernest Warfield, larceny; Charles Warren, housebreaking and larceny; Margaret Baker and Elsie Diggs, larceny; Ray D. Miller, larceny.

Also Clarence E. Tucker (alias John H. Smith), false pretenses; Charles Warren, housebreaking and larceny; William Coombs, larceny; James Canaaney, larceny; Windsor Butler and Ernest Fleming, housebreaking and larceny; Windsor Butler, larceny; Ernest Fleming, Windsor Butler, and John Preston, larceny and housebreaking and larceny; Windsor Butler, housebreaking and larceny.

A number of the prisoners were arraigned yesterday, and dates for trials were set by Judge Robert B. Peter in circuit court.

Assault With Auto Is Charged to Man

G. C. Armstrong, of Forestville, Asks Jury Trial in Prince Georges Court.

George C. Armstrong, of Forestville, yesterday asked a jury trial when he was arraigned in Prince Georges County Police Court on charges that he attempted to run over Terry W. Tayman with an auto.

Armstrong is charged with "assault with a dangerous weapon, to-wit: an auto," simple assault and threats. Tayman said that he was accused by Armstrong of giving policemen information on which they raided a still near Forestville. Armstrong was charged with being the proprietor of the plant. He was freed on bond of $250 pending trial of the assault charges.

Joshua Wood, who was accused of running a disorderly house at Woodyard, Md., also asked for a jury trial. His bond was set at $500.

Mrs. Cushman's Rites To Be This Morning

Funeral services for Mrs. J. D. Cushman, 54 years old, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. Freeland Chew, in Lyon Village, Arlington County, Thursday morning will be conducted from St. Charles Catholic Church this morning at 9:30 o'clock by the Rev. J. M. Healy, assistant pastor. Burial will be in the Arlington National Cemetery.

Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Chew and Gladys.

Hunters' Licensing Arranged by Arlington

Hunting season for upland game in Virginia opens Monday morning and for duck hunting Monday at 12 o'clock noon, according to an announcement yesterday by State Game Warden W. Harry Johnson.

The office of William H. Duncan, county clerk of Arlington County, will remain open today until 6 o'clock to issue hunting licenses to late comers. Mr. Johnson states that from a survey of conditions game is plentiful throughout the State.

Club Has Work For Several Men

Arlington Hall Junior College Girls Entertain in Musicale.

Requests for men from several employers in Arlington County have been received by the interclub unemployment committee, it was announced at the meeting of the Arlington County Monarch Club yesterday.

Concluding the business session, the club was entertained by talent from Arlington Hall, Junior College for Girls, at 6 o'clock. Those participating were Effie James, violinist; Louise Stone, soloist, and Katherine Wilson, reader. They were accompanied by Alma Baskerville.

Maynard Carlisle, George A. Rucker and A. B. Hontz were appointed by President Albert H. Cohen as a nominating committee to select a slate of candidates for the annual election of officers.

DOCTORS IN FAIRFAX LIMIT HEALTH WORK

Reported Agreement Halts Feared Federalization of Profession.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245. Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

Fairfax County Medical Society, at its monthly meeting at the courthouse yesterday, adopted a report of a committee appointed in August to work out a plan for harmonizing the county public health program with activities of the medical profession.

Doctors of the county have objected for some time to what they feel is rapid federalization of the medical profession through State and National public health programs. Dr. C. A. Ransom, of Falls Church, president of the county society, stated that he believed the report is a step toward a satisfactory basis of cooperation between private physicians and the public health office.

The report stated that in accordance with an agreement with Dr. A. L. Carson, the health officer, the health unit will perform no treatments of a clinical nature, except as preventive measures and persons seeking treatment will be referred to their family physicians. No clinical treatments will be given by the health officer to indigent cases or inmates of the county jail. Preschool examinations are to be held in the office of local doctors who will be assisted by the county nurse.

Doctors of various communities will be invited to cooperate with the health officer in making inspections of school children each fall. The State dental clinician will only make necessary dental corrections for elementary school children. High school children with dental defects will be referred to family dentists.

The doctors agreed to meet the State's requirements to report diagnosis of all cases of communicable disease within 24 hours and file additional weekly reports with the county health office; to give unqualified support to the county sanitation work under the control of the health office; questions relating to the control, testing and condemnation of water supplies throughout the county are to be referred to the health officer; each doctor may call the health officer to establish diagnosis of communicable disease.

The Rev. Edwin Millarky, of Harpers Ferry, W. Va., has been appointed pastor of St. James' Catholic Church at West Falls Church to succeed the Rev. A. J. Van Inglegem, who resigned several weeks ago and was transferred to Richmond. The Rev. James Walsh will remain as assistant pastor.

Mission churches of St. John's at El Nido, formerly a part of the St. James Parish, and St. Charles' at Cherrydale are to be united as a new parish.

Falls Church District Sunday School Association will be recognized as a branch of the Arlington-Fairfax Council of Religious Education. The new officers of the association are: Clarence Shotwell, Columbia Baptist Church, president; W. A. Fravel, Falls Church, Southern Methodist Church vice president; Gordon Nicholson, Falls Church Episcopal Church, secretary-treasurer. Superintendents for various churches are the Rev. E. B. Wilcox, Crossman Methodist Church, Falls Church adults; the Rev. A. B. Altfather, Falls Church Presbyterian Church, young people; Mrs. A. C. Berger, home department; E. R. Fenwick, teacher training; Mrs. R. E. Ankers, primary department of the Columbus Baptist Church.

Episcopal Churches of Fairfax County will observe tomorrow as a day of special prayer for needs of the church. The date was selected by the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, Bishop of Episcopal Churches of Virginia.

Board to Discuss Court Remodeling

Supervisors Are Prepared to Consider Work on Building.

To meet the urgent need for adequate room at the county courthouse which is in accordance with the acts of the last General Assembly, the Board of Supervisors will discuss remodeling at its meeting today.

Supt. B. H. Hedrick, of Arlington District, stated yesterday that the board will consider ways and means of making the necessary additions.

He announced that the members-elect of the county board will hold a meeting this afternoon to discuss the question.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD REELECTS OFFICERS

Alexandria Group Collects 900 Garments Donated to Relief Work.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mrs. Effie L. Baggett was reelected president of the Alexandria Branch of the Needlework Guild of America, at the annual meeting yesterday in Lee Camp Hall. Other officers, all of whom were reelected, are: Mrs. James R. Caton, first vice president; Mrs. Edna Davis, second vice president; Mrs. Harry B. Caton, secretary, and Mrs. William A. Moncure, treasurer. These officers and the following are the directors: Mrs. Marian Ballenger, Mrs. Virgil Davis, Mrs. Walter Pierpoint, Mrs. George W. Roop, Mrs. Clarence Parker, Mrs. Walter Rogers, Mrs. Otis H. Hullings, Mrs. Charles W. Howell, Miss Constance Boush, Mrs. Llewellyn Dyson, Mrs. W. Milton Glasgow and Mrs. Reba Barrett Smith.

The business meeting was held at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and was addressed by Mrs. Reba Barrett Smith, who is a national vice president, who stated that records of the organization show an increase of more than a million garments this year over the collection last year.

The seventeen members of the group are each expected to each year collect 22 new garments for the annual meeting, and yesterday the number collected exceeded 900, an increase of 300 over 1930. The garments, or articles, include clothing of all kinds for infants, underclothes, gowns, stockings, bloomers, and slips for girls, and towels, sheets, pillowcases and blankets. Tea was served by the members to interested visitors during the afternoon, and at 4 o'clock the representatives of the various charitable organizations were received to select from the gifts those most needed in their particular work. The United Charities, Alexandria Hospital, Visiting Nurses, Alexandria Day Nursery, and Children's Home, American Legion Auxiliary, and others were the beneficiaries.

All city taxes in Alexandria not paid by Monday will become delinquent, and the penalty for nonpayment will be added. The usual last-minute rush to pay the taxes is now on in full force, and City Collector Purvis Taylor has announced that for the convenience of those who can not reach his office during the day or before the usual closing hours, his office will be open until 5 o'clock this afternoon, instead of closing at 1 o'clock, and on Monday night it will be kept open from 7:30 to 9 o'clock.

The taxes now due cover the second half of the city's fiscal year.

Loss of Child's Hand Results in $10,000 Suit

Suit for $10,000 damages was filed in the Arlington County clerk's office yesterday by Lothar R. Rieder, an infant, by his next friend, Frederick Rieder, against the Garfield Manor Corporation by Attorneys H. W. Dudley and State Senator Frank L. Ball.

According to counsel, the suit grew out of alleged injuries sustained by Lother Rieder, 7 years old, when playing around a shed claimed to be the property of the corporation on Oakcrest property. The suit charges a cap exploded, blowing off a portion of the child's left hand.

Hearing Is Scheduled For Maryland Bridge

The Maryland State Roads Commission has asked the War Department for permission to build a new bridge over the Patuxent River where Hill's bridge now stands, and a public hearing will be held in the Marlboro courthouse at 11 o'clock on Tuesday.

The river has shoaled so much lately that only small boats now come up as far as the bridge, which is 3 miles beyond Marlboro. No opposition to the project is expected, but the hearing is being held by the War Department as the Patuxent is still classed as a navigable river. The proposed bridge will be of iron, 196 feet long, and will replace the present one-way structure which impedes traffic to Chesapeake and other beaches.

Coupe With 100 Gallons Of Alcohol Captured

A specially-built coupe carrying the largest load of alcohol ever seized in Prince Georges County was captured early yesterday morning and its cargo of 100 gallons was confiscated.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sapperstein, Baltimore, were arrested and charged with transportation and possession. They were captured by County Policemen Ralph Brown and William E. Clifton and Constable Howard Slater. The man was held in bond of $1,000, while his wife was held for $500.

C. F. Taylor to Inspect Fire Engine Factories

Clinton F. Taylor, chief of the fire department of Riverdale Heights, has been appointed chairman of a committee which will visit New Jersey factories of fire equipment manufacturers to look over new models. Other members are H. E. Stansfield, T. C. Gardner, E. M. Greer and S. L. Stewart.

A dance will be held tonight in the fire house for the benefit of the company, and a card party will be held on November 21.

Prince Georges Grange To Probe Tourist Camps

A committee has been appointed by the Pomona Grange of Prince Georges County to investigate the effect of State and county health ordinances on tourist camps, and a resolution condemning the camps has been adopted by the Grange.

The committee, which was appointed after it was charged that a contagious disease appearing at one of the camps had not been reported to public health officials, is headed by Dr. Harry Nalley. Brice Bowie, treasurer of the county, and Mrs. Joseph H. Blandford are other members.

Man Injured By Cave-in.

Lewis Mereni, 50 years old, of 30 New York avenue northeast, was treated at Casualty Hospital yesterday for lacerations to the scalp and a possible fractured skull, which he received when the sides of a ditch, in which he was working on the Capitol grounds, caved in upon him.

COOPERATION URGED WITH COUNTY BOARD

Representative Smith Tells Livingstone Citizens to Aid Arlington Body.

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking at the monthly meeting of the Livingstone Heights Citizens Association, last night in St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Representative Howard W. Smith, of the Eighth Congressional District of Virginia, declared that no county in Virginia has a future such as Arlington County.

"With Arlington County on the threshold of a new form of county government and being adjacent to the Nation's Capital, I might well say that no section of the country has a brighter future. But only with hearty cooperation with the new county board can this be accomplished," he said.

The association had as guests of honor the members-elect to the county board, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Magruder, Fred A. Gosnell, Lyman M. Kelly, John O. Gall and Harry A. Fellows.

Among other guests were Sheriff Howard B. Fields, State Senator-elect John W. Rust, Delegate Hugh Reid, Harry K. Green, commissioner of revenue; Lawrence W. Douglas, Commonwealth attorney-elect; E. Wade Ball, county treasurer, and B. M. Hedrick, judge-elect to the new county court.

The program included musical selections by Miss Virginia Crocker, violinist; Mrs. Howard Crocker at the piano, and Rollin D. Jones, cello; a piano solo by Miss Amelia Bates, a reading by Miss Betty Rose Sutton, and a vocal solo by Miss Mary Russell.

The league adopted a resolution assuring its unselfish desire to assist and cooperate with the members of the new county board and all other county officials to the end that the coming administration of the county board and other officials may result in the greatest benefit to all of Arlington County.

Three Held in Still Raid Near Welcome Arraigned

The men who are alleged to have been engaged in setting up a still near Welcome, Md. were taken before U. S. Commissioner J. Frank Parran in Marlboro yesterday by the Federal dry agents who arrested them.

The three gave their names as Willie Simmons, Jordon Hansen, and Chester A. Pittman, all of Welcome. Charges of manufacture and possession of liquor were dismissed at the hearing, as no mash was found and the still had not been in operation. They were held for bond of $500 for possession of articles for the manufacture of whisky.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

GANDHI, never having heard of Charlie Chaplin, has nothing on Calvin Coolidge, who has never heard Seth Parker. This was revealed in the following conversation Jack Foster, ace New York radio raconteur, had with Eddie Dunham, NBC producer.

"As the coffee cooled, Dunham turned to talking about the broadcast he had supervised from Calvin Coolidge's home in Northampton, Mass.," Foster relates. "Eddie said that after he and the engineers had been admitted, Mr. Coolidge asked laconically, 'Does any one here know how to fix a radio set?' The Coolidge receiver is kept upstairs—and an engineer found that all the set needed was some one to turn on the switch. 'Mrs. Coolidge does all the tuning, and she's in Plymouth,' Mr. Coolidge explained.

"Eddie asked him whether he had ever heard Seth Parker, believing that the stanch Vermonter might be interested in this typical New England character. 'Nope, never heard of him,' Mr. Coolidge replied. 'Don't listen much.' Eddie confessed that many programs are kind of trivial. 'Nope, everything I've heard is most complimentary and they keep it clean,' was Mr. Coolidge's philosophic criticism."

Yet, should you have the idea that he has always been oblivious to the radio, ask any one at the White House about the sand President Coolidge raised when he discovered he had delivered one of his most powerful speeches into a dead microphone. The fall-down occurred while Mr. Coolidge was facing an audience at the Washington Auditorium.

Everett Sanders, his secretary, is to this day uncommunicative about the incident, but the fact remains that Everett almost burned up the telephone wires calling different people on the carpet who were in charge of the broadcast.

It was an old-time hay-wire setup with a single line strung in by one of the telegraph companies. Sinister plots to cut off the President's speech were reported, but it was always our own theory that a stage hand probably leaned against the scenery and broke the wire. However, the telegraph company, after a long and serious investigation, reported to Mr. Sanders that it was a short circuit caused by the Aurora Borealis.

THE United States Marine Band is probably the pioneer in the broadcasting of large musical organizations, Capt. John H. Craige writes in a new booklet giving the history of the band.

"When radio broadcasting was in its infancy," Capt. Craige goes on, "Taylor Branson, present leader of the band, became identified to the radio fans throughout the country as the leader of the orchestra of the Marine Band that was broadcasting through the Naval Air Station at Anacostia, D. C."

Every President of the United States except George Washington has heard the music of the Marine Band.

President Hoover and spokesmen of the liberal arts colleges of America will participate in a nation-wide "college night" radio rally tonight (WRC, 9 o'clock). Other speakers will be Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times; Dr. A. N. Ward, chairman of the liberal arts college movement; Dr. C. R. Mann, director of the American Council of Education, and Dr. Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges.

The program is dedicated to the liberal arts colleges and their contributions to the educational, social and economic life of the country.

"Samson and Delilah," second broadcast of the current season from the Chicago Civic Opera, will be heard over an extensive WJZ network tonight, 9 o'clock. The overture and first act will be relayed. Charles Marshall and Cyrena Van Gordon have the title roles.

EFFECTS of depression upon employment and wages will be discussed by William Leiserson, professor of economics at Antioch College, Ohio, while Dr. R. S. Woodworth, chairman of the Social Hygiene Research Council, will talk about "Current Trends in Psychology" during the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education program tonight (WRC, 8:30 o'clock).

Having just returned from a European tour, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, will discuss "Europe and Its Problems of Today" (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock tonight).

Havana, New York and Chicago will be neighbors when the Lucky Strike Dance Hour is broadcast tonight. The Siboney Orchestra, directed by Alfred Brito, will play from Havana for two fifteen-minute periods during the hour. Wayne King's Orchestra wil be presented from Chicago, while Howard Claney, m. c., will direct the entertainment from New York.

The Washington Radio Club will be addressed by P. L. Burger, operator of Station W3AEX, at the meeting tonight at 8 o'clock. C. H. Ward, operator of phone station W3BHN, is expected to contribute to the discussion.

The meeting will be held at the Department of Commerce Building, Nineteenth and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

THE latest development in electric musical instruments—an "augmented violin"—will make its radio debut when introduced during Rudy Vallee's late dance hour tonight.

An "augmented violin" is an ordinary violin with an attachment consisting of a sensitive needle clamped onto it so that it will pick up the musical vibrations of the bridge. The impulses are then carried to a special amplifying device which serves as a pedestal for a "speaker," from which the sound issues. Tone color and volume may be adjusted by a foot pedal operated by the violinist. It is said an unusual muted effect, of value in certain musical compositions, is obtained. The attachment was perfected in the RCA-Victor experimental laboratories at Camden, N. J.

The Federal Radio Commission, by a unanimous vote, yesterday removed Station KGEF, operated by the Rev. Bob Shuler, the Trinity Methodist Church South, of Los Angeles, from the air. Provoking widespread attention in and around Los Angeles several months ago by his alleged attacks by name on various organizations, political parties, public officials and individuals whom he had conceived to be moral enemies of society or foes of the proper enforcement of the law, the Shuler case soon became one of the most talked about in the annals of radio.

The Federal Radio Commission questioned Shuler at length concerning his broadcasting activities recently, and yesterday's decision was a result of that questioning.

Shuler may file an appeal with the court of appeals within twenty days.

Jane Cunningham INTERPRETS the MODE

New York, Nov. 13.

A WOMAN is as elegant as her house, as neat as her house, as artistic as her house. Oh, yes she is—whether she knows it or not, and she usually doesn't, her house is an exact picture of herself.

Oh, yes, I know how busy the modern woman is, how many more important things she has to do, etc., etc., etc. But all those, them and these excuses for an inartistic, or untidy or uninteresting house are just transparent to any onlooker!

The thing is that any artistic woman can't bear to have an ugly house, and no matter how much time she has or hasn't, or how little money she has, her home somehow is never inartistic. She does this instinctively, while some other woman may have to work a little harder at making her home artistic. But, the results and the effect are the same—both on the woman who lives in the surroundings, and on all those who come into her surroundings.

The same goes for untidiness—a neat woman is instinctively neat, and keeping things in their place is no effort for her. Children are taught this they are fortunate—if they aren't, they teach themselves.

There just isn't any excuse for living unbeatifully, not any. So better take a half hour a night to fix up your home, little by little, and then spend the half hour keeping it lovely after that!

* * * *

And start with sitting down at your desk right now and addressing an envelope to yourself, and another to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this new leaflet that just came back from the printers with some real ideas in it for fixing up the house and just the right idea for table runners and little table tops. And drapes, and sofa cushions, and hassocks made from—well, made our very own self. Send for the leaflet and see if you won't find ideas in it for making things to improve your house. And some of them will make fine Christmas presents, economically, too.

Hints From a Happy Housewife.

Goodness. Dionne's made another discovery! "You know that old navy cheviot cape I never could bear to throw away?" she writes. "Well, even if it ever got stylish again, which isn't likely, I've changed so that I look like a frump in it. But L'l Lovebug's a picture in the little cape coat and beret I made from it—and the pride of her heart is the envelope purse I made from the scraps and embroidered in bright red!"

* * * *

There's just one more chance left for you to find out how to become the world's prize secretary, whose raises roll in every six months, in or out of depression times! 'N' to get this chance you'll have to mail in today to the Dare department of The Washington Post your stamped, self-addressed envelope asking for our "Secrets of a Successful Secretary" leaflet.

Au revoir!

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

TRUMPING ACES TO FINESSE.

IF YOU should ever see your partner engaged in the pastime of trumping Aces and Kings in order to finesse other suits, you might be pardoned if you doubted his sanity, or at the very least, his knowledge of the finer points of the game. Certainly, if he sacrificed game by this method you would feel certain that he had a very severe case of Finessitis and no one could seriously blame you if you sought to avoid him as a partner in the future. However, occasionally a hand comes along in which some Aces and Kings have only the rank of the lowest playing cards in the suit, because their greatest value is that you can trump them and thus obtain easy access to the other hand. The bidding had reached rather dizzy heights and South had to play his best to make his contract, even though in doing it he greatly disturbed the serenity of his partner.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ 6 5 4 3 ♡ 5 4 3 2 ◇ — ♣ A Q 10 6 5
♠ 2 ♡ K J 7 6 ◇ Q J 10 9 6 4 ♣ J 7	N W E S	♠ K J 9 ♡ 9 8 ◇ 8 7 5 3 2 ♣ K 9 8
	♠ A Q 10 8 7 ♡ A Q 10 ◇ A K ♣ 4 3 2

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	5♠ (1)	Pass
6♠ (2)	Pass	Pass	Pass (3)

1—North is stretching the hand greatly to issue a Slam invitation. Slam should never be bid on distribution alone and, for all North knows, the combined hands may not hold more than half the honor-tricks in the deck. Another reason against the Slam invitation is the great danger of duplication of values due to North's void in diamonds and the possibility of South holding high honors in that suit.

2—Instead of a minimum, South holds a maximum one-bid. In fact, many players would mistakenly open the hand with a bid of two, forcing response from partner. His bid of six spades is therefore fully justified.

3—East fears a Double might prevent him from making a spade trick and he is by no means sure that the club King is a trick-taker.

West opened the diamond Queen and North was not surprised when one of his trumps was utilized to win the trick, but did feel a mild measure of astonishment when South played the Ace. A trump was now led from Dummy upon which East played the nine and South the ten. South, of course, holding the trick. South now led the King of diamonds, the high card of that suit again trumping in Dummy, to lead Dummy's last trump upon which East played the Knave and South the Queen. East's last trump was now captured and a small club led and the ten in the Dummy forced East's King. East now led a heart, hoping that South's love for finesses would control his play, but South was through with finesses for this hand. He played the Ace, led another club and the club suit in Dummy afforded discards for his losing hearts.

An over-optimistic Raise had given the Declarer the opportunity for brilliant playing which he had not been slow to seize.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: Name and explain the various kinds of Opening bids used.

Answer:

(1) Approach, which is a low bid and may not show the full value of the hand—a waiting bid.

(2) Forcing, which is an aggressive bid, saying: "Partner, our hands will produce game at some bid. Keep the bidding open until a game bid is reached."

(3) Preemptive, which is a shut-out bid and says, "Partner, my hand is good for game in this suit only and I am counting on at least 2 tricks from you. Unless you are quite strong and think we can surely make a Slam, do not bid except opponents force you to 'cover' their Overcall."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

THE MAKING OF A VITAMIN.

VEGETABLES are a valuable source of all vitamins except D, and it is even thought by some that the cod gets its supply from the vegetable kingdom. However, that point is of no practical importance for two reasons. If the codfish gets vitamin D from vegetable sources, it is not practicable for us to draw directly on that source. And again, if we do not wish to get our vitamin D from codliver oil, we can stay in the sunlight, drink radiated milk and eat radiated foods, or we can take viosterol out of a bottle.

Messrs. Heller and St. Julien found that bleaching vegetables did not lessen their vitamin content. Assuming their conclusion to be correct, we can eat blanched celery and the interior of a head of lettuce without feeling that we are missing the vitamins for which we are searching.

The making of vitamins by plants is somewhat akin to a photographing process. They result from the action of sunlight on the superficial cells of the plant, and usually on the cells of the leaves and blades. As a rule, the vitamins found by the cells of the leaves stay in those cells, or nearby. There is not much tendency for these vitamins to be carried away and deposited in the roots or other distant parts of the plants. The leaves and seed are, therefore, the best sources of vitamins, all other things being equal.

We do not know just what operates to produce vitamins. It is something connected with light, but it is not the heat of the light, nor the length of the wave, in the opinion of Heller and St. Julien. When wheat is sprouted in the sunlight and open air the sprouts contain some vitamin D. If it is sprouted under green glass it has a little of it, but not much. If under red glass, or if it is sprouted in the dark, it has none.

The maximum interest at the present time is vitamin A, especially as it is found in green and yellow beans, in carrots and in beets. This vegetable vitamin is found especially in colored vegetable oils. Carotin is one of the best known and most valuable sources of it.

Although the best known source is colored vegetable oil, Heller and St. Julien do not find that there is any relationship between the color, as such, and the vitamins. It appears that while the vitamin is associated with the color, while it is not abundant, let us say, in yellow oil, there is no necessary relationship between the two qualities. Vegetable oils can be yellow without having any vitamin A, and vegetable oils can contain this vitamin without being yellow.

MOTTLED TEETH.

E. C. writes: I think I have mottled teeth. The enamel is mottled with yellow. This makes me very unhappy. 1. Is it caused by too little lime in the food? 2. What foods contain lime?

REPLY.

1. No.

2. Among the foods that are rich in lime are milk, cheese and other milk products, nuts, such vegetables as greens and salads, whole grain cereals and flours. Have a dentist decide whether you have mottled teeth. If so, the cause lies in the water supply. Water that contains an excess of fluorine should be avoided as a preventive, and possibly as a means of cure.

SENSE OF SMELL LOST.

S. L. A. writes: If a person loses his sense of smell, is there any kind of treatment that would restore it?

REPLY.

No.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:50 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1:30 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 7:15 p. m. to 8:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:45 p. m.

November 14 is the least fortunate date of this week; false hopes will be aroused and promising opportunities will be balked by tantalizing delays, so little will be gained in the end. Romance will knock at the door of younger folk, but there is an element of danger.

The child born on this November 14 will be full of mischief, and will have little sense of fear. Its adventurous spirit will land it into scrapes, but it is indicated that it will always land on its feet with a smile. It will always try to have its own way.

Born on November 14, you have a hearty, whole-souled nature, and you are outwardly seldom low-spirited. You act as a tonic, not a depressant, upon your associates, and you are capable of lifting others out of black moods into merry ones. Circumstances and people do annoy or worry you at times, but you are capable of soon throwing off adverse influences.

You are not a single-subject person, and you do not care for people with narrow interests. Your own interests in things will be just as lively when you are old as when you are young. You are very thorough as a student and as a worker. You grasp things quickly, but are none the less able to clinch your knowledge. You take the strictly practical view that results, and results alone, count, and do not stick to pet theories or methods. Although not weak-willed or possessed of wabbly convictions, you are always ready to change your mind for attractive reasons. You thoroughly enjoy doing things impromptu. You also enjoy entering into untried adventures, especially if an element of risk is present. You are not in the least conventional, and you choose "Bohemian" rather than "exclusive" people for friends.

Big successes will never come your way. Neither will you meet with any outstanding failures. You will get out of life, what you put into it, considerable fun and a maximum amount of happiness.

Successful People Born November 14.

Mrs. Belmont Cancels Capital Radio Speech

New York., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. August Belmont today canceled an engagement to speak over the radio from Washington tomorrow, but denied reports she was suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Her secretary said Mrs. Belmont had had a very busy week, and was tired, and that she canceled the radio engagement to go away to the country for the week-end.

Washington Man Named Business Writers' Head

Boulder, Colo., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Fred E. Kunkel, of Washington, D. C., has been chosen the new president of the National Association of Business Writers. The mail vote was announced here today.

R. A. Sullivan, New Orleans, La., was chosen vice president, and the following were named directors: H. L. Lawwson, Detroit; Leslie Childs, Indianapolis, and Mary Gleeson, San Francisco. John T. Bartlett, of Boulder, will continue as secretary-treasurer.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

She Married a Clod.

DEAR Frances MacDonald: I have been married a number of years and, best, I can't even imagine my husband doing anything that isn't exactly right. That is wonderful, of course, but the trouble is that he doesn't do much that is right either. He assures me, when pressed, that he loves me; yet he would be perfectly content to live without ever coming within ten feet of me. He will not carry on a conversation with me, though he is always kind and will answer anything I say to him—with monosyllables if possible.

When I married I thought only a "bad" woman would care to be with any man than her husband. Six years later I felt like a rag doll, and might as well have been one for all the attention my husband ever paid me, except when I threw myself at him. Then one evening a friend of his let me know that to him I was extremely attractive. I think now, considering what a ray of sunshine he shot into my heart, that I did very well not to have made a fool of myself over him. I did go to lunch with him, though, and for an afternoon drive. I shall never forget the difference it made in my little life. Since then there have been many men. There are always new ones. I enjoy the society of a man with a good mind more than anything.

The trouble with this is that no man will stay content with such a friendship. They all, sooner or later, begin to want love. And once they get started on that they can't think of anything else. I have been guilty only of granting a kiss or two, upon occasion, but that only makes matters worse. I can not be cheap.

Besides a few months ago, I decided that my children were reaching the age when they would be terribly hurt if they should happen to learn that their mother was not the ideal woman they had always thought her to be, so I decided that I would never be or do anything of which they would not approve again. I'm sticking, of course, but already my world is looking drab and uninteresting, my face is sagging, and I dread the future.

I go to bridge parties and enjoy them, but they do not stimulate me.

I read a great deal—the world's best literature. That is my only hope at present.

Am I just hopelessly shallow-minded? Is that the trouble with me?

Can you help me to gain a state of mind above the need of my husband's affection?

A FOOL WOMAN.

You are not a "fool woman." You are, I am sure a very lovely and lovable one, who should really have asked a divorce years ago, for a marriage like yours is truly one of the ugliest things in life. It has actually no excuse for its existence—an error of youth that should be erased and forgotten. However, the existence of children complicated such situations. And you are fine enough to realize it. The answer, therefore, for you is a far from satisfactory one, for it takes no count whatever of your personal needs as a human being of normal make-up and normal affections. It is at best a makeshift, for it requires that you eliminate yourself as a woman and become only a mother. But being the fine person that you are, you will rise to the occasion, lavish upon your children the love that your negative mate has declined. And in so doing you can be comforted by the thought that your children need love quite as much as you do—are probably as starved as you are although they too may hide their need. You should exert yourself to make them respond to affection lest they develop the cloddish tendencies of their father. It is one of the merciful dispensations of nature that woman is constituted to transfer her affections from her mate to her offspring and find happiness in so doing. It is, of course, substitution, but it is a better one than the other makeshifts you have tried—and found wanting. No woman as fine as you are can ever find anything but heartache in extra-marital affairs. They take the bloom off life and stir fruitless rebellion against fate. Nature's way is best—sinking womanhood in motherhood. And you will do this gloriously, because you are an exceptional woman.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

I HAVE a great many trees on my lawn. Most of them are wide spreading and the grass simply will not do well under them. I have tried all sorts of shady lawn mixture and now I am going to take your advice and in the spring plant one or two reliable ground cover plants. Please give me a list of three.

HERBERT D. K.

First, try Japanese spurge. This, I think, when established is the best. Then try English ivy or periwinkle (vinca minor).

Please tell me how to protect a bed of perennials (mixed varieties).

ANNA T.

Cover the bed with cornfodder or evergreen boughs and on top of this material rake leaves to the depth of 4 inches. Do not reverse this order and use the leaves next to the soil. If you do, they will become matted and start to ferment when the days become warm in late February. This condition is likely to injure the plants.

Is it true that old seed of perennials will not germinate?

A NEW GARDENER.

Yes. For this reason seed should be sown in September and the seedlings wintered in a cold frame.

I have an upstairs heated, sunny porch. Do you think it would be possible to induce a moonflower to bloom, if I planted the seed in a lawn tube? The floor is tiled and the roof of glass so the plant would get plenty of sun and I could use a garden hose to spray the foliage.

MRS. FRANK S. P.

I see no reason why a moonflower vine should not grow and flower under such conditions.

Please tell me whether tuberous-rooted begonias would bloom in an eastern window. Also if pteris ferns would do well in a northern room where, while there is no sun, there is plenty of light. JESSIE L. M.

Tuberous-rooted begonias should bloom in an eastern window and pteris ferns should do well in the location you mention.

Please tell me of two shrubs which are adaptable for hedge use which produce flowers and do not attain to a height of more than 2 feet.

ALLEN A. L.

Anthony Waterer spiraea (spiraea bumalda) and daphne cneorum (garland flower) would do well as a hedge. The latter, while beautiful, attains only to a height of 8 inches. Viburnum carlesi (snowball bush) attains a height of 2 to 3 feet. This is a Korean variety bearing fragrant flowers which resemble the blossoms of the bouvardia. A hedge of this shrub would be unusual.

CHURCH TO CONTINUE RECRUITING DRIVE

Luther Place Memorial to Welcome New Members Tomorrow.

At the 11 o'clock service tomorrow at Luther Place Memorial Church at Thomas Circle, another large group of new members will be received into the fellowship of the congregation. It is expected that its size will be such as to bring the total number of new members recruited in nineteen months up to the 600 mark.

Having now more than trebled its membership in nineteen months, the congregation is planning a continuation of its recruiting program with renewed zeal, and is hoping to be well on toward a quadrupled membership by next Easter.

An interesting development in the Luther Place activities is the success that has attended the recruiting efforts of the assistant pastor, the Rev. Frank H. Clutz. He was graduated from the Lutheran Seminary at Gettysburg last spring, and welcomed the opportunity to come to Luther Place on what is now known in religious circles as a clinical year program. This practically amounts to a post-graduate fellowship for a seminarian.

Coming to Luther Place the first of last June to assist Dr. Rasmussen, Mr. Clutz spent that month studying the methods that have achieved so much under the leadership of Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, the pastor. At the end of that period he took full charge of the work of the congregation during the two and a half months that Dr. Rasmussen was on his vacation. He has recruited upward of 60 new members in four and a half months through his own efforts, which is regarded in church circles as almost without parallel for a seminarian.

The Sunday school at Luther Place will function tomorrow for the first time under its reorganization plans, which includes a board of directors for the government of the school, and a committee of three superintendents to put the policies formulated by the board into effect. Both the board and the committee are under the presidency of the pastor.

Dr. Rasmussen was one of the leading figures in the development of the program of the Pennsylvania State Sunday School Association before coming to Washington and to the Luther Place pastorate.

Page to Narrate His Experiences

Clerk of House to Address Mt. Pleasant Church Men's Club.

William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives for the last 12 years, and for 50 years a member of the official staff of the House, will spend an hour or two next Wednesday evening reciting some reminiscences of his half century of service at a meeting of the Men's Club of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

A close relative of two famous Russian musical composers is to be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Women's Guild of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church at 11 o'clock next Wednesday morning. Mme. Natalia Rimsky-Korsakoff, who is a cousin of both Tschaikovsky and Rimsky-Korsakoff, and a permanent resident of Washington, will speak on "The Life of Tschaikovsky." Miss Constance Russell, a widely known local pianist, will play several compositions of the Rusian composer.

Some of the probable accomplishments of science in the improvement of the world and the living conditions of the people in it will be told by Dr. H. D. Hubbard, assistant to the director of the Bureau of Standards, at the session of the Adult Forum of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tomorrow morning.

Y. M. C. A. Religion School Starts Year

Last Monday night the Y. M. C. A. School of Religion commenced its thirteenth year, with the best enrollment that it has had for several years. Dr. George S. Duncan began his new duties as dean, filling the vacancy left by the death of the late Dr. Homer J. Councilor. Mrs. Anne Tillery Renshaw, instructor in public speaking, is also teaching in story telling, and Dr. Harvey Baker Smith, pastor of Columbia Heights Christian Church, is teaching the class in psychology.

Two new courses are being offered, the teaching work of the church, and dramatization and pageantry. Miss Lillian Shewmaker is teaching the course on the teaching work of the church, while Mrs. Blanche Mayes Marshall is teaching the course on dramatization and pageantry.

St. Columba Plans Drive To Gather in Churchless

St. Columba's Episcopal Church, Forty-second and Albemarle streets northwest, will make a house-to-house canvass of the community in which it is located tomorrow, with a view to gathering in the churchless, particularly those of the faith. This every member canvass is to be conducted by the men of the congregation, led by William Tyler Page and the rector, the Rev. Emanuel LeMoine. Plans for it were laid at a congregational meeting Monday evening, when the reports of the various organizations of the church were made, and the budget presented by A. F. E. Horn.

Gunton Temple Club Will Present Fantasy

This evening, in the assembly room, the girls of the Fideles Club of Gunton Temple Presbyterian Church will present, "Three Pills in a Bottle," a fantasy in one act by Rachel Field. The characters are: Tony, Helen Emmett; The Widow Simms, June Weber; A Middle-aged Gentleman, Jenny Kinney; His Soul, Marie Heine; A Scissors Grinder, Doris Cone; His Soul, Eleanor Bradley; A Scrub Woman, Dorothy Baugh; Her Soul, Audrey Moler.

Red Cross at Universalist Church.

Representatives of the Red Cross will visit the Universalist National Memorial Church tomorrow morning for the purpose of enrolling new members of this organization.

Epiphany Chapel Plans Bazaar.

A three-day bazaar will be held at the chapel house of Epiphany Chapel, beginning next Tuesday. Supper will be served each evening.

BISHOP OF HONOLULU EVENSONG PREACHER

Visiting Prelate Also Will Address St. Margaret's and Students.

A distinguished missionary of the Episcopal Church, Right Rev. S. Harrington Littell, of Honolulu, will preach at the 4 o'clock evensong at the Washington Cathedral tomorrow afternoon. There will be no broadcast, owing to the demand for the hour for the emergency employment committee's program, extending from 3:30 to 5 o'clock.

While he is in Washington, Bishop Littell will deliver a series of missionary addresses on Honolulu as follows:

Tomorrow—11 a. m., St. Margaret's Church; 4 p. m., Washington Cathedral, service to be broadcast; 8 p. m., National Cathedral School for Girls.

Monday—Address at the National Cathedral School for Boys.

Tuesday—Address before the students of Virginia Theological Seminary.

Coming from an old Delaware family, on completing his college course and his course in theology, Dr. Littell went immediately to the American Church Mission in Hankow, China, where for over 30 years he labored with marked success, establishing new missions and taking a foremost position among the missionary activities of the Orient.

Under his administration, since his consecration in February, 1930, the missionary district of Honolulu has taken on vastly increased importance as one of the vital outposts of the world-wide missionary enterprises of the Episcopal Church. He has put new zeal and knowledge into the work in the mid-Pacific islands, and in this, his first appearance in continental United States, as the head of the church's work there, he brings an important message to the people of the church from their brethren in this romantic territory over which the American flag floats.

Mission Praise Service At Central Presbyterian

November has been designated for the consideration of home missions throughout the Southern Presbyterian Church. Tomorrow night at the Central Presbyterian Church the annual praise service for home missions will be held, and an address on home missions will be made by the Rev. W. B. McIlwaine, who has recently come from Charlotte, N. C., to the Second Presbyterian Church of Alexandria, Va.

The sermon tomorrow morning will be preached by the Rev. G. Wilbur Shipley, in the absence of the pastor, Dr. James H. Taylor, who is out of the city for some weeks.

Catechumens Trained At St. Paul's Lutheran

Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, is training a large class of catechumens for admission into the congregation.

On Thursday evening he is continuing his lectures on the symbols of the church, and on Sunday evenings he is preaching sermons on business slogans applied to spiritual things.

Capital Choir to Sing In Winchester Church

The vested chorus of 80 voices, Mt. Vernon Place M. E. Church South, will give a sacred concert in the First Baptist Church of Winchester, Va., tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

Dr. E. T. Clark, pastor of the Winchester church, invited the chorus to give the program which was given at Mt. Vernon church at the tenth anniversary concert in October. R. Deane Shure, director of the chorus will stop off at Luray, Va., and give the opening recital on the new organ recently installed in the M. E. Church of which R. Carl Maxwell is pastor.

"Just as I Am" Hymn Will Be Dramatized

It is said that the evening service at Petworth Methodist Church is drawing people from all over the city. the pastor, the Rev. Robert Louis Wood, is giving a series of sermons on old hymns. The one chosen for tomorrow evening is "Just As I Am."

It will be given a dramatic interpretation by a group of young ladies, directed by Miss Ruth McGuire. The Petworth chorus choir assisted by soloists will give a preliminary song service.

Choir to Sing in Winchester.

The choir of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church will journey to Winchester tomorrow afternoon, and in the evening will give a sacred concert in the First Baptist Church of that city. R. Deane Shure will lead them.

10 YEARS IN PULPIT TO BE CELEBRATED

Rev. W. E. LaRue Began Work in Takoma Park Under Apple Tree.

Ten years ago the Rev. William E. LaRue accepted a call to a Baptist church in Takoma Park that did not exist. That is to say, there was a congregation of small dimensions, but no house in which to worship. His first sermon was preached under an apple tree in the yard of the late Mrs. Georgia Fraser on Highland avenue.

His people must have liked his first sermon, for they made a contract with him that has remained unbroken for a decade, and tomorrow he is going to celebrate his tenth anniversary of his pastorate by preaching again the sermon that he first delivered to the little group under the apple tree. It is hoped to have present every living person who first heard that sermon.

Under Mr. LaRue's leadership, the beautiful new church at Piney Branch road and Aspen street has been built, at a cost of $108,000, on which there is a debt of $21,000. He has received into fellowship 341 persons, and has raised for all purposes the sum of $106,584.74, of which sum $15,112.85 has been for benevolences.

For several years the pastor has invited a boy or girl to come into the pulpit and assist him with the services. The first boy to volunteer his services, John Kendrick, 604 Whittier street, will assist in the anniversary service by reading the Scripture.

Mr. LaRue has also a custom of giving a sermonette every Sabbath morning to the children, and he will repeat the first sermonette he gave them in October, 1927, "A Feathered Tale."

This church is a Bible church, and one of its features has been a series of talks by the pastor which have covered every book in that sacred record.

Dr. McCartney to Begin Sermons to Children

Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church will begin a series of sermonettes to the children tomorrow morning, which will be given in the course of the morning service in the church. These sermonettes for the children were so popular last year, that, owing to the many requests for them, the new series was prepared.

Pacific Northwest Topic Of Concordia Lecture

An illustrated lecture on "The Pacific Northwest" will be given at Concordia Church tomorrow evening, in the place of the regular preaching service.

This lecture will deal with the progress that is being made in the mission churches of the Evangelical Synod of North America in Oregon and Washington.

Money for Missions To Be Placed on Altar

A beautiful custom will be observed at Grace Lutheran Church tomorrow morning, when the women's organizations of the congregation will lay on the altar all of the special collections that have been raised during the year for missions.

The Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski, pastor, will preach a special sermon on the subject: "Dare We Despise Missions?"

Congregational Group Convenes on Tuesday

The Washington Association of Congregational Churches will hold its ninety-eighth session next Tuesday, meeting at Mount Pleasant Church.

There will be an afternoon session, beginning at 2 o'clock, and an evening session, beginning at 7:20. An unusually interesting program has been arranged.

Union Thanksgiving Service in Georgetown

The union Thanksgiving service for the eleven Protestant churches of Georgetown will be held in the Georgetown Presbyterian Church on Thanksgiving moring at 11 o'clock.

The Rev. H. A. Kester, pastor of the Congress Street Methodist Protestant Church, will preach the sermon.

Thursday Program Discontinued.

The church night program, held at Calvary Methodist Church every Thursday evening from 6 to 9 o'clock, will be discontinued for the next two weeks. Prayer meeting as usual at 8 o'clock.

Chaplain in Honduras Preaches Here Sunday

The Rev. Percy Steed, chaplain to the Bishop of Honduras, is visiting Washington, en route from England to Belize, British Honduras, to appeal for aid on behalf of the sufferers in the recent hurricane and tidal wave disaster, the effects of which are being felt not only in Belize, but also throughout Central America. He will preach tomorrow at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church at 11 a. m., and at the Church of the Epiphany at 8 p. m.

Holy Communion at Healing.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at the Christian healing service by Dr. Dudley Tuesday morning at 10:30 at the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest.

Eldbrooke Officers to Be Installed.

At the morning service of Eldbrooke Methodist Church the pastor, the Rev. Walter M. Michael, will install the new officers of the Oxford League. Marion S. Michael is the president and Clifford Downs is the first vice president.

PASTOR TO OBSERVE 25 YEARS' SERVICE

Rev. F. W. Johnson Quarter of Century Tomorrow at Grace Baptist.

Baptist ministers are not much given to change. There are three of them in this city, for instance, who have served their present pastorates more than 25 years—Dr. John Compton Ball, of the Metropolitan Church; Dr. John E. Briggs, of the Fifth Church, and the Rev. F. W. Johnson, of Grace Church.

Mr. Johnson will begin his twenty-sixth year at Grace Church tomorrow, and his people have planned a celebration worthy of that event. In the evening W. W. Everett, George B. Bryan and Dr. W. Allen Wilbur will be the speakers. Dr. Alfred W. Harned's noted Capital City choir will furnish the music. The ladies of the congregation have decorated the church in honor of the event.

There are not more than half a dozen ministers now active in Washington pulpits who were here when Mr. Johnson came. In his own church are the two mentioned above. In the Presbyterian Church were Dr. Woods, now emeritus pastor of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, and Dr. Joseph Kelley, pastor emeritus of the Fourth Presbyterian Church. Dr. J. F. Grimke, of the Fifteenth Street Presbyterian Church, was then well established in his long ministry.

Dr. Abram Simon was just beginning his ministry at the Washington Hebrew Congregation.

What a story the old city directory of 1906 could tell, about the Washington churches, if it would only speak out.

Canon Rudd Lectures On Beauty of Cathedral

Canon Arthur B. Rudd, of Washington Cathedral, lectured at the Mayflower Hotel last night on the subject of Washington Cathedral and its beautiful garden. The lecture was attended by a number of visitors in Washington, and Canon Rudd extended a cordial invitation to all present to make pilgrimage to the Cathedral during their stay in the National Capital. He stated that the members of the Cathedral staff of clergy and pilgrim aids are available to show pilgrims through Washington Cathedral from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily.

Candon Rudd will deliver a similar lecture at the Dodge Hotel tonight at 8:30 o'clock, to which all are cordially invited.

Education, Topic Of Catholic Hour

Dr. Barrett Will Speak on Radio Tomorrow Afternoon.

The Washington Catholic radio hour will add another name to its distinguished list of speakers when tomorrow Dr. John I. Barrett, superintendent of archdiocesan schools, will deliver his discourse on "Education?" Dr. Barrett is scheduled to speak again the following Sunday when his subject will be "Catholic Education."

The services, which are broadcast at 5 o'clock every Sunday afternoon from the Church of the Immaculate Conception through station WOL, are under the direction of the Rev. Francis J. Hurney and known as the Washington Catholic radio hour. Miss Florence Yocum and Dr. Seba L. Christie will be vocal soloists at the service Sunday, and will be assisted by the Immaculate Conception Choir, under the direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard and the Boys' Sanctuary Choir, under the direction of Brother Lewis. Miss Ann Arlen will be violin soloist.

Father Hurney will preside and will be assisted by the Rev. Stanley Czyz and the Rev. J. Kelly Reese at the blessing of the sick, which takes place in the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes every Sunday afternoon at these broadcast services.

Vaughn Class to Hold 41st Annual Concert

The Vaughn Class of the Calvary Baptist Sunday school, the oldest organized men's Bible class in the city, will hold its forty-first annual concert next Friday night at 8 o'clock at the Calvary Sunday school, Eighth and H streets northwest.

Chester C. Hutchinson heads the committee in charge. The program will include the Cedar Hill Instrumental Trio, Miss Blanche Kerr, soprano, and the Estelle Wentworth Opero Company, in a tabloid of "Il Trovatore."

Canon of Hereford Cathedral Preacher

A noted English churchman, the Rev. A. L. Lilley, canon of Hereford Cathedral, England, who will lead the conference at the College of Preachers on Advent preaching, which will begin tomorrow and last until Saturday, will preach at the 11 a. m. celebration of the Holy Communion and sermon in the Bethlehem Chapel tomorrow. Canon Lilley has been canon of Hereford Cathedral since 1922, and is in America on a visit.

Trinity Methodists Plan Harvest Home Festival

A harvest home festival will be celebrated at Trinity Methodist Church at both services tomorrow. The altar of the church will be decorated with fruits of the fields, with leaves of the forest and with flowers of the garden.

Guy Skinner has arranged a special musical program and Dr. Dan L. Ennis, the pastor, will preach two appropriate sermons.

Church to Elect Officers.

The annual election of elders and deacons at Eckington Presbyterian Church will take place next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The annual turkey dinner and bazaar of the church will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Bible Class Plans Banquet.

The Women's Bible Class of the First Congregational Church will hold their banquet on Wednesday at 6 p. m. Dr. William A. Shelton, minister of Mount Vernon M. E. Church South, will speak on "Sermons in Stones."

Church School Conference.

The officers and teachers of the Church School of Union Methodist Church will have a conference on Wednesday night at the church.

CENTRAL MISSION ASKS FOR FUNDS

Unemployment Situation and Thanksgiving Enlarge Needs of Budget.

With increased demands necessitated by the unemployment situation and the approach of Thanksgiving, the Central Union Mission has appealed to the Protestant churches of Washington for funds to meet its annual budget.

Through a ministerial board on which are represented the pastors of more than a score of churches, the mission serves as the general social welfare clearing house for the Protestant churches of the city. Arrangements already are being made, with the cooperation of the women's guild of the mission, to send out 350 baskets of food on Thanksgiving Day, to the homes of families whose needs are being listed. Each basket will contain a complete Thanksgiving dinner for five persons.

In addition to this phase of the Thanksgiving program, the mission will serve a special dinner to all homeless men who apply, and a treat also for the 40 small boys and girls who make their residence temporarily with the children's emergency home conducted in connection with the mission.

Superintendent John S. Bennett, who issued the appeal, reminded friends of the mission that it is not a member of the Community Chest, and therefore can not expect support from that source. During the past year, local conditions have served to increase the emergency work of the mission by more than 200 per cent. More than 109,000 homeless and destitute men were fed there during the year, and an average of about 200 are being fed each morning and evening, with the peak to be reached later in the winter.

Recreation for Men At Covenant-First

Monday evening at 8 o'clock Dr. Albert J. McCartney will show slides and films and give a lecture on his trip abroad this summer, to the men of the Covenant-First Presbyterian congregation. This meeting is under the auspices of the Mens Club of the church.

Every Monday night at 7:30 o'clock is recreation period for the men at the church. Games such as ping pong, miniature golf, backgammon, chess and checkers and good fellowship are provided. The church is open from 7:30 on Monday night for all who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity to relax and play.

Way Back Home, Theme Of Stockdale Sermon

Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, minister of the First Congregational Church, will take Seth Parker's "Way Back Home" for the theme of his evening service tomorrow. Memories of home, simple honesty, neighborliness, clean fun, song and captivating love are good things to think about so near to Thanksgiving Day.

Dr. Stockdale will draw out his Sunday evening audience to discuss four questions about Seth Parker's "Way Back Home."

Dr. Brodie to Address Presbyterian Group

The Presbyterian Minister's Association, of Washington and vicinity will meet Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Dr. Andrew M. Brodie, associate minister of the New York Avenue Church, will speak on the theme, "Mexico." Ministers of the city, regardless of denomination are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Metropolitan Baptists Raise $30,000 in Year

The Metropolitan Baptist Church has just closed its fiscal year, and the accounts show that over $30,000 has been raised for current expenses and benevolences.

A total of 128 new members have been received, and the membership has grown to 1,561. The total enrollment of the Bible School, including home department and cradle roll, is 1,716.

Church Service for Men.

Dr. B. P. Robertson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hyattsville, will hold a special meeting for men tomorrow morning and will preach a sermon, appropriate to the occasion. Special music has been arranged.

THE ONCE OVER

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE.

("Congress has a little known committee known as the committee for the disposition of useless executive papers, etc."—News item.)

Committee for the D. O. U. E. P.
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.
Gentlemen:

Yours is a committee which it seems to me must be pretty useful down in Washington. In fact, it must be almost invaluable among congressmen. If there is one place where executive papers, useless and otherwise, must pile up it is in Washington.

* * * *

I see there are only two members of the committee for the disposition of useless executive papers, one Democrat and one Republican, and that during Republican control the Republican member is chairman and vice versa. Being chairman must give considerable satisfaction, as it carries with it more authority when it comes to a question of how far some of those papers can be thrown.

* * * *

One question I want to ask is whether the committee for the disposition of useless executive papers can dispose of them before they are sent, or only after they have been delivered and left around the shack a long time?

* * * *

It would be a great aid to good government and to world peace if most state papers could be disposed of before they ever reach the person or persons for whom they are intended. You take a situation like this Chinese-Japanese crisis: the country at large would feel safer if all those notes by Secretary Stimson could be disposed of by your committee post haste.

* * * *

Do you have any dissension in your committee? Does it frequently happen that the Democratic member will favor disposing of some state documents that the Republican member wants to leave lying around a little while longer? And do you let sentiment influence you? I ask these questions because I am a man who always has a lot of junk around his office and never gets down to the job of tossing it away. About twice a year my desk gets so littered with old papers that I decide to clean things up, but I never make much progress, due to the fact, that I have to dispose of correspondence, no matter how old. I am always afraid that I may throw away something that I will need for reference later.

* * * *

There are hundreds of letters on my desk that I have not answered and never intend to answer, but when it comes to tossing them into the ash can some unseen hand clutches me and a voice whispers, "Not now. You might decide to reply to it some day. Better keep it another year or so."

* * * *

My office is full of books that should be thrown away, pamphlets that are useless to me, old magazines, bills, statements, golf scores, &c., but I am unable to get rid of them. That is why your committee for the disposition of useless executive papers interests me. Could you let me know just how you work, what weather you prefer for disposing of useless documents, whether you like to do it in the morning or afternoon, and what time of year is best for the task? Or do you think the best thing to do is rake the stuff into a pile, toss in a match and go out to lunch.

Any advice you can give will be appreciated by Yours truly,

ELMER TWITCHELL.

* * * *

Whereupon He Fainted.

He had been taken sick during the night. Whisky, he thought, would help him until the doctor could be called. But he knew of none in the house. Finally his wife came to the rescue. "I put a quart of whisky away a long time ago for just such an emergency," she said sweetly. And then added:

"But that was eighteen years ago. It probably wouldn't be any good now."

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A Popular Type.

Don't you adore it?

It's just as simple as can be, distinguished by its chic detail.

It's one of the lovely, supple, tweed-like woolens all the smart folk are wearing. The belt is suede.

The criss cross lines of the bodice create a charming slenderizing effect. The skirt is given new animation through inverted plaits that give a wide box-plait effect.

It's as easy as A, B, C, to make it! Style No. 969 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. The 36-inch size requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with 3 yards of binding.

You'll like it too in wool jersey or ribbed sheer velvet.

Price of pattern 15 cents.

RECIPES FROM MEN WELCOMED BY POST

Women, So Far, However, Have Offered More Appealing Concoctions.

Judging from the letters which arrive from pleased housewives, the recipes sent in by homemakers in the weekly $5 contest are meeting with a great deal of favor from the readers of this page.

Among the entries now and then are recipes sent in by men. Well, there is no objection to that and when they send in better recipes than the women contestants one of them will win the prize.

NUT LOAF.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 pound dates (stoned).
1 pound walnuts, M. B. Frazier's (black or English).
1 cup Washington Self-Rising Flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup sugar.
4 eggs (yolks and whites beaten separately).
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix salt and dates with flour. Mix sugar, eggs yolks and nuts. Combine the two mixtures and fold in egg whites. Add vanilla and bake one hour in slow oven. Line baking pan with oiled paper.

The following received honorable mention:

GRIDDLE CAKES.

1 cup Gold Medal flour
½ cup cornmeal (white)
½ cup whole wheat flour
1 level teaspoonful of soda
½ teaspoonful salt
1 teaspoonful sugar
1 pound melted butter
Buttermilk or sour milk (quantity according to thickness desired)

Combine flours, soda, salt, &c., add melted butter. Fry on a hot greased griddle. Serve at once with Green Mountain Boy maple syrup or Zirkle's honey as preferred.

MRS. H. W. BOWLES.
1322 North Carolina avenue.

DAN DEE PUDDING.

2 cups Schneider's Dan Dee crumbs
¾ cup chopped suet
¾ cup marmalade
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
6 tablespoons milk
¾ teaspoon milk
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Combine crumbs, suet, sugar, salt and nutmeg and mix well. Beat the eggs, add the milk and marmalade. Mix well and add to dry ingredients. Mix again and turn into a buttered mold, cover and steam two hours. Serve warm with cream or any pudding sauce desired.

FLORENCE McWILLIAMS.

ICE BOX GINGERBREAD.

1 cup molasses
1 cup sugar
1 cup butter (Land o' Lakes)
1 cup sour milk
4 eggs (beaten)
3½ cups flour (plain Washington)
1 teaspoon each ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg and vanilla.
1 teaspoon soda dissolved in teaspoon of hot water
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup raisins.

Mix sugar, molasses and butter together, add well-beaten eggs, then the sour milk. Mix salt and spices with sifted flour, add vanilla and soda which has been dissolved in hot water. Add raisins which have been floured. Put batter in pint jars, screw lid on tight, put in ice box and bake when wanted.

MRS. J. L. O'CONNELL.

BRAISED LIVER.

1 pound beef liver
Salt and pepper
Flour
Fat
1 small onion
1 can Campbell's vegetable soup (Sanitary Grocery Co.)
Worcestershire sauce.

Slice onion and saute in a small amount of fat until lightly browned. Put into casserole. Wash liver which has been purchased in solid piece. Drain and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Roll in flour. Put in caserole on the sauted onion. Pour the vegetable soup over and around it, add a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1½ hours. If desired, garnish with crisp bacon.

Hammond Pudding Recipe Wins Thanksgiving Award

Post Staff Photo.

MRS. GEORGE H. HAMMOND, of the Park Tower Apartments, won the $5 award given by The Post for the best food page recipe this week.

Delicacy Will Keep in Ice Box for Months, Says Originator.

Mrs. George H. Hammond, of the Park Tower Apartments, wins the $5 prize awarded by the Food Page Editor this week for the outstanding contribution in The Post's weekly recipe contest.

With Thanksgiving close at hand, and thoughts of bon vivants turning once more on roast turkey and puddings and good things to eat, Mrs. Hammond's winning recipe, "Steamed Holiday Pudding," should solve many a housewife's problem.

And, even if there is a law, the "brandy sauce" mentioned in her formula should not be without its appeal, nor the nuts, nor the raisins, nor the crystallized fruit. Once made, as Mrs. Hammond points out, the pudding can be kept in the ice box for two or three months.

Steamed Holiday Pudding.
(Awarded $5 prize.)

1 quart bread crumbs
1 cup Brer Rabbit light molasses
Butter size of walnut
1 level tablespoon soda
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup raisins

Nuts (M. B. Frazier), crystallized fruit (pineapple and cherries), orange and lemon peel and citron, mixed, 1 cup.

Directions.

Bread crumbs broken as for dressing. It will look dry when mixed with molasses, but do not add any water. Put soda in molasses and other ingredients as named. Pack in coffee can (Bokar), about 2 inches from top, and boil for two hours. Serve with hard sauce or brandy sauce. This pudding can be kept in icebox for two or three months. Place in boiling water half-hour before serving.

MRS. GEORGE H. HAMMOND.
Park Tower, apartment 316.

Date Marshmallow Loaf.

½ pound graham crackers (3 doz.)
½ pound dates (1 cup sliced)
½ pound marshmallows (30)
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup evaporated milk

Roll graham crackers fine. Reserve ½ cup crumbs. Cut dates and marshmallows in small pieces. Combine with chopped nuts and all but ½ cup of the cracker crumbs. Add evaporated milk and blend well. Spread the ½ cup crumbs on a piece of waxed paper. Turn mixture on to crumbs and shape in a roll. Cover with waxed paper and set in refrigerator to chill. Press mixture into square or rectangular pan, chill and cut into squares and dust with powdered sugar.

Ham With Noodles.

(Serves Two Persons.)

1 tablespoon butter or other fat
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup milk
1 cup cooked noodles
1 cup ground cooked ham
Salt
Pepper
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Make a white sauce of the fat, flour and milk, and add about ⅛ teaspoon of salt, depending on the saltiness of the ham. Make alternate layers of noodles and ham in a shallow baking dish, pour on the white sauce, sprinkle buttered crumbs over the top, and bake about 15 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.).

Stuffed Beef Heart.

(Serves Five Persons.)

1 beef heart
2 tablespoons becon fat or drippings
1 small onion, chopped
½ green pepper, chopped
3 cups bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped celery

Wash the heart and remove the gristle and veins. Make a slit in the side and fill with stuffing made as follows: Melt the fat, cook the onion and green pepper for a few minutes, add the bread crumbs, salt and celery and stir until well mixed. Sprinkle the heart inside and out with salt and pepper, fill with the hot stuffing and sew up the slit. Sear the heart in hot fat, place in a baking dish, add ½ cup of hot water, cover and cook until tender in a very moderate oven (300 degrees F.). This will require about 2 hours. Remove the heart and add flour to the drippings and enough water to make a thin gravy. Serve surrounded by the gravy.

Roast Stuffed Spareribs.

(Serves Five Persons.)

2 sections of spareribs
1 cup fine, dry bread crumbs
¼ cup diced salt pork
¼ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped parsley
5 tart apples, diced
½ cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Select well-fleshed rib sections that match. Have the breastbone cracked so that it will be easy to carve between the ribs. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Prepare the stuffing as follows: Fry the salt pork until crisp and remove the pieces from the skillet. Cook the celery, onion and parsley in the fat for a few minutes and remove them. Put the apples into the skillet, sprinkle with the sugar, cover, and cook until tender, then remove the lid and continue to cook until the juice evaporates and the pieces of apple are candied. Mix with the apples the bread crumbs, crisp salt pork, cooked vegetables, salt and pepper. Lay one section of the ribs out flat, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and spread with the hot stuffing. Cover with the other section and sew the two together. Sprinkle the outside with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Lay the stuffed ribs on a rack in an open roasting pan and sear in a hot oven (480 degrees F.) for 20 minutes, or until the meat is lightly browned. Reduce the oven temperature rapidly to very moderate heat (300 to 325 degrees) and continue to cook for about an hour longer, or until the meat is tender. Remove the strings before serving the stuffed spareribs on a hot platter.

Codfish, Spaghetti and Tomatoes.

(Serves Two Persons.)

¼ pound salt codfish, diced
1 cup spaghetti, broken in small pieces
1 pint canned tomatoes
1 bay leaf
½ onion, sliced
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon olive oil or other fat
Chopped olives
Salt if needed

Soak the codfish in cold water to cover for 2 hours or longer, until sufficient salt has been removed, and drain. Cook the spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender and drain. Simmer the tomatoes and codfish with the bay leaves for about 15 minutes and remove the bay leaves. Cook the onion and parsley in the olive oil for a few minutes, combine all the ingredients, and cook for a few minutes longer. Serve hot.

Curried Lamb.

(Serves Two Persons.)

1 cup chopped cooked lean lamb
½ cup chopped celery and tops
1-3 medium-sized onion, chopped
¼ cup brown gravy or broth
1 tablespoon butter or other fat
Dash of curry
Dash of tabasco
Salt

Cook the celery and onion in the butter. Add the meat, gravy and seasonings. Stir until well mixed and hot. If too dry, add one-half cup of boiling water. Serve the curried lamb with a border of flaky boiled rice, garnished with parsley.

Date Nut Roll.

2½ cups sugar
1 cup evaporated milk
1 pkg. sliced pitted dates, 7¼ oz.
2 cups chopped nuts.

Boil sugar and milk to soft ball stage (234 degrees F.). Add dates and cook until they soften and blend with the mixture (236 degrees F.). Add nuts. Cool, then turn onto a buttered platter and knead until creamy and stiff. Shape in a roll. Wrap in a damp cloth and place in covered container until ready to slice. Yield: 1⅞ pounds.

MARKET MEANDERINGS

By MILDRED REED BUNDY.

PINK, green, yellow or orchid bread—which, please, madam? One actually finds bread, the old staff of life, adjusting itself to the modern passion for color. An F street shop is sponsoring this new, aesthetic food for 20 cents the loaf, guaranteeing that no matter how vivid the green, how bluish the orchid, how exuberant the pink or yellow—that no harm will come of eating it, as the color is of pure vegetable matter. Well-l-l, perhaps the pink bread, toasted, might make breakfast a bit rosier, or the yellow bread, ditto, might glorify a poached egg, or the lavender bread might make truly feminine imitations of sandwiches for afternoon tea, but what's to be done with the green bread? Still, St. Patrick's Day does roll around.

With his long, gray neck and quizzical eye, Mike the Gander—a real, live, strutting gander—gives the once-over to customers at one of the local food markets. The rush of business and the brush of customers do not daunt the dignified bird, though his head may turn a bit at the many approving pats of passersby. For about a year Mike has been mascot for one of the meat dealers at the market.

JAPANESE persimmons which hail from Texas are among the prettiest and most tempting fruits on the market. They are sweeter to the taste than the native persimmons, several times as large, and much redder than the familiar brand. The buyer of these persimmons—10 cents each—is warned to save them until they are riper before consuming, as they are quite "astringent." In other words, they'll "pucker your mouth," as grandmother used to say.

The asparagus of last summer, so cheap and so good, should rise to protest the cost of the high-hat fresh asparagus, now 2 pounds for 75 cents at local market.

The debs and the subdebs with their sweet teeth, or the matrons with a flair for entertaining, and the rest of us with a flair for everything good to eat, can find much that is satisfying in the French pastries at an F street confectioner's. Caramel, chocolate, cherry, pineapple, peach and apricot pastries with a variety of complexions are offered at $1.50 the dozen. Small cookies of diamond shape, tinted to suit the purchaser's color needs, are 60 cents for a dozen, or 5 cents each. Irresistible mixed cookies are $1.25 per pound.

The avocado, or alligator pear, has descended to a popular availability, with its tag "25 cents each." That price is for a medium size, while the giant pears are 35 cents up.

A POTATO peeler for absent-minded housewives, a contrivance which will proceed with the potato's peeling safely even though the user's eyes may be seeing the lovely autumn landscape from her kitchen window * * * or may be watching to see that the baby doesn't fall out of the high chair * * * that sort of a new wrinkle is only one of the wonders being demonstrated at the District Grocery Stores' food show, Washington Auditorium. Truly, the demonstrator of this new-fangled potato peeler and of other equally exciting devices to make kitchen tasks more interesting, does marvelous things in the way of glorifying the potato, the carrot, the cabbage and the parsley.

Men and boys * * * domestic men and others apparently exposed to domesticity * * * stood in as great numbers of housewives did to hear the potato peeler's spiel * * * watching the turnips turn into roses, the potatoes look like tiny waffles, or the most nearly magic of all the spiral cutter, called the housewives' shrimp knife * * * "just for cutting foods, of course," the spieler had to say * * * which turns out potatoes amazingly like shrimps. Then there is the new-type shredding knife, which is an awesome tool despite its mincing ways. Six knives were demonstrated and are sold very cheaply, the six for only 50 cents. The food show will continue through November 21.

A strange-looking watermelon from California has arrived in Washington. Its inside looks and tastes much like any other watermelon, but its outside is perfectly round, striped in delicate greens. It sells for 50 cents.

GLOBE artichokes, plump and of good color, are on the local market at two for a quarter. Belgian endive is another interesting offering but a bit high at 50 cents for a pound. Brussels sprouts bring 30 cents for a quart in some markets, but were known to sell for 20 cents in a grocery in nearby Virginia. Lima beans, perfect quality, were offered this week at 30 cents for a pint.

A dependable buyer for the celery cabbage in Washington markets is the Chinese restaurant proprietor, who uses the vegetable generously in his Oriental dishes. Large celery cabbages sell for 20 cents.

Cranberries were as low as 15 cents per pound at some local markets this week.

Mustard greens furnish economical, high food value, selling, as they do locally, for three pounds for 25 cents; parsnips are but 15 cents for a pound; fresh beets 10 cents for a bunch; squash, 5 cents per pound; oyster plant, 20 cents per bunch; cucumbers, 10 cents per pound and fresh California tomatoes for 10 cents per pound.

LIKE WAFFLES?
They're Delicious These Cold Mornings

There's nothing like a good breakfast for starting the day off right . . . and there's nothing like delicious waffles served with sausage and maple syrup to make your breakfast a tempting one these cold mornings.

Waffles made electrically are the best you have ever tasted. The new electric waffle makers that operate for a fraction of a cent with low cost "Matchless Service," make waffle baking a simple matter. Heat indicators and automatic controls tell you just when to pour the batter and when your waffles are cooked to just the degree of golden brown you like best. They're really inexpensive to buy, too. Your neighborhood electric shop has them on display.

FIVE KIWANIS CLUBS MEET IN SONG TEST

"An Intellectual Dinner" Also Feature at Big Meeting in Manassas.

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., Nov. 13.—Five Kiwanis clubs held a "Fellowship Song Fest" interclub meeting here tonight Officers and members from the Arlington County, Fredericksburg, Va., and the Washington clubs were present.

The program, which included solos, duets and group singing, and an educational feature entitled "An Intellectual Dinner," was directed by Edwin F. Hill, vice president of the Washington Club, and chairman of Kiwanis Education for the Capital District, which includes 46 clubs in Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Guest singers included Fred East, member of the Washington Club; Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Snyder, members of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church choir; George A. Small, styled the "one-man-band," also of Washington, and little Miss Teresa Childs, of Arlington. William R. Schmucker, song leader of the Washington Club, had charge of the ensemble singing.

Speakers were Judge Sam T. Embrey, of Fredericksburg; Robert A Hutchison lieutenant governor of the first division, Capital District; Jesse C. Oakes, lieutenant governor elect, and members of the Arlington Club.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

AN interesting yarn is going the rounds to the effect that when "Brief Moment," the S. H. Behrman comedy seen last week at the Belasco, was taken into the Belasco Theater in New York last Monday for a final rehearsal before its Broadway premiere, Alexander Woollcott spied two handsome canes of historical importance hanging in the green-room backstage. They were, of course, part of the unusual collection of theatrical curiosities which belonged to the late David Belasco.

Investigation proved that the will left them to Mr. Belasco's manager, Benjamin F. Roeder.

Mr. Woollcott expressed a desire to purchase the canes. Mr. Roeder, in rejoinder, said he would see what kind of an actor Woollcott was before he made up his mind.

On Tuesday, after having attended the first night, Mr. Roeder sent the walking sticks to the critic-actor as a gift.

The inscription on one of them reads: "Used by Constant Coquelin in the Moliere comedies at the Comedie Francais."

The other is "A Martin Luther cane owned by Jacques Offenbach. Presented to Mr. Belasco by Mr. Audran."

Naturally, I knew that Mr. Woollcott did a pretty swell job as Harold Sigrift, but I didn't realize he was THAT good!

Managing Director Harry W. Crull, Louis A. Brown, publicity director; Irene Weber, his versatile assistant; Jack Hurford, house manager, et al., are at it again. At the Fox Theater, I mean.

On Tuesday night, November 17, they are putting on a preview screening of the Fox talking production of "Over the Hill"—played by Mary Carr and Johnny Walker in the silent version—with James Dunn, Sally Eilers and Mae Marsh (in the Mary Carr role), beginning at 11:15 p. m. The invited guests, however, are urged to assemble at 10—which sounds encouragingly like a sandwich!

News comes hot from the griddle that Walter Von Herbulis, well-known local restaurateur and impressario, has taken over individual and complete management of the popular Club Michel, occupying the former Cafe La Paradis premises on Thomas Circle.

This announcement signalizes the retirement of Mischa Guterson, former local musical director, from active participation in the conduct of the night club and cabaret which he was, at least in part, instrumental in founding, and the establishment of a slightly altered policy at Club Michel.

Mr. Von Herbulis has engaged as his host and master of ceremonies no less famous a personage than "Skin" Young, sometimes familiarly referred to as "Personality" Young, remembered as one of Paul Whiteman's original "Rhythm Boys" and more recently as one of the outstanding feature artists of Abe Lyman's Hollywood Band, well-known broadcasters over the Columbia networks.

As his inaugural, Young will star in a new revue that will be featured by his distinctive torrid tunes and sensational torch songs.

Incidentally, he recently finished several short screen subjects for Paramount which—or so it is reported—will soon be given local releases.

The crowds were so huge at the Palace yesterday afternoon to see William Haines both on the screen and on the stage in the flesh, and the applause so insistent and prolonged, not only for him but for the artists in the "Great Guns" revue as well, that the first performance ended a full quarter hour over its scheduled running time.

This, needless to say, is none of my business, except that you may miss mention of the Hearst Metrotone News in the review, presumably appearing elsewhere on this page, and that's the reason.

At the later performance, when by knocking down several elderly women and a number of small children, I finally succeeded in getting a seat and saw it clear through, there wasn't any Hearst Metrotone News. So there!

The nagging little cold that was annoying her when she was here several weeks ago at the Fox seems finally to have got in its dirty work and laid Estelle Taylor low. She has been compelled, so I see by the papers, to withdraw from her current bookings to devote all of her attention to a severe attack of laryngitis.

And laryngitis doesn't care whether the show goes on or not; you can ask Kate Smith!

Well, it may be tough on your health, this weather, but it certainly is easy on the coal bin!

Police Seek Man in Cutting.

Police last night were searching for a man who walked up to Norman Henderson, 32 years old, of 2 Logan Circle, in the 1100 block of Fourteenth street northwest, and slashed him twice on the head with a knife. Henderson was taken to Emergency Hospital by the fire rescue squad and was sent home after treatment. He furnished police with the name and address of the man who, he said, cut him.

THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

PALACE

"THE NEW ADVENTURES OF GET-RICH-QUICK WALLINGFORD." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the George Randolph Chester stories, adapted to the screen by Charles MacArthur, starring William Haines, supported by Ernest Torrence, Leila Hyams, Jimmy Durante, Hale Hamilton, Robert McWade, Clara Blandick and Guy Kibbee. Directed by Sam Wood. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

The fact that William Haines is appearing in person on the stage at Loew's Palace Theater this week, of course, overshadows the perhaps equally important fact that the picture in which he is projected upon the screen would be a surefire box-office smash even without the stimulus of his personal presence.

It is still my opinion that neither Mr. Haines, in the role of J. Rufus Wallingford, the gentleman in perpetual quest of easy money, nor Ernest Torrence, as his accomplice and bosom friend, Blackie Daw, conforms to the physical requirements of the original George Randolph Chester characters, but to the present generation that is of no consequence. The Wallingford stories ran a good many years ago and only the comparative oldsters will recall that Wallingford was a large, jovial and imposing figure patterned somewhat after the same architectural scheme as the late Senator Boies Penrose, or that Blackie was a less majestic but much more wiry type, equal to every physical stress of a frequently precarious profession.

But this is all apart from the infinitely more important consideration that Charles MacArthur has admirably caught the spirit of the Chester stories in his screen version and that Mr. Haines, Mr. Torrence, Leila Hyams, Jimmy Durante and all of the others cast in conspicuous roles enter wholeheartedly into the enactment of a fast-moving, highly amusing and, at times, melodramatic fable of shady finance, sudden love and thwarted plain clothes men.

We encounter J. Rufus and Blackie first aboard a transatlantic liner steaming into the harbor of New York. Immediately they put to practical use the susceptibility of a "big shot" from Syracuse to flattery and the suggestion of easy pickings from a small investment. All is not well with this scheme, however, so they take up the more promising trail of a real estate deal upstate in the home town of the girl whose simple charms J. Rufus finds it impossible to resist. This adventure, by a deft bit of dramaturgic trickery, combines unscrupulous swindling with an honest love and an unsuspected basis of sound business that swing the action hilariously and vigorously along to a climax and denouement that are both expert and explosive.

William Haines here achieves a considerably more substantial and more believable bit of characterization than in any of his other vehicles of recent memory. He portrays the glib and facile flim-flammer with spirit, intelligence and a spontaneous and infectious good humor.

Ernest Torrence is a surprisingly effective Blackie Daw and Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante, in a part written in for his especial benefit, at times comes within hailing distance of stellar eminence, although his part is actually of secondary importance. Leila Hyams is charming heart interest and her small town parents excellently portrayed by Clara Blandick and Walter Walker, although I would have sworn it was William Morris.

The supporting company is uniformly competent, Robert McWade, Hale Hamilton and Guy Kibbee lending their ample talents to important tasks.

In his stage appearance, Mr. Haines presents a carefully routined act, prologued by a brief talking film in which Charlotte Greenwood, Wallace Beery, Robert Montgomery and Buster Keaton commiserate with him upon the terrifying prospect of a tour of personal appearances. Mr. Haines steps from this scene directly upon the stage and takes up the serious business of being funny, clowning with "Cutie" Ainsworth, an ostensible member of the audience, singing a little, dancing a little and making himself in every way an agreeable, versatile and dynamic young man, whose efforts were rewarded with an ovation.

The "Great Guns" stage revue is dominated by Milton Berle, a singing master of ceremonies of varied abilities, who introduces Maureen Rio, singer and acrobatic dancer; the Four Monitors, a male quartet; the Navy Steppers, six boys; the Navyettes, six girls, and some striking deck scenes aboard a battleship. The ensembles are particularly noteworthy.

A bargain entertainment, if ever there was one.

RKO-KEITH'S

"WAY BACK HOME." RKO picturization of an original story by Jane Murfin, starring Phillips Lord (Seth Parker), supported by Mrs. Lord, Frankie Darro, Frank Albertson and Bette Davis. Directed by William A. Seiter. Reviewed (second week) by Don B. Reed.

For direct appeal to the heart, "Way Back Home" is as fine a photoplay as will flash across the screen this season, or any other season. Filled to the brim with homespun humor; sparkling with songs that every one has heard and sung; melodramatic at its climax and expertly enacted by an all-star cast, this one is built for all ages and all classes.

This initial presentation of Seth Parker, star of the radio, as a film figure, is a decided success. To those who have heard Seth and his Sunday right group on the air, the sight of these favorites is pleasing, while to those not familiar with the broadcasts of the Parker "family gatherin'," the picture has plenty of punch to carry it along without any radio reputation.

Audiences everywhere will do just what they are doing at RKO-Keith's. And there they are singing the familiar songs with the members of the cast. "Way Back Home" has all the small-town atmosphere to be desired; it offers Seth Parker and his radio company ample opportunity to display their talents, without affecting the story, and the tale woven around these Jonesport characters by Jane Murfin is just as lovable as the star of the picture.

RKO has given Seth Parker ample assistance for his film debut with Frank Albertson and Bette Davis capably handling the love portions; Mrs. Lord giving a screamingly funny performance as "Liz," while others who add considerably to the action are Effie Palmer, Bennett Kilpatrick, as "Cephus;" Raymond Hunter, Oscar Apfel, Dorothy Peterson, Stanley Fields, Frankie Darro and Wade Boteler.

COLUMBIA

"THE GUARDSMAN." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of Ferenc Molnar's play, adapted by Ernest Vadja, starring Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, supported by Roland Young, Maud Eburne and ZaSu Pitts. Directed by Sidney Franklin. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Stars in your hand, bouquets in your arms, and huzzas in your throat for this one.

It's new. It's really different. It's honestly unusual and intelligent. It isn't believeable, but it simply bubbles with fun. It's ridiculous and rare and romantic. If you want to chuckle, see it. And if you really care about acting that is of brilliant, beautiful quality, see it.

But, of course, this raving must stop, so we will pause for a brief moment to list our small complaint. The crank, it seems to us, might have been turned just a bit faster in the earlier portions of the picture, though assuredly there seems nothing that we would want to miss.

Beginning with an all too short glimpse of their matchless "Elizabeth, the Queen," we find the Lunts sweeping us merrily through the madcap story of an Actor and an Actress in their most involved offstage moments. Gold braid and bright epaulets in the audience draw the Actress' lovely eyes as she takes her curtain bows. Hearing the footsteps of "the next man," the jealous Husband-Actor becomes that man and makes the footsteps heavy ones in rich Russian boots. To succeed as an Actor is to fail as a Husband and—but there, the picture has the advantage of us.

It has Herr Molnar's play and lightning-bright lines, translated reverently and most wisely into the numerous acts and changes of tempo of its new medium. It has Ernest Vadja's excellent and understanding adaptation, beautifully clear photography, and interesting sets to aid in telling the story.

Then, of course, more thaan anything else, it has the incomparable Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt. And although we're laughing just a little at our intense and juvenile enthusiasm, we've been muttering to ourselves ever since last night, "They've really been in town all week, and would a campstool at a stage door be conspicuous?"

It is distinctly the Actor's play and how Alfred Lunt draws him. A live, deft and subtly shaded piece of superb acting, putting histrionics in their proper places and dusting them off with finesse when their proper places are come upon. An actor to the life, and then an actor's Russian guardsman to the life, with much of fun and enough of seriousness to be entirely sympathetic. As broadly played as farce one moment, as straight as tragedy the next, and rightly so. He's romantic and attractive, posturing and pathetic, he's swashbuckling and—well, feeling a terrific lack of vocabulary, he's grand!

Lynn Fontanne's portrait of the Actress is a beautiful one of capriciousness and cleverness. She is warm—too warm at times for the poor masquerader, and full of soft, seductive little murmurs, moans and laughs. She is, in short, a delight, playing a delightful actress. And you're never going to know—not really now, you must own up—whether or not, she knew that great burly Russian. Herr Molnar has given us a Lady and a Tiger, gone Viennese and Muscovite.

Then Roland Young, that perpetually smiling, devilish little person, trails the two about, pointing their captivating antics for us and laughing with us. Giving us two chuckles, for one without him.

There is a riotous and particularly amusing Laurel and Hardy comedy and an exciting fishing picture with sharks and swordfish shown in assorted sizes and the running, talkative accompaniment really funny.

FOX

"HEARTBREAK." A William Fox picturization of a drama by Llewellyn Hughes, adapted to the screen by William Conselman, starring Charles Farrell, supported by Madge Evans, Hardie Albright, John Arledge and Paul Cavanagh. Directed by Alfred Werker. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Starting out as another "Hell's Angels" and progressing through the "Wings" stage, this picture manages to miss weaving into the narrative the fabric of an air thriller.

It would appear that Director Werner embarked on a tale of the aeronautical branch of the A. E. F. and, finding that each successive sequence of the scenario had been filmed previously, progressively changed his picture until "Heartbreak" emerges a collection of scenes each reminiscent of a previous picture.

Even with its failings, this story of an American lad falling in love with an Austrian countess, and later inadvertently killing her brother in an air combat, offers an interlude of cinematic entertainment that is by no means without points of merit. The picture does have its moments.

Charles Farrell and Madge Evans, as the principals around whom this story revolves, turn in acceptable portrayals, with Miss Evans a shade the better in the delineation of emotions. Mr. Farrell, it seems to this reviewer, has a voice too high pitched and boyish, at times too saccharine, adequately to portray the airman. So long as he acts in pantomime, he is wholly acceptable, but when he speaks the illusion is all but shattered.

Hardie Albright, as the brother, and Paul Cavanagh as the Austrian equivalent of the Red Knight (whose exploits remain unpictured), account for most of the air episodes, which, set against Alpine scenery, are among the best shots. John Arledge, sporting a "misplaced eyebrow" that really IS, is Mr. Farrell's pal. Claude King, as Miss Evans' father; John St. Polis, as the United States Ambassador to Austria, and Capt. Albert Conti, as the liaison officer, complete the supporting cast.

During the many weeks of his stay in Washington, Al Mitchell has directed the Fox Orchestra through the strains of many a fine overture, but none quite so excellent as "William Tell," played this week.

The Fanchon and Marco "Exotique" idea presents Claudia Coleman in a series of imitations; Grauman, Hess and Vallee, in a slow-motion dance; Ramon and Virginia, doll dancers; Elmer Harling, tenor; Val and Ernie Stanton, "two English boys from America;" the Eno Troop, Oriental acrobats, and a ballet of twelve. The idea is beautifully staged, with the several independent numbers expertly blended to make a coordinated whole, further enhanced by the lighting effects.

The subsidiary screen program includes "The Great Pie Mystery," Mack Sennett's burlesque of the current "Shadow" detective mystery playlets; a football reel depicting the Eastern High School eleven, the first of a series to be shown during the week, and the Fox Movietone News.

Bond Will Reenter Clothing Business

Leases Fourteenth Street Store for Five Years; Had Retired.

The decision of Charles A. Bond, former operator of a large chain of clothing stores, to return to business after several years of retirement became known yesterday with announcement of his lease for five years of a store at 511 Fourteenth street northwest from the United Cigar Stores.

Negotiations for the transaction were conducted by the L. S. Scott Corporation, in conjunction with the office of Theodore M. Judd. The place was formerly occupied as a sales room by the Frigidaire Corporation. The store will be extensively remodeled for Mr. Bond's new business.

Mr. Bond's first store was opened in his native town of Findlay, Ohio. Another followed at Columbus, Ohio, and a third at Cleveland. The chain was founded about 11 years ago, and grew into an organization with stores in 27 cities, including one in Washington, on F street. He retired from business about four years ago following an illness.

BOND MARKET SAGS IN HEAVIER TRADING

Dealers Manifest Interest in High-Grade Issues; Liberties Gain.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The bond market developed two outstanding characteristics today. Activity increased considerably. Sales on the stock exchange totaled $12,960,000, compared with $9,812,000 on Thursday. Prices declined irregularly and in some instances sharply. Industrial obligations were steady to firm. Railroad, public utility and foreign issues closed generally lower.

In contrast with this trend United States Treasury and Liberty loans closed generally higher.

Bond dealers have experienced increasing interest in high grade short term municipal issues on the part of corporations seeking an outlet for surplus funds which found a market formerly in call loans. A greater demand from insurance companies for municipal bonds has developed this week also.

There was little evidence of increased buying today in listed issues, however. German bonds dropped sharply. The net losses in them ranged upward to 7 points, the extent of the slump in the 6s of October, 1960, of the German Central Agricultural Bank. Chilean, Colombian and Brazilian loans slumped also. Argentine issues staged a good rally. Japanese 5½s and 6½s continued active and closed with good gains.

Activity in corporate obligations was uneven. A number of them experienced large sales, but the turnover in the great majority consisted of a few small transactions.

The volume in American Telephone 5s of 1960 and of 1965, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, St. Paul 5s of 1975 and of 2000, Grand Trunk 7s of 1940, Goodyear 5s, New York Central consolidated 4s, debenture 4s, new 4½s and 5s of 2013, Missouri Pacific series F and I 5s and St. Louis San Francisco series A 4s and 4½s of 1978 exceeded $50,000. The foregoing issues ended the day with varying losses. Many of such gains as occurred were made by the less active bonds.

The City of New York has arranged to borrow $16,000,000 as of November 13. The loan will fall due in instalments on January 26, January 29 and February 15 and will bear 4¼ per cent.

STOCK PRICES CLOSE LOWER AFTER RALLY

Rails Drop to 5 Points Above Early October Declines; Activity Lags.

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The stock market observed the second anniversary of the 1929 lows today with a decline in values. There was little activity until the last hour, but then the turnover increased and the reaction was extended.

Weakness in the rail group coincident with the executives' acceptance in principle of the I. C. C. freight rate proposal, and a 2-cent break in wheat exerted an unfavorable influence on the general list. Some commission houses were looking for stiffer grain prices, if only on technical grounds, and the pit's action was probably disappointing.

Heavy selling of New York Central, which Wall street feels is facing further unfavorable dividend action, broke the stock to a new low, although its net loss of 3¾ was exceeded by a few other carrier issues, notably Union Pacific, Santa Fe and Missouri Pacific preferred. Industrials manifested indifference to the rails' sag during the morning, but joined the late decline. Metals made the most of the copper conference extension, although they were finally unable to hold out against heaviness elsewhere.

Rails Near Former Lows.

Railroad stocks closed about 5 points above their October 5 lows on the average. In addition to issues already mentioned, New Haven, Southern Pacific, Reading, Louisville & Nashville and Rock Island were off 3 or more, while Baltimore & Ohio sagged 2½ and Pennsylvania 1.

In the industrials, U. S. Steel closed near tht bottom at 68⅜, off 1⅞, and Bethlehem, American Can, Westinghouse, General Motors, National Steel, Vanadium, American Tobacco "B," Union Carbide, National Biscuit and American Smelting lost about 1½ to more than 2. Corn Products was down 3, Case 5¼ and Sears Roebuck 3⅝. Western Union made another excursion into new low ground. American Telephone broke under 140, closing nearly 3 points off. Homestake Mining turned a 5-point gain into a 5-point loss.

Industrial news was scarce, but the weekly trade summaries reported progress. Dun's said there had already been some buying of holiday goods and that the outlook for a good volume of business was "far better" than a week ago. "Almost complete uniformity," it added, "marks reports of a change for the better as more money is coming into circulation through the marketing of staple crops, livestock and dairy products at higher levels."

Activity Found Lagging.

Bradstreet's found activity lagging behind sentiment, but pointed out that no sudden business recovery could be expected and was satisfied with what improvement had bten made.

With few exceptions, foreign exchanges favored the dollar. A new high for the Japanese yen stood out and there was also a firm tone to the German mark, but French francs, sterling and Chinese and Mexican currencies sagged. The pound closed at $3.75¾, off 1½ cents. Brazilian milreis advanced about two-thirds of a cent.

Wheat was governed in part by bearish Canadian government reports and forecasts of more moisture in the Southwest. December's best price was 61¾ cents, but it closed at 59½, off 2¼. The range for all months was 1⅞ to 2¼ lower. Corn closed 1⅛ to 1⅜ off, influenced by a disappointing cash market. Cotton continued to hold relatively steady and closed with net declines of 5 to 9 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—In a sudden flurry of stop loss selling, wheat pitched downward today to 9 cents under its recent peak. The market closed at the bottommost point reached since setbacks began. Notice of an edict of the French government, establishing new methods of rigid control of wheat imports and suggesting that a way had been opened to create import quotas according to countries, threw the trade into confusion.

Wheat closed nervous 1⅝ to 2¾ cents lower than yesterday's finish, corn 1 to 1⅛ down, oats ⅝ to ¾ off, and provisions showing 2 cents to 10 cents declines.

Word that the French government had augmented the rigors under which the international grain trade has been handicapped came with almost bombshell effect into the wheat pit just when prices were rallying from early breaks and when substantial gains were in progress. At first in part, the transient upturn was due to gossip that Japan was in the market as a purchaser of wheat. Another temporary stimulating factor was that Canada reported no rain, with much colder temperatures forecast, indicating that the Canadian spring wheat country would go into the winter the driest in years.

Bulls in wheat made much of a report from Riga that insolvency of the Russian government had been admitted by Molotov, president of the Council of People' Commission and associate of the Soviet dictator, Joseph Stalin. Some trade authorities said this implied a collapse of Russia's grain dumping policy despite continuance of spasmodic exports. However, bears quickly had the whip hand when Paris dispatches were circulated telling of a new government departure as to import restrictions, including a system of licenses. Other bearish developments were meager wheat export business from North America; enlarged estimates of 1931 Canadian wheat production, rains in Texas and Kansas, and beginning of harvest operations in Australia and Argentina.

Corn and oats were dominated by the action of wheat.

Provisions reflected downturns both of hog values and of grains.

CATHOLIC U. TROUNCES ST. FRANCIS IN NIGHT GAME, 21-6; G. U.-WEST VIRGINIA WELL MATCHED FOR GAME TODAY; GEORGIA-TULANE BATTLE TOPS NATION'S GRID PROGRAM

Dixie Clash Holds Chief Interest

Tulane Rated 7-to-5 Choice in Battle of Unbeaten Foes.

Hopes for Southern and National Titles Hinge on Result.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Following the swift-moving drama of one of football's most spectacular seasons, the spotlight of national attention tomorrow swings from the big towns to the red clay hills, where the powerful, undefeated teams of Georgia and Tulane stake their Southern and national championship aspirations in Dixie's big game of the year.

Not since Georgia's "dream and wonder team" of 1927 galloped unbeaten into Atlanta only to go slithering down to defeat in the mud before Georgia Tech has any all-Southern battle so keenly stirred the gridiron pulses of this sector as the affair at Athens, or, for that matter, involved such far-reaching importance.

Many Important Games.

This week's football slate nearly everywhere is packed with engagements of sectional or traditional importance. Up in New England, the unbeaten records of Cornell and Harvard are jeopardized by the threats of Dartmouth and Holy Cross. Notre Dame's juggernaut menaces the Navy. The Army marches on against Pittsburgh and Northwestern aims to keep up its fast pace against Indiana. Here in the South, Tennessee's undefeated array, another contender for national honors, faces the challenge of Vanderbilt's strong outfit at Knoxville, but for the day, at least, the outcome of Tulane's charge against Georgia's scrappy array will be watched with keen interest from here to Pasadena.

The battle of Athens happens to be vital enough to affect the program for the season's biggest postseason classic in Pasadena's Rose Bowl, as well as the final award of any major honors for 1931. Tulane is the favorite, and Tulane, by winning, can just about clinch the much-prized trip to the Coast to play Southern California on New Year's Day, in addition to sewing up at least a share of the Southern Conference championship and acquiring a powerful rebuttal in any argument about claims to a mythical national championship.

No Postseason Ambitions for Georgia.

Georgia, on the other hand, after swift maneuvers that upset Yale and New York University, can just as quickly overthrow Tulane's ambitions, by emerging on the long end of tomorrow's score. Georgia can attend strictly to this business, without contingencies to worry about. The Bulldogs already are scheduled to play Southern California December 12, at Los Angeles, and have no postseason ambitions beyond that.

Although Tulane has been conceded a slight edge, mainly because of a supposedly stronger-knit line, the odds of 7 to 5 in its favor have not daunted the confidence of Georgia's adherents. Last year Tulane caught Georgia on the downgrade and walloped the Bulldogs, 25-0, but this sea-

Sammy Mandell Signs But as Fight Manager

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Sammy Mandell has signed again—not as a fighter, but as a manager. Within a week after his retirement from the ring, Mandell today signed Kelly Kulak, Chicago lightweight youngster, who will make his first engagement under Mandell's direction here next week, meeting Mickey O'Neil, of Milwaukee.

The former world's lightweight champion will conduct a gymnasium in Rockford, Ill., his home town.

Pommane, 7-1, Scores In British Classic

Liverpool, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Joseph Benson's Pommane, at 7 to 1 against, today won the Liverpool Autumn Cup Handicap at a mile 2 furlongs and 170 yards, by three-quarters of a length from M. J. Wittouck's Hotbun. Sir Abe Bailey's Blandearna was third three lengths back.

Navy Coach Revamps Team For Game With Notre Dame

Miller Makes Six Changes in Line-up; New Defense Devised for Ramblers' Running Attack.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 13.—Navy will start tomorrow's game against Notre Dame in the Baltimore Stadium with as many as six changes in the line-up, according to announcement made tonight by Head Coach Edgar E. (Rip) Miller.

Miller said the changes are due to the fact that some of the boys still are bothered somewhat by bruises received in the Ohio State game last Saturday. But all of the regulars, with possibily one exception, he said, will be available for action and probably will be shot into the fray at an early stage. Moreover, Miller added, he plans to protect his charges against further injuries as far as possible, although the Middies will be in there to give the Ramblers the best they have.

The selection of "Bert" Davis over "Jack" Denny to bark signals was indicated early in the week. Davis' showing against the Buckeyes is known to have pleased Miller immensely. He is a rugged and steady player and has shown rapid development in the attributes as a field general and is good on both the throwing and receiving end of passes. Smith will be in his old berth at left end; McCrea has been given the call over James at left tackle; Thompson, early season regular, in place of Reedy, left guard; Harbold in place of Capt. Tuttle at center; Underwood and Bryan at right and tackle, respectively, are unchanged, and Pray replaces Elliott on the right terminal.

Hawaiian Will Start.

Of the other back-field men, Chung Hoon, the Hawaiian, will start in place of "Bullet Lou" Kirn at left half back, Tschirgi will be the other half and hefty Tom Hurley supplants "Soup" Campbell at full. Elliott is

Uzcudun Beaten By Tom Loughran

Veteran Earns Verdict on Points, Despite Hurt Ankle in Fifth.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Tommy Loughran, as gallant a gentleman as the ring ever knew, hobbled through five rounds of a ten-round bout against Paulino Uzcudun on only one leg in the battle pit of the Garden tonight to gain a decision over the rugged Basque.

Stepping back to avoid one of Paulino's wild rushes after half of the fifth round had passed, the Philadelphia boxing master slipped on the wet covering of the ring and went down heavily on his right ankle.

His face twisted in pain, he was up without a count and waived Referee Jed Gahan aside as the latter rushed in between the two fighters as if to stop it. Hopping around on one leg, he tied up the anxious Paulino until the bell.

The ankle still was almost useless as he came out for the sixth, but the ring strategy, which has carried him to impressive victories over Max Baer, Ernie Schaaf, and Victorio Campolo in recent months, was more than enough to offset the bull-like rushes of the Basque, who waded in eager for the kill.

The decision was two to one, Referee Gahan and Judge Marty Moore voting for Loughran while Judge Tommy Shortell gave the edge to Paulino. Paulino was lustily booed as he left the ring.

Davis-Elkins' Slate Marred by St. Louis U.

St. Louis, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The unspotted football shield of Davis and Elkins College, hitherto undefeated and unscored on in eight games, was badly tarnished here tonight by a 20-to-6 defeat by the grid warriors of St. Louis University.

Western Maryland Tramples Hopkins

Terrors, Featuring Passes, Score in Every Period for 40-0 Victory.

Baltimore, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Western Maryland came down to Baltimore tonight from Westminster and knocked Johns Hopkins University from its envied position among the undefeated football teams in the East, taking the game 40 to 0.

The Green Terrors scored in every quarter, registering a touchdown early in the first period and led at the end of the half 13 to 0. Fourteen more points were added in the third period and 7 in the final quarter.

Eight thousand persons filled every available seat at the park and overflowed into the aisles. The weather was ideal.

Western Maryland accomplished its self-appointed task of beating Johns Hopkins at its own passing game. Time and time again the Green Terrors passed for considerable gains.

Dick Harlow, Western Maryland coach, withheld his line-bucking ace, Harold Koppe, from action until late in the final quarter. His purpose was to bank on Hopkins' style of play to gain results.

Statistics showed that Western Maryland gained almost two-thirds of its 447 yards via the overhead route. Beyond that the defense throttled Hopkins' efforts to advance on passes until in the closing minutes of the contest. Several times intercepted Hopkins passes were made the starting points of touchdowns by the invaders.

Londos Throws Dusek With Slam in 47 Mins.

Philadelphia, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Jim Londos successfully defended his heavyweight wrestling title, good in some States, tonight with a 47 minute 36 second fall from Rudy Dusek. Jim used a body slam to win.

Sandor Birkhus, Hungarian butcher who tops the scales at 247, won over John Maxos, of Greece, in 1 minute 14 seconds in the semiwindup.

Crowd Booes Dempsey As 2 Foes Stay Limit

Moline, Ill., Nov. 13 (U.P.).—A crowd of approximately 7,500 booed and hissed Jack Dempsey tonight when he failed to knock out a pair of third-rate opponents in two exhibition bouts of two rounds each. The gate receipts were about $10,000.

Dempsey's blows appeared feeble as George Neron, Greek heavyweight, and Pete Wistort, Chicago heavyweight, both stayed two rounds each with the Manassa Mauler.

Neron opened a cut over Dempsey's left eye after two minutes of fighting in the first round of their bout, and blood streamed down the former champion's face. Dempsey appeared tired before the first round was over, and he looked dejected as he went to his corner.

The crowd booed loudly when Dempsey delivered a series of low punches and roughed his opponents' hair down into his face with long sweeps of his arms.

East's 4 Unbeaten Teams Facing High Hurdles Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Four powerful Eastern elevens which have barged through to mid-November without defeat find themselves in a precarious position in tomorrow's engagements.

Harvard faces Holy Cross, one of the most dangerous elevens in the East. Gil Doble's Cornell touchdown machine engages the pass-throwing, colorful Dartmouth team. Syracuse tackles its old nemesis, Colgate. Fordham, the only member of the quartet held to a tie, takes on its red-hot rival for metropolitan honors, the New York University Violets.

Aside from these clashes, the day's outstanding spectacle is promised at Pittsburgh, where Army engages the Pitt Panthers. Pitt, the only outfit to score on Notre Dame this season, has been granted an edge, despite its known weakness against passes.

Still riding the crest, Notre Dame invades the Atlantic seaboard for the first time this season to meet the Navy at Baltimore. The future admirals, with one of their weakest teams, seem in for a fancy trimming. Penn meets Georgia Tech in an intersectional go at Philadelphia, and Princeton's wobbly array finally has an opponent it should be able to handle, Washington and Lee.

Other notable contests are between Temple and Carnegie Tech, Lehigh and Rutgers, Columbia and Brown, Georgetown and West Virginia, Lafayette and Penn State and Bucknell and Washington and Jefferson.

Williams and Amherst struggle for "Little Three" honors. Williams, the defending champion, can clinch the title again by winning tomorrow, but an Amherst triumph would close the series in a triple tie, with Williams, Amherst and Wesleyan each holding one win and one defeat.

Hilltop Team Eager for Victory

Hopes to Redeem Past Defeats in City's Lone Game Today.

TWO well-matched teams, each confident of winning, clash this afternoon in Griffith Stadium when Georgetown and West Virginia meet in their sixth annual game, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Because this is the only collegiate attraction of the day in the Capital, and is the feature of Georgetown's alumni "homecoming," a turnout of about 10,000 is anticipated.

The Mountaineers, as ever rugged and ambitious, came down from West Virginia yesterday in time to practice in the stadium. Coach Earle "Greasy" Neale, in the midst of his first campaign as head coach at the Morgantown institution, stated that West Virginia should win by a small margin. "One point will satisfy us if it means victory," he said. In sixteen years of coaching at several colleges, Neale has compiled a record of 82 victories, 31 defeats and 4 ties.

Each Team Holds Two Victories.

Defeated in four of their seven games to date, the Mountaineers are seeking to balance their record this afternoon and at the same time secure an edge in the series of games which began in 1926. They scored their second triumph of the series last year by a score of 14 to 7 and first registered in the initial game by a count of 13 to 10. Georgetown was victorious in 1927 by 25 to 0 and in 1928 by 12 to 0, while the game of 1929 ended in a scoreless deadlock.

The Mountaineers have placed much faith in their captain and quarter back, Johnny Doyle, and their right end, Wilbur Sortet, to realize their hopes. Doyle is recognized as one of the smartest field generals and most able triple-threat players in the East, while Sortet, a 6-foot wingman, stands out as a receiver of passes and a drop-kicker. This combination is likely to dominate the proceedings from a West Virginia angle.

Georgetown Eager to Redeem Record.

Georgetown goes into the battle with fire in its collective eye, dead set upon refuting the increasing criticism that it is below standard for a Hilltop eleven. So far the pupils of Tommy Mills have won only two games in seven and in their last five games have scored but two points, a safety in the Boston College game on October 24. This record is the worst a Georgetown football team has suffered in nearly 20 years.

But today the Hilltoppers are not

Vanderbilt-Tennessee Game Holds Interest

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Football interest in this college city was approaching fever point tonight as thousands of gridiron enthusiasts swarmed through the streets talking of tomorrow's contest between Vanderbilt and Tennessee. Every train brought its quota, while the highways were crowded with cars bearing their supporters.

"Standing room only," hung from every hotel and peddlers of college colors and buttons were doing a boom-time business. Vanderbilt players arrived tonight to seek their first victory over Tennessee since 1926. They were hustled to hotel rooms and tucked under covers.

Maj. Bob Neyland, of Tennessee, finished his job of coaching yesterday afternoon but had his boys out for a short signal and passing drill today.

Dodgers May Buy Half Of Jersey City Club

New York, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The Sun today says the Brooklyn Ball Club has received a proposition from Samuel Colacurigio, president and treasurer of the Jersey City International League Club, who is prepared to sell a half interest in his baseball property.

In view of yesterday's announcement that the Yankees had purchased the Newark Bears, says the Sun, Brooklyn officials have taken the offer under advisement and may accept.

Jersey City finished last in the 1931 International League race, despite a generous outlay of money by the owner.

Amateur Cue Champ Banned on Pro Charge

Chicago, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Frank T. Fleming of Champaign, Ill., national amateur three cushion billiard champion, today was suspended and his title declared vacant on a charge of professionalism by the Amateur Billiard Association of America.

Fleming, who won the championship in the national tournament last spring, was charged with competing in a professional tournament recently. Walter Schwieizka, also of Champaign, was suspended for the same offense.

A challenge match for the championship will be played between Robert B. Harper of Denver and Joseph Hall, San Francisco, in the latter city during December.

The destinies of Notre Dame's 1931 campaign rest largely in the hands of the group pictured above as the Ramblers worked out at the Congressional Country Club links yesterday in preparation for their battle with Navy today at Baltimore. UPSET TODAY IS HOPE OF INDIANA

Hoosiers Last Hurdle for Northwestern in Title Aims.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (A.P.).—The last recognized obstacle between Northwestern's Wildcats and their first undisputed football championship of the Western Conference takes the field of battle in a "Jack the Giant Killer" role at Dyche Stadium, Evanston, tomorrow.

Indiana's fighting Hoosiers, who turn up with one big upset a year, and who conquered Northwestern three seasons in a row from 1927 to 1929, will attempt to turn the trick tomorrow, but not even the most enthusiastic Hoosier freshman gives them anything but a bare outside chance. If Northwestern triumphs tomorrow, only Iowa, to be played a week hence, remains to be conquered to give Northwestern five Big Ten victories and the championship.

Ohio State, Wisconsin Seek Second Place.

The pitched battle for second place honors between Ohio State and Wisconsin at Madison, divides interest with Northwestern's mad rush on this week-end's schedule of games. Ohio State appears to be the better team and ranked as favorite, although the Badgers are tough enough at times to upset things when least expected.

Michigan and Michigan State will engage in a civil war at Ann Arbor tomorrow. Michigan State, after holding the Wolverines to a scoreless tie a year ago, is all keyed up to register a triumph, but the Wolverines appear to have too much strength and polish.

Illinois is planning to chalk up its first conference victory of the season in meeting "Old Man" Stagg's down-trodden Maroons at Champaign in their thirty-seventh annual conflict. The game has resolved itself into a survival of the fittest for the Big Ten cellar honors. The Illini line is slightly better than Chicago's. Illinois also has the edge in reserve material.

Purdue Seen Victor Over Iowa.

Purdue battles Iowa at LaFayette, with indications that the boilermakers, with their dynamic back field, may run up a lopsided score, although Iowa caused a surprise by holding Nebraska to a single touchdown a week ago. The Hawkeyes may come to life and turn some fury on the unsuspecting Purdue warriors.

Minnesota should have an easy afternoon in conquering the Cornell College (Iowa) crew at Minneapolis.

Injured Tackle Succumbs; Second Gridman May Die

DE LAND, Fla., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Injuries received in a football game against Stetson here Armistice Day proved fatal today to C. V. Smith, Millsaps College tackle. He died in a hospital of a fractured neck vertebrae after having been unconscious for several hours.

The body will be sent to the home of his father, M. C. Smith, at Philadelphia, Miss.

Smith was injured in the game in which Millsaps defeated Stetson, 19 to 7. He was seen to break through the latter's line and was almost alone in the back field when he suddenly collapsed and was carried from the field.

Smith, who was a star on the high school football team at Waynesboro, Miss., two years ago, was working his way through Millsaps doing extra work. His mother died two years ago.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Jim Nichols, center on the freshman football team of the University of Alabama, was resting more quietly today, but physicians said his recovery was doubtful.

Nichols went down in scrimmage with the varsity Wednesday and was unable to arise. He was taken to a hospital, where he was found to have a severe spinal injury resulting in paralysis from the waist down.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase Nichols, the youth's parents, from Fort Wayne, Ind., were at his bedside today.

A freshman football game with Mississippi A. and M. scheduled here Saturday has been canceled.

6th Straight Victory for Cardinals

Whelan Is Individual Star; C. U. Gains an Early Lead.

Visitors Escape Shutout by Scoring on Forward Pass.

By JACK ESPEY.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S high-flying Cardinals winged home with their sixth successive victory, 21 to 6, in Griffith Stadium last night to clamp an unbreakable hold on Dame Success for the season of 1931. The victims of Coach Dutch Bergman's pupils were the Red Flashes of little St. Francis College, of Loretto, Pa., and they lived up to their nickname with a brand of offensive football that had the home talent sweating and the spectators gasping.

Catholic failed to play its usually steady game, but it managed to click at the start to take an early lead, following which the Flashes yielded two more touchdowns, largely due to their own defensive weakness and penalties. The single St. Francis score, which came in the second quarter to throw a scare into the partisan Cardinal rooters, proved the feature of the game, with Pete Reducca throwing a 40-yard pass to Red Velvick, who ran 34 yards further across the goal line.

Passes Prominent in Battle.

The forward pass was freely used by both teams. St. Francis tossed 21, completing 7 for a total of 180 yards and Catholic heaving 9 and completing 4 for 95 yards. And in the production of every touchdown the aerial weapon played a conspicuous part.

Tom Whelan, slippery-hipped Catholic half back, increased his point-scoring total for the season to 66 by registering the first Cardinal touchdown. He did not, however, break loose for any long runs, such as have swept him into the limelight this year, but, off and on, he did get away for dashes ranging from 10 to 22 yards. He stepped off the last-mentioned distance on three different occasions and once more romped in with individual honors for his team.

Reducca and Velvick were only two of a brilliant set of backs presented by St. Francis. Steese Brubaker, former Western Maryland star, not only passed, but ran through and around the Cardinal line for many gains. White and Houk, a substi-

A Plain Statement of Fact

"The House of Confidence."

This is a phrase that appears in all Lambert advertising.

But it is more than a phrase. It is a fundamental of all our dealings.

We are firm believers in the square deal principle. It pays big dividends, not only to the house that practices it, but to the man who patronizes that house.

So, when "The House of Confidence" has a message to deliver to you, you may be assured that message has a four-square base.

And now we shall place our figurative cards squarely on the table.

There comes a time every year when all successful automobile distributors must make a deep cut in their profits. This cut is made necessary by trade-ins of used cars.

We have in stock approximately 60 used cars of nearly all makes. These cars were carefully inspected and taken in at sane, conservative prices on new Hudson and Essex models.

We now are in urgent need of the room they occupy. In fact, so great is the necessity that we have determined to place them in the hands of fortunate owners irrespective of the losses that shall be ours.

So, Sir, or Madame, or Miss, if you have in mind the buying of a guaranteed car with many thousands of miles of pleasant, unused transportation in it, be sure to see our splendid assortment before you purchase.

We have a car that must appeal to every person and every purse. Of course, you can make pleasing financial arrangements with us.

So come early if you would get the choice of these unusual bargains.

ON POST BEATS GOOD FIELD IN $11,425 FEATURE AT PIMLICO

Loma Stable Ace Scores By Length

Winner Steps 1 1-16 in 1:45 2-5; Pays Backers $9.20.

Allenfern Is Second With Overtime in Third Hole.

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 13.—Loma Stable's On Post outran a field of ten 2-year-olds to win the Walden Handicap and $11,425, the winner's share, in the renewal of the race first run in 1907 here today. It was the last test at this meeting of stake proportions for 2-year-olds. Joe Edwards' Allenfern, unplaced here a few days ago in an ordinary field, was second, showing an upset in form, a length back of the leader. Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Over Time was third, three and a half lengths back of the second horse, and a nose in front of Osculator. The time was 1:45 2-5. The winner paid $9.20.

A large crowd, about second in size of the meeting, was out, the weather was warm and the track fast. The Walden is a stake most sought after here next to the Futurity by owners of promising 2-year-olds.

On Post in Front at Far Turn.

Marmion showed much early speed, and broke in front. Soon after passing the clubhouse corner, On Post was close to the leader and came to the front at the far turn. Allenfern had moved up resolutely to second position and challenged the winner to the finish. Over Time came from far back to head Osculator for third. W. R. Coe had scratched two of his entries, relying on Osculator, which ran a good race.

Racing here opened today with a disqualification in the first, the number of General Court being taken down in an obvious foul and the Seagram Stable's Dark Celt getting the purse. Westy's Rose was second and Facchina third. Lauman, riding General Court, forced Dark Celt to the rail, forcing Legere to take up sharply, with his life probably endangered. Dark Celt was favorite and paid $3.10.

Little time was lost at the barrier, General Court leading from the start. Broompatch was well up and Westy's Rose was soon second. It was at the sixteenth post, near the finish, that the crowding occurred.

Steeplechase Landed by Sydney.

Mrs. T. W. Durant's Sydney won the Consolation Steeplechase by a length from A. J. Gadek's Tequila. J. E. Widener's Indigo was third and Badit fourth. Royal Phantom fell and Proof Positive lost his rider. Light Plume was pulled up. Sydney was in front all the way. Indigo ran in improved fashion, but weakened toward the finish when Tequila made a bold challenge to the leader. This was the second favorite to score, paying $3.20. A. Pikor rode Sydney. The distance was 2¼ miles.

David J. Ely's Heroville stepped down in front in the third race, S. Renick up, paying the liberal odds of $72. The place price was a little better than winning price, $85.60. Chatmoss was second and Broadway Lights third. Mai-Dee, E. M. Byers' entry, ran away a mile before the race. Heroville went away from the gate flying and won, easing up, by a length and a half. Some wise money must have gone on Heroville, for he was bet win and show in chunks, evidently, and neglected for place. The last time Heroville went to the post he was 272 to 1. He ran the 6 furlongs in 1:13 2-5. The hero of this race is a gray 2-year-old by Herodite—Merville. Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Broadway Lights was favorite, and lucky to get third.

Waterway Easy Winner in Fourth.

Frank Grossman's Waterway, ridden by M. Lewis, won the Suburban Park Purse by a length and a half. Seagram Stable's Khorasan was second and W. J. Salmon's Mad Career third. Whipper Cracker was fourth. The time was 1:44 2-5, 1:1-16 miles. The winner was equal favorite with J. E. Widener's Pari-Mutuel, which was close up on the back field, but dropped out of contention in the stretch. Khorasan first went to the front, but Mad Career next led the field, with Lewis moving up third on Waterway. The stretch battle was short, with Waterway the victor. The winner paid $5.20. The time of Waterway equals the track record, set some years ago by Hephaistos.

L. J. Collins' Vacation, in the field group, won the seventh race by a short nose, with A. Prain in the saddle. The Break was second and Huntingdon third, the leaders being well bunched. Huntingdon got away in front and lengthened his lead to the stretch, when they closed about him. The Break and Vacation both passed him near the wire. The winner paid $14.70. Scarlet Brigade, favorite, closed fast and was fourth.

W. Nertney won his first race of the day in the sixth, when he piloted C. H. Miller's Meridian Queen, which led all the way and won easily three lengths in front. Madcap Marvin was second and Gully Jumper third. There was little change in the positions of the horses in the long distance of a mile and a half. Old Times was second for a while, and then Madcap Marvin moved up, displacing him, and in the stretch Gully Jumper got up for third. The winner paid $7.50. The time was 2:34 1-5. D Meade was suspended for the meeting for rough riding on Gully Jumper.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DARK CELT, $3.10, $2.70, $2.50; WESTY'S ROSE, $4.60, $3.70; FACCHINA, $3.40.

GENERAL COURT, away in the first flight, raced BROOMPATCH and DAWN PATROL into defeat, crowded over on DARK CELT at the final furlong pole and then drew out into an easy lead. He was disqualified for a stretch foul. DARK CELT, under slight restraint while following close up, was on almost equal terms with GENERAL COURT at the final furlong pole, where he suffered a great deal of interference, recovered after almost failing and finished gamely. WESTY'S ROSE, well up from the start, continued tamely to outstay FACCHINA. Latter broke well, but lacked early speed. She came with a rush at the end. DEPART was unable to menace the leaders. SERGEANT D was outrun. DAWN PATROL weakened early.

SECOND RACE—Two and one-quarter miles. Purse, $2,000. The Consolation Steeplechase Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward, nonwinners at the meeting. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:50. Off at 1:50½. Winner, Mrs. T. W. Durant's b. c. (4), by Craigangower—Rima. Trained by C. H. Douglas. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SYDNEY, $3.20, $3.00, $2.50; TEQUILA, $5.60, $3.70; INDIGO, $3.70.

SYDNEY, fencing cleverly after taking command at once, withstood keen contention from ROYAL FALCON, was shaken up during the final half mile and had to be stoutly ridden to stall off TEQUILA. Latter followed close up throughout and came determinedly for the closing test. INDIGO saved ground at all of his fences and responded gamely when placed to punishment. BANDIT was unable to reach the leaders at any stage. KING'S OWN and HATBROOM were outrun. ROYAL FALCON was rushed hard to all of his fences and fell at the twelfth jump. LIGHT PLUME was pulled up after the tenth fence and PROOF POSITIVE lost his rider at the fourth jump.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HEROVILLE, $72.00, $85.60, $14.70; CHATMOSS, $4.20, $3.00; BROADWAY LIGHTS, $3.40.

HEROVILLE began quickly, followed in closest pursuit of LORD TOURNAMENT, displaced the latter when reaching the turn and, hard ridden thereafter, lasted to hold CHATMOSS safe. Latter moved up fast after the first furlong, but was unable to threaten the winner in the final stages. BROADWAY LIGHTS worked his way up on the outside, but could not menace the leaders. CHEELA raced wide to close a good gap. CONSUMMATION went evenly. TOM had early speed and tired. DON PABLO was hard ridden and had no excuses. LADY BRIGHT went very wide at the turn. MAI DEE was shuffled back early. RICKS went wide.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Suburban Park. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:01½. Off at 3:02. Winner, F. Grossman's ch. g. (3), by Wayrose—Queen of the Water. Trained by E. Fred. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12, 1:38, 1:44 2-5 (equals track record).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WATERWAY, $5.20, $3.20, $2.90; KHORASAN, $3.80, $2.90; MAD CAREER, $4.50.

WATERWAY, rated with the pacemakers for the first six furlongs, gained command when straightened into the home stretch and, vigorously ridden, was slowly menaced but clear. KHORASAN, a stout factor in the early stages, raced MAD CAREER into defeat and continued stoutly until the finish. MAD CAREER, going in improved fashion, took command early under restraint, was steadied along while saving ground and held on resolutely for the closing test. WHIPPER CRACKER closed full of run on the outside. FRUMPER was never dangerous. PARI MUTUEL raced in dull fashion and can do better.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $10,000 added. The Walden Handicap. For 2-year-olds. Start fair from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:36½. Off at 3:42½. Winner, LaMar Stable's b. c. (2), by On Watch—Kippy. Trained by M. Hirsch. Value to winner, $11,425; second, $2,000; third, $1,000; fourth, $500. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47, 1:12 2-5, 1:39, 1:45 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ON POST, $9.20, $6.30, $4.40; ALLENFERN, $18.10, $10.70; OVERTIME, $10.90.

ON POST, avoiding interference going to the first turn, raced under slight urging in the early stages, responded stoutly when challenging MARMION, displaced the latter when straightened into the home stretch and, hard ridden, outstayed ALLENFERN. Latter, going in greatly improved form, was pinched back at the break and was shuffled back, went to the outside for racing room and closed a big gap to finish courageously. OVERTIME improved his position when securing racing room on the inside and held on gamely for the closing test. OSCULATOR, well up from the start, had no excuses. AIR PILOT finished with good speed. MAD PURSUIT broke slowly. He saved a lot of ground entering the home stretch and finished with good speed. MARMION outbroke his field, displayed good speed, but was not good enough when pressed. MAD PUMP was away in a tangle, secured racing room, but does not appear to be of first-rate caliber. DARK MISSION, also in a tangle when the break came, suffered interference repeatedly thereafter.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-half miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:15. Off at 4:18. Winner, C. H. Miller's b. or br. m. (5), by Meridian—Queen Bashti. Trained by G. L. Hamilton. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49, 1:14 2-5, 1:41 2-5, 2:07, 2:34 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MERIDIAN QUEEN, $7.50, $4.80, $4.10; MADCAP MARVIN, $7.50, $4.70; GULLY JUMPER, $8.30.

MERIDIAN QUEEN moved into an easy lead at once, raced under restraint for the first mile, withstood a stout bid from MADCAP MARVIN and came away smartly in the final furlong. MADCAP MARVIN made a stout bid when approaching the home stretch, but was unable to threaten the winner through the stretch run. GULLY JUMPER, reserved off the pace, finished with good courage in the final half mile. BUCK HERO was never a factor. FAIR DAWN weakened after racing into a forward position. ANNE ARUNDEL quit. OLD TIMES, inconsistent, was done after six furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:51. Winner, I. J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VACATION (field), $14.70, $5.10, $3.50; THE BREAK, $4.80, $3.70; HUNTINGDON, $9.00.

VACATION, well up in the early stages, came determinedly to displace HUNTINGDON when straightened into the home stretch, was forced to withstand a strong drive and just lasted long enough. THE BREAK worked his way up steadily, came to the outside and finished rapidly and would have been winner in a few more strides. HUNTINGDON sprinted into a good lead at once, was rated along, saved ground and held on well. SCARLET BRIGADE, allowed to race on his own courage early, closed stoutly when shaken up. OUTPOST showed a good test. ANCHOR LIGHT could not reach the leaders. VOWED VENGEANCE quit.

Wake Forest Swamped, By Oglethorpe, 37-0

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Oglethorpe trounced the Wake Forest Deacons 37 to 0 here today, winning about as they pleased. Wake Forest made only one threat, carrying the ball to Oglethorpe's 2-yard line in the last period.

W.-M. Frosh Hosts To Emerson Today

Emerson Institute, which took a 52-13 beating from George Washington University's freshman team Wednesday, will come back for more today when it encounters the freshman team of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va.

It is the only game today in which a local scholastic eleven is participating.

RUDY DUSEK TO TACKLE STEELE

Plenty of Action Likely on Auditorium Mat Thursday.

MATCHMAKER JOE TURNER last night signed Ray Steele and Rudy Dusek to meet in a finish match at the Auditorium next Thursday night. Four other bouts, including the appearance of Dr. Herb Freeman, will be added during the week. Turner stated last night that he had to guarantee Steele and Dusek $5,000 to bring them together.

On the face of things, the bout gives every evidence of being one of the two or three finest presented here since the city turned rassle. It takes little below the Steele-Shikat match of a month ago, and that stood far above anything the city has seen, with the possible exception of the second Londos-Dusek match.

Dusek and Steele stand preeminent among the bruisers of the mat game. Both have done a bit of legal fighting in their pasts, and much of it since they transformed their 215-pound frames to wrestling. Steele has conquered everything in sight except Londos and one loss to Shikat at the Auditorium. Dusek's road has been rockier, but he has shown enough to rate him among the first four or five in the large and far-flung game.

only prepared mentally but physically, as well, to achieve victory. They do not possess their full strength, as Wilmer Bradley, Ben Gellis and Charles Brickman—all stellar performers—are still on the injured list, but for the first time in several weeks they do have available some reserves of experience and a fine kicker in Mack Stanley, whom they have sorely missed.

In weight, height and experience, the opponents are well matched. Each team averages between 175 and 180 pounds. The back field balance one another at a figure near 165, and the lines do likewise at approximately 186. However, in one position—center—Georgetown will hold a tremendous physical advantage, with Fred Callahan, 205, and 6-feet-5, opposing Floyd Schwartzwalder, 155, and 5-feet-7.

It was learned last night that Georgetown will meet the Mountaineers again next year, with Morgantown the scene of the game for the first time in the history of their series.

MARYLAND'S TITLE HIKE TODAY

Old Liners, C. U., St. John's, Hopkins to Compete.

TODAY will see a new development in cross-country running in Maryland when the Maryland Intercollegiate Cross-Country Championship Meet will be held over the St. John's varsity course at Annapolis at 3:30 in the afternoon. Teams from Catholic University, Johns Hopkins, the University of Maryland, and St. John's College will compete. Navy will not participate because of a disagreement with Hopkins concerning the three-year rule. Hopkins has seniority with reference to participation in the meet, so Navy will not enter its strong team in the sectional meet.

Coach Joey Novak of St. John's and Navy is largely responsible for laying plans for the meet and interesting other schools. He hoped that such a meet would stimulate public interest in the sport in the Maryland territory to such an extent that cross-country would be on a par with other leading sports.

Cross-Country Running Popular.

The Penn Relays in Philadelphia, the Southern Conference meet at Chapel Hill, N. C., and the Ohio State Championships excite much interest, with the result that cross-country is being added to the athletic schedules of many schools and colleges in the Middle Atlantic area at a faster rate than ever before.

Coaches Garey Eppley of Maryland, Doracy Griffith of Catholic University, Waldo Hambleton of Hopkins and Joey Novak of St. John's have agreed to subscribe to a fund which will go to purchase trophies. Ten individual awards and one team award will be given. Hopkins has not been doing so well this year, while Catholic University has greatly improved its performance of former years. St. John's has had several close meets and at least one severe jar when defeated by State Teachers College of Westchester, Pa. Maryland probably has the strongest team but there is a chance that Shure and Cronin, two of Maryland's lead men, may finish behind Russell of St. Johns and McDonald of C. U. If this occurs, Maryland may receive a setback in the scoring, in which case a very close meet should result.

Paul Dunleavy of St. John's and John Hickey of Catholic U. have been doing well this year, and will probably place among the leading men. It has been rumored that Cooper, Hopkins star distance man, will not be entered because of an injury.

MILLSAPS TACKLES DIES OF INJURIES

against Stetson brought the list of football fatalities over the country to at least eleven since October 1, a survey by the Associated Press reveals.

The most prominent player to receive fatal injury on the gridiron was Cadet Richard Brinsley Sheridan, jr., West Point end, who died at New Haven October 26 of hurts received in a game against Yale the previous Saturday. Like Smith, Sheridan's death was caused by a broken vertebrae.

The only other college player to die of football injuries was Reuben Getschan, of Elmhurst College, Chicago. Of the remaining eight, five were members of high school elevens, one played with a normal school team, one was fatally hurt in a game between city teams and one was a lad of 8, who died after a street game in Chicago.

Winter Park, Fla., Nov. 13 (A.P.).—Because of the death in De Land of C. V. Smith, Millsaps College tackle, Coach Jack McDowall, of Rollins College here, today released Millsaps from a contract football game with the Tars tomorrow.

GEORGIA-TULANE RISK TITLE HOPES

son the Georgians appear to have come through another hard schedule in good trim, well equipped and resourceful.

Both have experienced forwards, with at least two candidates for all-America distinction on the wings in Catfish Smith, of Georgia, and Capt. Gerald Dalrymple, of Tulane. Both have a wealth of fast, hard-hitting backs in carriers like Roberts, Key and Mott, of Georgia, and Zimmerman and Felts, of Tulane.

If there is a factor that seems especially in Georgia's favor it is the resourcefulness of Austin Downes, captain and quarter back, one of the cleverest field generals in the country. Downes is the "coach-on-the-field" type who knows when to strike and how to welcome Old Man Opportunity's knock.

Sanford Stadium at Athens, where Yale participated in the dedicatory ceremonies two years ago by taking a licking from much the same Georgia team that takes the field tomorrow, will be packed by upward of 30,000 fans. They began the big trek into the red clay hills today in the balmiest kind of weather, and it looked like a fair day for the big battle tomorrow.

GONZAGA ELEVEN ROUTS ST. JOHN'S FOR PREP TITLE, 38-2

Mills Leads Purple to Victory

Sprints 50 Yards to Touchdown After Catching Pass.

Saints Avert Shutout by Scoring Safety Near End.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

FRIDAY the 13th, with all of its superstitions and evil omens, held no terrors for a powerful Gonzaga eleven, and a host of the gray-clad warriors swarmed all over the Eastern High Stadium to inflict a punishing 38-2 defeat on a game but outclassed St. John's team. It was the old, old story.

The "Little Cadets" had a lot of fun, but Gonzaga produced a lot of points, and it is the latter that counts in a football game. The victory was revenge to the erstwhile purple gridders for the 15-0 loss suffered at the hands of their opponents last season. A crowd of 1,500 Hibernians and enthusiastic rooters witnessed the victory, which gives the I-streeters the prep school championship.

Gonzaga entered the game a heavy favorite and it fully lived up to advance notices. The Vermont avenue aggregation held its own in the opening period, but two spectacular plays in the second quarter started the Jesuit steam roller on its way.

Joe Mills in Hero Role.

A young man, well known in local sporting circles as Joe Mills, Gonzaga quarter back, cut loose with a low, flat pass to Viau, that netted 30 yards. A series of off-tackle plays, followed by an end run, and Viau crashed his way through for the touchdown. This same Mills electrified the fans a few moments later when he leaped high into the air to snag a St. John's pass and run 50 yards through a broken field for a touchdown. Mills turned in a beautiful piece of broken field running on the trip. He first was hindered by a group of his own mates, then he encountered a couple of St. John's men, but discovered his mistake and after a hasty apology, darted down the field. He was like a hair shirt on the backs of the Cadets throughout the entire game.

When Joe showed signs of weakening his brother, Carl, a substitute, came hustling to the rescue, and he edged his way over the line for the third Gonzaga score just before the half ended. Mike Scanlon and Francis McCarthy were the only two Johnnies to do any appreciable amount of gaining during the first half. The two received miserable support from their mates, however, and their efforts went for naught.

St. John's Continues to Give Ground.

A spicy pep talk by Coach Byrne during the intermission failed to get his charges out of the doldrums, and the advent of the third period was a signal for additional points on Gonzaga's portion of the scoreboard. Carl Mills heaved a 15-yard pass to Keegan and the latter completed the play by stepping off the remaining 25 yards to the final chalk mark. Viau rang up another 6 points after some healthy gains through the Saints' line, to run the score to 32 to 0 for the Jesuits. The victors concluded their scoring for the day when Ed Hurley chucked a neat pass to Keegan in the last period who scored standing up.

As tired as they were from chasing elusive Gonzaga backs up and down the field, the Christian Brothers boys had one last punch left, and they utilized it to score a safety, saving themselves from the disgrace of a shut-out.

Selecting the outstanding player for Gonzaga would be a difficult task. As darkness settled over the field (and it was plenty dark) in the ebbing moments of the game, the entire set of backs joined in the ball carrying, and all filled their positions well. For St. John's, Daly, Rogerson and Dixon, in the line, and Scanlon, the two McCarthys and Simone did the best work. Simone, getting into the game as a substitute in the third period, constantly kept the opposing secondary defense on the alert with his slashing off-tackle plunges and all-around sterling play.

HOWARD SOCCERISTS TIED.

Hampton held the Howard soccer team to a scoreless tie in a hard fought game played at Howard yesterday. It was the first time this season the local booters had failed to score. The work of Roberts and Willacy for Howard, and Queen and Lewis for Hampton, were the stars of the match. Howard has lost but one game in three years of competition.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

RUFUS P. TURNER'S midget radio was built on the shaft and head of a pin only ⅞ of an inch long. It weighs less than one gram and was built in 1924. Turner built the tiny set while he was a sophomore student at Armstrong Tech High School, in Washington, D. C. Now living in Chicago, Mr. Turner still has the small set; and, with head phones attached, it still picks up local stations with plenty of volume.

The real name of the Prince of Wales is Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David. The smallest postoffice in the United States is a 6 by 8 log cabin at Grimshaw, N. C., and it is 50 years old. Miss Jessie Jones, of Glenolden, Pa., married the chief of police, the fire chief, building inspector, director of street cleaning, dog catcher, head of the bureau of licenses, and the highways engineer all at the same time. Her husband, Sam Taggart, of Milbourne, Pa., is all of those. White horses suffer more from cold than black. The largest bank note is the Canadian $50,000 Treasury note.

Hitting the Head Pin

LED by Temple, a newcomer to the league, Hyattsville handed King Pin a 2 to 1 setback at the King Pin drives last night. Temple stacked up enough pins for a 376 set. His games were 123, 136 and 117. In his first set rolled last week the youngster hung up a 392 set. King Pin's games were 520, 532 and 646. McGoldrick was the keyman in the final game, with a game of 150. He finished with a set of 365.

Henry Hiser and "Hokie" Smith, who are to clash in a special match in the near future, battled to a draw with sets of 367. Hiser's efforts were rewarded with games of 136, 113 and 118. "Hokie" bumped the maples for games of 119, 117 and 131.

Patents No. 2, leader of the Department of Commerce loop, finally lost a game last night, dropping a single game to Mines. Patents No. 1 gained the verdict over F. and D. Commerce by 1 game, Patents No. 3 walked off with the deciding game in its match with Census, and Coast and Geodetic Survey won the final tilt from Bureau of Standards. F. and D. Commerce won team set honors with a score of 1,620, and Census took game honors with a 569. Goodrich, of Patents No. 3, was high man with his game of 129. Inge's 357 set was high in this respect.

Groff, of Mount Pleasant, played the leading role in his team's clean sweep victory over Columbia at Convention Hall. Groff's high game was 134 and his set 347. The win substantially increased Mount Pleasant's already healthy lead in the loop.

Engineers and Chief Clerks whitewashed their Veterans' Bureau opponents at Convention Hall last night. Architects fell before the former, and Adjutants bowed to the Clerks. Disbursing gained a 2-1 decision over Claims in the other match rolled. The latter reclaimed some share of the honors with high team set of the night, 1,631. Disbursers had high game, 573. Individual honors were accorded Ruche by virtue of his 134 game and three game total of 365.

The boys in the Building Contractors League must have been practicing on the sly, judging from the fat scores recorded at Arcadia last night. A couple of changes in the standing of the teams enlivened the proceedings. Evans Plumbing jumped from fifth to second place with a clean sweep over Rosslyn Steel. It was nine in a row for the Plumbers. Dallas Fry and Henry Wagner were important cogs in their team's victory. Fry pulled down a 356 set and Henry chalked up a total of 351 for his three games. Minte Paint slipped down the ladder another notch when it dropped a trio to George Fuller. E. J. Harney's 375 set paved the way for Fuller Stone Plant's 2-1 victory over Massapomax Sand. Southern Asbestos, the cellar occupants, rose up in all their fury and dealt D. C. Butcher's representative a 3-0 defeat. Standard Art Marble ran its string of losses to nine straight when it took it on the chin from Heffron. W. Gill's 360 was best for the winners. Moser socked A. W. Lee for a 2-1 victory, and Smoot Sand won all three from Todd Construction. Joe Morisi's 367 set and 153 game captured individual honors.

A certain Mr. Wright, and the recapture team, hogged the spotlight in the Interstate Commerce matches rolled at Arcadia. Wright contributed high game of 136 and set of 342 to his team's total enabling the latter to win all three from Engineers. The team honors went to Recapture, which rolled a game of 559 and set of 1,601. In the other matches Mail and File took the odd game from Examiners, and Attorneys made Shorten Procedure even briefer when it swept the set.

The Highway quint garnered the major honors in the District Government League at Arcadia last night. It scored high game of 586 and high set of 1,717, thereby winning its match with Fire Department by a shut-out. Stull, of Highway, bagged high individual game with his 136, and teammate, Anderson, rolled 385 to win set laurels. The other matches resulted in a win for Chief Clerks over Sewer Department, No. 1, by one game; Repair, No. 2, dropped all three to Repair, No. 1; Manuel Training Teachers scored an odd game win over Water Register, and Health Department forfeited to Sewer Department, No. 2.

NAVY'S LINE-UP SHIFTED FOR GAME

the only regular whose ailment probably will keep him out of the game entirely.

Regardless of the changes, it is not thought that the general strength of the team is impaired. By many Navy followers, in fact, it is felt that the second team is equally strong, and in some respects better, than the regular group. Chung Hoon is fast and elusive and a clever passer, but does not possess the line-crashing ability of Kirn. There is little to choose between Hurley and Campbell. Both are good line-smashers and strong in the secondary defense. Hurley is several pounds heavier, while Campbell is probably somewhat more alert. McCrea is a power at tackle, as is Thompson at guard. The latter was an early-season regular, and is just rounding to form after inuries sustained in the Maryland game. Reedy, in the meantime, stepped to the fore. Harbold is an active and capable center, though not the equal of Tuttle, who plays a fine roving game and is regarded as one of the best in the business. Pray is a reliable understudy at end.

The squad put in its final licks of practice this afternoon, passing and kicking being stressed from an offensive standpoint, and a big share of attention was given to the newly devised defense, which, it is believed, will prove a big thorn to Notre Dame's running attack.

Middies Cheer Players.

Midshipmen of the regiment again crowded the stands of Thompson Field while the players were at work and indulged in singing and cheering their comrades. They are all set to put on "stunt" spectacles with colored cards and other antics that mark all big games. The football party will have a light lunch at 10:30 in the morning and leave in motor buses half an hour later. They will be taken immediately to the stadium to await the usual pregame preliminaries. The regiment will get away a few minutes later in special trains over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and the students will march from the Clifton Park siding to the stadium. The regiment will return to Annapolis soon after the game, but the grid party will have dinner at the Hotel Rennert, where Navy headquarters have been set up.

Aside from the naval contingent, some 2,000 or 3,000 Annapolis fans will be on hand to watch the game.

As far as the Navy players are concerned, they are eager for the battle, regardless of the odds being greatly against them.

17 CONTESTS FOR G. U. TEAM

Some of Best College Fives of East Are to Be Met.

PITTSBURGH, Carnegie Tech, St. John's of Brooklyn and Temple, four of the leading collegiate basket ball teams of the East, have been scheduled to play Georgetown University's five in Washington this winter, it was revealed yesterday in announcement of the Hilltop court schedule for 1931-1932. The schedule lists a total of seventeen games, nine of which are to be held here. Duke, perennial Southern title contender, also is on the local slate.

Pittsburgh, which probably outranks any of the Hilltoppers' foes, will appear on the night of February 12, while Carnegie will participate in the season's finale on February 27. St. John's, of Brooklyn, will be met on January 15, with Temple following on January 23.

Army to Be Played January 30.

Most prominent of the games scheduled for out-of-town engagements is the United States Military Academy, which will be encountered at West Point on January 30. New York University, with which Georgetown has carried on a series for several years: Crescent A. C., of Brooklyn; Loyola, of Baltimore, and Duquesne are others to be engaged on foreign floors. A two-game series has been arranged with Duquesne calling for home-and-home appearances.

Georgetown, coached this year for the first time by Freddy Mesmer, himself a former Hilltop court luminary, will open its season on December 15 against Mount St. Mary's.

Following is the complete schedule:

December 15—Mount St. Mary's at home; 18, Duke at home.

January 6—Baltimore University at home; 8, Crescent A. C., at Brooklyn; N. Y.; 9, New York University at New York; 15, St. John's of Brooklyn at home; 19, Duquesne at home; 23, Temple at Philadelphia; 29, Knights of Columbus at Brooklyn; 30, Army at West Point.

February 3—Loyola at Baltimore; 4, Western Maryland at home; 8, West Virginia at home; 12, Pittsburgh University at home; 19, West Virginia at Morgantown, W. Va.; 20, Duquesne at Pittsburgh; 27, Carnegie Tech at home.

Alabama Game Seats On Sale at Park Today

The seat sale for the charity football game here December 12, in which the University of Alabama Rose Bowl Team will meet the varsities of Georgetown, Catholic University, and George Washington University here will start today, officials of the game committee announced yesterday.

Tickets will be placed on sale at the Griffith Stadium at a special box office for the convenience of fans at the Georgetown-West Virginia games today.

Until December 1, when prices of each seat will be advanced 50 cents, grand-stand seats will sell for $1, reserved seats for $1.50, and box seats for $2. Reservations placed this week even before the seats were on sale exceeded early demand for any other game here this season.

WESTERN 13-0 VICTOR OVER CENTRAL

Draper and Lynham Star in Clinching Second Place.

favored Central team to the alsoranness of third place.

Yesterday's was a heads-up football game from start to finish and the most typical high school game of the year, full of abortive skill, brilliant attack directly preceding the sorriest sort of play, spectacular and heady running followed by uncalled for stumbling, passes square into the arms of the ends and passes that missed their mark by 20 yards, perfectly machined drives half the length of the field, bogging down under the schnozzle of the goal post by unpardonable errors.

Western Scores on Pass.

Western scored first in the second period on a 28-yard pass from Jim Draper and 2-yard sprawl by Bill Payne. Draper added a nice dropkick. The outfit scored again in the third period in the same manner in which it was continually threatening to score, namely, by strenuous and killing power plays which saw the Western line virtually lifting the entire Central line to make way for Western's ram-rodding backs. Draper dove over the pile-up from the 1-yard line to score the second touchdown, and Teehan's bull-like rush for the extra point was stopped in its tracks.

Frank Cumberland, in whose hands have rested Central's every hope this year, cost his team its greatest chance to score, midway in the last period, after he had directed a 60-yard drive down the field to the Western 3-yard line through some mighty passing and end running. In this fatal territory, on the last down, Cumberland juggled the ball and he was thrown for a 3-yard loss by Western's zealous linemen.

Central Team Kept on Defensive.

It was Central's lone offensive blow. For the remainder of the game, excepting brief interludes when Cumberland booted the ball between 50 and 60 yards, it was strictly on the defensive, doing a noble job to stop the catapulting Western backs and the hefty, charging linemen. At the very start of the game Central felt weight of this power, as Western marched from its 15-yard line to Central's 10 in beautiful plays through the middle of the Central line. Here, on the 10-yard line, Western changed its style and started throwing forward passes, and consequently was checked.

Cumberland then kicked to midfield, but Jackie Lynham, an absolute phantom, snake-hipped the ball back 15 yards. Western busted it to the 1-yard line, only to be fined 15 yards for Payne's holding. They could not make up the distance, and Cumberland kicked to the 30-yard line. Western immediately scored, Draper to Payne.

Western's second touchdown was achieved with straight football, from midfield to the thrilling dive over the sprawled line by Draper. The big quarter back exemplified Western's tremendous power, and the shoulder-shifting Jackie Lynham expressed the cageyness of this square-jawed winning team.

There were no strains of "Hearts and Flowers" at the end of the game, even though Gibbins, outstanding Central lineman, did shake hands with the Westerners. With the coaches it was different.

"Nice game, Dan," said Bert Coggins.

"I know you mean that," replied Ahern.

"I really do," protested Bert, and then added, "And that's more than you would have said if we had won."

"Same old Bert," was Ahern's rejoinder.

ARMSTRONG WINS GRID TITLE

2,000 See Cordozo Defeated, 19-13, for Colored Crown.

THE colored high school city championship gridiron series thrilled a crowd of 2,000 yesterday at the Walker Stadium when the Orange and Blue eleven of Armstrong defeated Cardozo, 19-13. The game had everything an interscholastic classic might have, including straight-arm jabs with consequent penalties for roughness, and a near victory for Cardozo in the last minutes of the game.

Miller, Armstrong half back, scored the first touchdown in the second quarter around the Cardozo left end for 10 yards, following a steady drive down the field. Failing in the try for extra point, Armstrong was taken aback a minute thereafter when Robinson advanced the pigskin to the 50-yard line on the kick-off, and on the next play, took a 30-yard forward pass, evaded the Armstrong back field, and tied the count, 6-6, with a 20-yard run.

M. Robinson Cardozo Hero.

From then on M. Robinson, brilliant Cardozo full back, was the triple threat of the pastime. Both teams essayed the air, Armstrong excelling in short passes and Cardozo in long straight threats that brought the crowd repeatedly to its feet. In the third quarter, with Miller, Mitchell and Brown in action, Armstrong advanced the ball from the 40-yard to the 10-yard line, when Mitchell went off the Cardozo right tackle for the touchdown, and kicked the extra point.

In the next quarter, following Mitchell's kick to the Armstrong 30-yard line, Turpin intercepted a Cardozo pass and by clever broken-field running carried the oval to the 20-yard line. Advancing off tackle, the Mitchell-Miller combination advanced to the 3-yard line, from whence Turpin plunged through center for a touchdown, and a count of 19-6 for Armstrong.

Coach Westmoreland, of Armstrong, threw in his second string, including a 250-pound guard, and the Cardozo backs started to run riot. Robinson went around both ends for long gains and picked another 30-yard pass from the air to advance the ball to the Armstrong 10-yard line, and a minute later to the 7-yard line.

A penalty placed the ball on the 3-yard line, and Robinson skirted the Armstrong left end for a touchdown, and again for the extra point.

With four minutes to play, Robinson essayed the role of iron man and, in a brilliant offensive, marched the oval to the Armstrong 15-yard line when the game was called.

Four Basket Ball Clubs Enter Federal League

Four teams definitely cast their lot with the newly organized Government Basket Ball League at a meeting held at Vic's Sport Shop. The teams entered are Census Federals, Census Enumerators, Union Printers, and D. C. Fire Department. Four franchises are still vacant. Another meeting will be held next week at which time the loop will be closed. Vic Guazza is acting president of the league. It is planned to commence play early next month.

LEAGUE GAME SHIFTED.

The game scheduled between the Federals and Northeast Trojans, in the 135 pound division of The Post's Capital City League, has been shifted from Potomac Park field No. 2 at 1 p. m. to Fairlawn No. 2 at 3 p. m. Members of the Federal team are requested to report at 1 p. m. for practice.

Mohawks Win Protest On Player's Testimony

Testimony of Leon Fouts, former George Washington University football player, that he had resigned from the institution last Saturday and that he had played with the Celtics last year against the Apache and Northerns under an assumed name, swayed two of the three members of the Board of Arbitration last night and the South Atlantic League protest of the Irvington Club against the Mohawks was disallowed. Fouts played under the name of "Mitchell" last Sunday, and G. W. announced after the game that he had been dismissed from the squad.

Bill Hahn, Irvington manager, announced that the Irvington will withdraw from the league, but will carry out its scheduled games with the Celtics and Apaches.

Two Games Scheduled In Burroughs League

Two games are scheduled in the Burroughs Citizens Association Football League tomorrow at Taft Recreational Field, Eighteenth and Otis streets northeast. Mount Rainier will play the Colonials at 1 p. m., and St. Stephens tackles the Burroughs Preps at 3 p. m. The last mentioned teams are neighborhood rivals, and should produce a thriller.

Approximately 1,000 fans witnessed the opening games last week. The Colonials defeated St. Paul's, 12 to 0, and the Burroughs Preps and McMillin Park fought to a scoreless tie.

LOYOLA HIGH WINS FROM G. U. PREP

Baltimoreans Finish Strong to Run Up 20-0 Score.

THE big and smooth Loyola High Grid Team, from Baltimore, swept over Georgetown Prep at Garrett Park yesterday by the margin of 20-0, establishing a small lead at the start and winding up the day's activities in a brilliant burst of scoring.

Led by the elusive full back, Campociedo, Loyola rammed over two touchdowns and scored a safety in the closing minutes of the fray. Loyola's remaining touchdown was scored by Ball, substitute quarter back, who took a fireball pass from McCarthy.

Georgetown Prep started out like it was the superior team. Taking the kick-off on its 30-yard line, the Prep outfit marched down the field to Loyola's 15-yard line on good runs by Scatuorchio and Keating and some nice passing by the latter, but here the big Loyola line caught its breath and the handwriting began to appear on the wall at once.

LEGAL NOTICES

MILTON W. KING, Attorney, Southern Building.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, holding Probate Court. Estate of Carrie C. Sayles, Deceased. No. 40374. Administration Docket 88. The notification as to the trial of the issues in this case relating to the validity of the paper writing dated the 10th day of April, 1930, purporting to be the last will and testament of Carrie C. Sayles, deceased, having been returned as to Naomi Morton, New York, and Harvey Perry Philadelphia "not to be found," it is this 26th day of October, 1931, ordered that the issues be set down for trial on the 1ST DAY OF DECEMBER, 1931, and that this order and the substance of said issues, to wit: (1) Was the paper writing filed in this court and bearing date the 10th day of April, 1930, the last will and testament of Carrie Sayles, deceased? (2) Was said Carrie Sayles at the time of making and subscribing or of the acknowledging by her of said paper writing of sound and disposing mind and capable of executing a valid deed or contract? (3) Was said paper writing dated April 10, 1930, purporting to be the last will and testament of Carrie Sayles, deceased, executed and attested in due form as required by law? (4) Was said paper writing dated April 10, 1930, obtained or the execution thereof procured from said Carrie Sayles, deceased, by undue influence of Edmund Hill, Jr., or by any other person or persons? (5) Was said paper writing dated April 10, 1930, obtained or the execution thereof or the subscription thereto procured from the said Carrie Sayles, deceased, by coercion, fraud, or duress practiced upon said Carrie Sayles by Edmund Hill, Jr., or any other person or persons? shall be published once a week for four weeks in the Washington Law Reporter and twice a week for the same period in The Washington Post, JESSE C. ADKINS, Justice. Attest: (Seal) THEODORE COGSWELL, Register of Wills for the District of Columbia, Clerk of the Probate Court. 29.31.5.7.12.14.19.21

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia. Holding an Equity Court. Howe Totten, 1808 Eye street northwest, plaintiff, vs. Totten & Ward, Inc., a corporation, 1808 Eye street northwest et al., defendants. Equity No. 53487. Order of publication. The object of this suit is to procure an injunction, discovery and accounting from certain of the defendants, the appointment of a receiver for the property owned by the defendant, Totten & Ward, Inc., known as the Benedick and the annex thereto, located at 1808 and 1812 Eye street northwest, being lots 22 and 23 in square 105, in the City of Washington, District of Columbia, the sale of said property and a proper distribution of the assets of said corporation among the persons entitled thereto, and such other and incidental relief as the nature of the litigation may require. Upon motion of the plaintiff, it is, by the court, this 12th day of November, 1931, ordered that the defendants, Margaret Willis Hartshorn, Mary Hartshorn Noonan, William J. Noonan, Benjamin H. Trask, Julia H. Trask and Henry H. Ward, cause their appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after the date of the first publication hereof; otherwise, this cause will be proceeded with as in case of default. Provided, a copy hereof be published once a week for three consecutive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post. ALFRED A. WHEAT, Chief Justice. A true copy. Attest: (Seal.) FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By HARRY M. HULL, Assistant Clerk. 14.21.28

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia, holding a Probate Court. In re condemnation of lots 34, 35, 42 and 43 in Square 5598, for school purposes, in the District of Columbia. District Court No. 2132. Order of citation and publication. Upon consideration of the petition of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, filed in the above-entitled cause, and on motion of counsel for the said Commissioners, it is, by the Court, this 11th day of November, A. D. 1931, ordered that the clerk of the Court issue citation to all parties in interest in the land to be condemned herein, particularly described in the aforesaid petition, to appear in this Court on the 8TH DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D. 1931, at ten o'clock a. m., to answer the said petition and to show cause, if any they have, why the prayers thereof should not be granted, and why the land in Square 5598, as shown on the plat filed with the petition in said cause, should not be condemned for school purposes. It is further ordered that a copy of said citation be served by the United States marshal for the District of Columbia upon such owners of the land sought to be condemned herein, and found by the said marshal or his deputies, within the District of Columbia; and it is further ordered that all persons having any interest in these proceedings be, and they are hereby warned and required to appear in this Court on or before the 8th day of December, 1931, to answer the said petition and to continue in attendance until the Court shall have made its final order ratifying and confirming the award and report of the condemnation jury to be appointed by the Court to appraise the value of the respective interests of all persons concerned in the land and premises mentioned and described in the aforesaid petition. It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published once in the Washington Law Reporter, The Washington Post, the Washington Evening Star and the Washington Herald newspapers published in the said District before the said 8th day of December, 1931. By the Court: JOSEPH W. COX, Justice. A true copy test: (Seal.) FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By GEORGE A. WATTS, Assistant Clerk. 14

25 Years Ago Today

November 14, 1906.

Commenting upon his recent appointment as Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Oscar Straus said yesterday, "I shall resign from every business connection, and devote my entire energies to my work as Secretary of the Department. It is the work for which I have waited 56 years and is the nearest to my heart." Mr. Straus is the first Hebrew to ever become a member of the Cabinet.

The first trip of an American President outside the boundaries of the United States was successfully completed today when the battleship Louisiana, with President Roosevelt on board, dropped anchor in the harbor of Colon, Canal Zone.

The Satsuma, Japanese warship which will be launched tomorrow, is described by a naval expert as "embodying all the lessons of the last war," and without doubt is the product of an exchange of ideas and plans between the British and Japanese admiralties.

COUNSEL FOR PITTS FOREGOES DEFENSE; RULING DUE MONDAY

Contempt Trial of Former Smith Company Head Closes Abruptly.

ERSTWHILE ASSOCIATE BARES TRANSACTIONS

Coblenz Declares Prisoner Broke Agreement Not to Use Documents.

The decision of Justice F. D. Letts as to whether or not G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co. "and others" were guilty of criminal contempt of court when they introduced some 140 allegedly spurious documents in his defense in his trial a year ago will be made known Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Justice Letts, after insisting late yesterday that Dozier DeVane, counsel for Pitts, proceed with his defense, announced shortly after DeVane had said that he would not offer any defense because of the pending indictments against Pitts, that he would "have something to say Monday morning at 10 o'clock."

Pitts' trial, opening its fifth day yesterday, was far from the mundane ordeal it was supposed to be. Emory L. Coblenz, banker, public utilities owner and former Maryland politician, asked that he be permitted to resume the stand, following his testimony of Tuesday.

Coblenz Version Given.

That privilege was granted him, and he proceeded to explain his relations with Pitts. At one time he read into the record that Pitts had caused securities to be placed in the Central Trust Co., Coblenz bank in Maryland, securities that had "broken" the bank. This was later stricken from the record.

Coblenz repeated his assertion that Frank G. Raichle, one of the counsel for Pitts in his first trial, had remonstrated with Pitts and had induced Pitts to agree to not use any of the authorizations that Coblenz had signed at Pitts' request, which authorizations purported to give Pitts the right to take the large sums of money from the Smith Co. he was said to have taken.

The Marylander was taken through an extensive cross-examination by DeVane, and all of his testimony at the first trial was read to the court.

No Defense Entered.

With the resting of the Government's case at 4:30 yesterday, Pitts' counsel made a determined effort to get Justice Letts to recess court until today. Holding that he had given the counsel ample opportunity to confer with his client, and had allowed him unusual liberties in extensions, Justice Letts overruled the request and directed that DeVane proceed.

After noting an exception to the ruling, DeVane sat down, and Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General, summed up the case for the Government. He did not ask that any persons be cited other than those clearly shown by the testimony to have been a party to either the preparation of the so-called false documents, or their presentation in court.

North Washington Association Elects

Combined Citizens' Groups to Press Playground on Upshur Street.

Decision to push vigorously its project for a recreation tract south of Upshur street northwest between Kansas avenue and Thirteenth street was made at a meeting last night of the North Washington Citizens committee at MacFarland Junior High School. Officers were also elected.

Herbert W. Marlatt, of the Petworth Citizens Association, was re-elected chairman; Byrd Payne, of the Citizens' Forum of Columbia Heights, was chosen vice chairman; Mrs. B. J. Waldo, of the Petworth Women's Club, treasurer, and H. C. Phillips, of the Citizens' Forum of Columbia Heights, secretary.

Reports on progress in realizing its aims were heard by the committee and further means discussed. A new plan of action is expected to be in shape at another meeting early in December. The committee is composed of delegates from 24 citizens associations, business men's groups, women's clubs and other civic organizations of North Washington.

Traffic Ticket Ruling Ineffective in Capital

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner and Corporation Counsel William W. Bride both declared yesterday that the pink ticket system of arresting traffic law violators will be continued in the District despite the ruling of Superior Court Judge Ernest E. Hobson, in Boston, that the tagging system is illegal.

While admitting that the placing of tickets on a car does not constitute personal service, as required by law, Mr. Bride said that the system was merely a matter of convenience for both police and motorists. A policeman can obtain a warrant if a motorist refuses to recognize the ticket, he explained.

$3,755 Damages Given For Injury to Child

Verdicts aggregating $3,755 were given Harry Schulman, 300 G street northwest, and his daughter, Mary, yesterday by a consent verdict in Circuit Court before Justice Peyton Gordon. The suits were based on an automobile accident November 2, 1929, at Fourth and G streets northwest.

The child was injured when a truck of Isadore Holtz struck her. Through Attorneys A. L. Newmyer and Lavine & Lavine, Schulman asked for damages because of his daughter's injuries and because of medical expenses he had thus incurred.

Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY, shown towering above the old-east section of the historic community, which was a town and a port long before the National Capital was conceived in the minds of its founders.

The Potomac may be seen in the foreground, and, to the extreme right, all that remains of the old Aqueduct Bridge. The frame structures along the waterfront are boathouses, where of a summer evening canoes can be rented.

The Capital Traction car barn is shown on the right, at the corner of Thirty-sixth and M streets, and the large structure just above it is Georgetown University Hospital. At the Thirty-sixth street end of the building, the Nurses' Home may be seen.

Running north on Thirty-sixth street and facing the camera, is shown, respectively, the Holy Trinity Catholic Church and the Holy Trinity grade school. The building with the tower projecting above is the Georgetown Visitation Convent.

CHILDREN'S WELFARE PROPOSALS OFFERED

Committee Headed by Fowler to Consider Survey at Thursday Meeting.

Numerous recommendations were offered yesterday by welfare agencies regarding the health and welfare of Washington children at a public hearing held by the special committee appointed last spring by the District Commissioners in accordance with instructions from Congress to conduct a survey.

The committee, which is headed by Health Officer William C. Fowler, will sift the proposals and data and consider them at a meeting next Thursday.

The only difference of opinion that arose at the hearing was on the matter of feeding children in school. Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter favored continuation of the feeding of undernourished children at schools but at the public expense rather than by parent-teacher associations as is now done at some schools.

Mrs. Louisa S. Roberts, executive secretary of the Washington Council of Social Agencies, declared that a preferable method was to report the case to the council, which would supply food at the child's home seven days a week instead of at school five days a week.

Doubling of the nursing service of the health department for preschool children, enlargment of the staffs of dental and medical inspectors at the schools and extension of this health service to private and parochial as well as public schools were proposed by Mrs. Whitman Cross, president of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society.

Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital, spoke briefly in favor of more social hygiene.

Miss Fay Bentley, of the child welfare committee of the Washington Council of Social Agencies, urged a liberalization of the Board of Public Welfare policies in accepting families for home care and in providing home instruction for children physically unable to attend school.

Jewelry Store Entry Through Floor Balked

Hyman Goldberg was seated in his jewelry store at 507 G street northwest last night at peace with the world. Suddenly he was startled at hearing a strange noise and saw the point of a gimlet burst through the floor. Then he noticed four other gimlet holes.

The jeweler grabbed the telephone and called police. A headquarters cruiser car bearing Sergt. John Wise was on the scene in a jiffy, but the mysterious borers had disappeared. Mr. Goldberg told police he had heard strange noises in the basement earlier in the day but had paid little attention to them. The borers had gained entrance to the basement through a coal chute.

Friday the 13th Carries Unusual Quota of Woes

There must be something in this Friday, the 13th, idea at that, when a pedestrian doesn't even have to step in front of a truck to get smacked, but wheels drop off cars instead and chase their victims clear up across the sidewalk while the rest of the automobile waits leisurely at the curb.

It couldn't have happened any other time than on a hoodoo date like yesterday. All unmindful of the jinx, little Mary Sullivan, 7, of Franklin Park, Va., was strolling across the Francis Scott Key Bridge, speculating idly on the amount of water passing in the Potomac River below when, without a word of warning, the front wheel of a truck quit its job and dashed across the sidewalk to smack her down.

Daniel Sullivan, 52 I street northwest, a passing motorist not related to the child, rushed Mary to Georgetown Hospital, where she was treated for lacerations of the forehead and a bruised eye, given a calendar to keep her amused, and sent home. The truck was driven by Harold Hargett, 26, 1716 North Capitol street, who pointed out that his wheels never pulled stunts like that except on Friday the 13th.

Another who ran afoul of the calendar yesterday was none other than Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. Dr. McBride and William Eail, 24, 5955 Piney Branch road, tangled fenders at Illinois avenue and Jefferson street northwest as Dr. McBride was making a left turn to approach his home at 1350 Jefferson street. Both agreed to settle damages, if any, out of court.

The day brought tragedy, too, to Peter Watson, 23, colored, 1612 Tenth street northwest.

Peter, it seemed, was rather chary about braving the superstition by going to work. His brother-in-law, Kieser Bryant, 25, of the same address, asked Peter how come, according to the police. Watson resented the question and, according to Bryant, smacked his brother-in-law with a blackjack, whereupon, Bryant says, he retaliated with a knife. Bryant, being in a cell charged with murder, will be unable to attend Watson's funeral.

The date held no terrors for Douglas Fairbanks and his famous spouse, Mary Pickford, who chose yesterday to fly back to New York in a Ludington Line trimotored ship. Ben Hoy piloted the ship, at the special request of Mr. Fairbanks, who said he liked Hoy's "style."

Joe B. McCaffrey has thirteen letters in his name, so he just naturally took it for granted that yesterday was his lucky day.

Police charged he started celebrating by hurling a cake at Counterman Claude Atkins in a Pennsylvania avenue restaurant.

Then he picked out Policeman J. V. Ahrens and tried to bounce him off the restaurant floor. That was when Joe's luck left him, according to police.

McCaffrey, who gave his occupation as chauffeur, no address, was held on four charges at the First Precinct, to wit: Two cases of assault, one of disorderly conduct and one of destroying private property.

And heavy selling in the last hour carried prices lower on the New York Stock Exchange.

C. P. DODGE HEADS MEMORIAL BOARD

National Washington Parkway Association Will Be Organized.

Clarence Phelps Dodge yesterday accepted an invitation to head an organization which will acquire land for the George Washington Memorial parkway. The invitation was extended and accepted at a meeting of the board of trustees held at the Cosmos Club.

The meeting was called to consider plans for acquiring the parkway along the Potomac River from Mount Vernon to Great Falls and from Fort Washington to Great Falls on the Maryland side.

A national organization will be formed immediately to enlist cooperation of citizens throughout the Nation. State chapters will be formed, beginning in the District of Columbia.

Offices will be opened in Washington in a few weeks. H. Serkowich will be retained as consultant.

Man Sues for $50,000 For Motorcycle Hurts

Alleging that he was struck by a motorcycle operated by William Henry Cox, jr., of Fifth street and Florida avenue northeast, while he was attempting to cross the street to board a street car, Eugene I. Terrell, 177 V street northwest, yesterday sued Cox for $50,000.

Terrell charged that the accident happened May 11, and that he was seriously hurt. Attorneys Wayne H. Morris and Edward C. Kriz represented him.

Boy Painfully Burned Blowing on Oil Stove

Attempts to stir a flame in a coal-oil stove by blowing on the flame last night brought painful burns about the eyes to a gypsy boy 6 years old.

The child, Carl Yanch, was kindling the fire at the camp of the caravan near Arlington, Va. The flame would not burn properly, so he knelt down and blew at it. The fire flared up, searing him about his face and eyes. He was brought to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

Purse-Snatcher Takes $1 And Disappears in Auto

A purse-snatcher, who travels in an automobile and operates his business in a novel but effective manner, was sought last night by Washington police.

He was reported by Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, of 3415 Brown street northwest. She said she was walking along Sixteenth street near Center northwest when a coupe, bearing New York license plates, drew up to the curb. A young man got out of the car, calmly took her purse from her hand, searched it, extracted a $1 bill and then returned to his car and drove away. Mrs. Dunn said she was too startled to protest or call for help.

Jewish Education Board Discusses Its Finances

A meeting of the budget committee of the Jewish Education Association, was held recently to outline the means of raising funds for this year's school activities.

Joseph A. Wilner, chairman of the committee, stressed the collection of pledges made on Yom Kippur to cover the budget. A nominal tuition fee for students was decided upon, but those who are unable to pay will be welcome to the school. Membership fee is another source of income to the association stressed by Mr. Wilner.

Federal Writ Granted In Liquor Violations

A temporary injunction against the premises at 614 Eleventh street southwest was granted the Government yesterday because of alleged liquor law violations there. Named as defendants were Robert Knox Robertson and Walter Edward Brew, as tenants, and John I. Branson, as owner.

Chief Justice Wheat signed the application, which was presented to him by Capt. Harold W. Orcutt, assistant United States attorney. Continuous violations of the liquor law from June 13, 1928, until yesterday were alleged in the Government's petition, which asks for a permanent injunction after the hearing of the case.

Crosby S. Noyes School Dedicated at Ceremonies

In the presence of officials of the District Schools System and members of the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association, the new Crosby S. Noyes School, located at Tenth and Franklin streets northeast, was dedicated last night.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools. Mr. S. M. Ely, supervising principal of the fifth division, also spoke.

Newbold Noyes presented a picture of his grandfather, after whom the school was named, to Miss Margaret Pepper, principal of the school.

The Western High School Orchestra played several numbers during the program. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Sam H. Korman, pastor of St. Stephens Lutheran Church.

Henry Gilligan, a member of the Board of Education, also spoke at the ceremony.

The Municipal Architect of the District, L. A. Harris, presented a key of the school to the principal, Miss Margaret Pepper.

Officers of neighboring citizens associations who attended the dedication were introduced and spoke briefly.

Committee chairmen who arranged the program were as follows: C. N. Merrilatt, dedication committee; R. H. Trasher, program committee; Mrs. J. G. Kingsbury, publicity committee; Mrs. C. N. Merrilatt, reception committee; Mrs. J. E. Bryan, ways and means committee.

MENTAL CONDITION OF RILEY CHILD NOT FULLY DETERMINED

Gallinger Psychiatrist Denies Stating Closet Prisoner Has Normal Mind.

SAYS ANY OPINION NOW WOULD BE GUESSWORK

Observations and Tests Will Be Continued for Weeks, Asserts Gilbert.

Reports quoting him as saying that 12-year-old Edith Riley, whose parents are charged with confining her four years in a dark closet, is intelligent, or not an idiot, were characterized last night as "sheer lies" by Dr. Joseph L. Gilbert, chief psychiatrist at Gallinger Hospital.

"I made no statement to that effect whatever," said Dr. Gilbert. "Our observations and tests of the little girl's mentality have not progressed sufficiently for us to give any opinion at all as to her possible mental development.

Situation Too Unusual.

"The situation in this case is too unusual to permit any definite statement now. It may be months, or even years, before we know the true condition of Edith's mind, and any statement in the meanwhile would be merely guesswork until we have completed our observations.

"We know how the child acts now, what she does and her reactions to various sensations, but that may have not the slightest bearing upon how she may act or react a year from now, or two years. Whether the little girl will grow up to be a normal woman is something that only the future can prove, and the far distant future at that."

Dr. Gilbert denied emphatically the statement attributed to him that tests had shown Edith to possess a "remarkable sense of beauty and esthetic taste," and denied also that he had said "I never heard of a low-grade child responding to tests as has the Riley child."

Child Not Normal.

"She is not a normal child by any means," he said. "She does not take a normal interest in play as yet. Whether that is a result of her alleged confinement or whether it was apparent early in life we may never know. However, after an observation of three or four weeks we hope to know more about the case."

Doctors and nurses at the hospital report that during her week in the institution the little girl has shown an encouraging improvement, and now is beginning to take more interest in her surroundings, and is gaining weight.

Auto Driver Arrested As Car Strikes Woman

Police last night were holding Wilford Talford, 38, of 2812 Twenty-eighth street northwest, on a no permit charge, after the automobile he was driving is alleged to have struck and knocked down a woman at the intersection of Thirteenth and M streets northwest.

The injured woman, Mrs. May Garrison, 38, of 1111 M street northwest, was removed to Garfield Hospital, where she was treated for contusions of the left shoulder and bruises to the left leg. She later returned to her home. Police tested the brakes of Talford's car and found them in good order.

Girl Hurt October 21 Is Still Unconscious

Miss Nancy Elizabeth Nesbit, who was injured in an automobile accident October 21, still was unconscious last night, but physicians at Casualty Hospital now report that her chances for ultimate recovery are improving.

Miss Nesbit was hurt when a car in which she was riding with her father, Harrison Nesbit, former president of the Bank of Pittsburgh, crashed into a truck at Muirkirk, Md., killing Mr. Nesbit.

Bus Company Valuation Hearing Set for Nov. 30

The hearing of the Public Utilities Commission to consider the valuation of property of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., used or useful, in furnishing transportation in the District, has been postponed until November 30 at 10 a. m.

The commission had previously announced that the hearing would be held on November 23.

Mohawks Win Protest On Player's Testimony

Testimony of Leon Fouts, former George Washington University football player, that he had resigned from the institution last Saturday and that he had played with the Celtics last year against the Apache and Northerns under an assumed name, swayed two of the three members of the Board of Arbitration last night and the South Atlantic League protest of the Irvington Club against the Mohawks was disallowed. Fouts played under the name of "Mitchell" last Sunday, and G. W. announced after the game that he had been dismissed from the

PUP WILL BE SOLD TO RAISE FUNDS AT CAT AND FISH SHOW

Prizes Awarded Long List of Felines; Champion Wins Another Cup.

This is a tale of the cat show and aquarium exhibit of the Washington Cat Club at the Raleigh Hotel. From a feline and piscatorial point of view it might have been a much more lucid report if it had not happened that the first cage to the right of the ballroom door—the show is in the ballroom—contained a tiny brindled bull pup.

There was no dragging the reporter away from that spot from then on, not even to gaze awesomely at all 184 of the pedigreed pussies in the show. They finally got the reporter away from the pup by putting out the lights and preparing to lock up the place for the night, reminding the reporter that by that time the city editor probably was having a lookout broadcast via Radio Station WPDW.

It seems the pup is to be sold today to give the Cat Club enough money to endow a cage for indigent, destitute animals in the new home to be built by the Animal Rescue League.

Reporter Shooed Out.

But as it was, the reporter was shooed out of the hall before he had a chance to find out what is the big idea in combining a cat show and an aquarium show; unless it can be to simplify the problem of feeding the kitty.

The show will end tonight when cups and medals are awarded to the winning cats in 112 classes to be selected by the judges of the American Cat Association, and 108 classes designated by the Cat Fanciers' Federation.

Judges representing the latter organization already have made a number of selections in the white, black, blue and cream divisions, according to a marked program which an official of the show stuck in the reporter's hand as he dragged him away from the cage wherein frolics the one dog in the show.

Rosederf White Fox, a 4-year-old long-haired, blue-eyed, white male owned by Miss E. C. Payne, of Falls Church, Va., was judged the best blue-eyed white cat, and received a silver cup donated by the Washington Cat Club, while the club's cup for the best yellow-eyed white cat went to Rosebank Zanzanna, owned by Mrs. Lucille Ashcraft Purnell, of Salisbury, Md. The same cat also won Ye Kit Inn Cup offered by Mrs. Florence M. Crane for the best cat with deep orange eyes, although it was not explained why the donor should have such a particular yen for that color.

Champion Wins Prizes.

A champion already, a cat burdened with the rather terrifying title of Triple Ch. Elderdown Lord Chummy, won the club's cup for the best black cat, while Topsey Queen of Spades was adjudged best black feminine cat. Triple Ch. Elderdown Lord, Etc., is the property of Mrs. W. Richardson Schofield 3d., of Philadelphia, while another Philadelphian, Mrs. Allan P. Currie, owns Topsey.

In the blue group, the club cup for first honors went to another intricately named kitty known as Rosedere Blue Jeanne, owned by Miss M. A. Fogarty, of Sacred Heart rectory, while the prize for the best female blue was won by another intricately named kitty known as Pine Tree's Imperial Melita of Allington, and owned by Mrs. P. E. Winkel, of Killingworth, Conn.

The best cream cat in the show (this refers to color, not diet), as selected by the Cat Fanciers' Federation, is Rosedere Champagne, who also was adjudged the best cream kitten and the best cream male kitten, and is owned by Mrs. Payne.

Seventh Street Is Barred To Taxis Under New Rules

A score of minor changes in traffic regulations were ordered by the District Commissioners yesterday upon the recommendations of Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer. The amendments were made chiefly to facilitate the movement of traffic in various parts of the city.

Taxicabs are prohibited from using Seventh street, between Pennsylvania and New York avenues, from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. on week-days, and U turns are prohibited all vehicles within the same limits. Mr. Van Duzer pointed out that cruising cabs comprised about 30 per cent of the traffic on this thoroughfare and caused considerable congestion.

First street, because of its increasing importance as a through highway, is made a boulevard from G street to Michigan avenue northwest. Parking is prohibited on flow sides of the street during rush periods. Twenty-ninth street, between R and M streets, was likewise made a boulevard.

The speed limit on New York avenue northeast, from Bladensburg road to Florida avenue, recently constructed with a 50-foot roadway, is set at 30 miles an hour by classifying the thoroughfare as an arterial highway.

Other amendments to the traffic code follow:

Parking prohibited on west side of Blair road, from Cedar street to District line.

Changes in parking restrictions at Eighteenth and Columbia road because of the recent widening of the intersection.

Elimination of parking on north side of K street from Vermont avenue to Fifteenth street because of congestion.

Parking banned on Woodley road from Wisconsin avenue to Thirty-sixth street on account of the presence of the Cathedral School for Girls.

Extension of parking restrictions on Fourteenth street as to include the area from Florida avenue to Newton street. Parking prohibited on flow side of street during rush hours.

All left turn restrictions save at the following points were abolished: Treasury place and Fifteenth street; Fourteenth street and New York avenue; Fourteenth and U streets, during rush hours, and Fifteenth street at New York and Pennsylvania avenues.

Other amendments have to do with hours and location of parking on numerous streets. The regulations become effective ten days after they are published.

BRIDE URGES RIGHTS OF GASOLINE VENDOR TO STREET PARKING

Counsel Would Put Hucksters on Same Basis With Other Peddlers.

JUDGE'S OPINION SEEN INVALIDATING NEW BAR

Committee Is Proposed to Study Problem With Reference to Hazards.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday recommended that the street venders of gasoline be accorded the same privileges as other hucksters, namely, that they be permitted to remain in one place for a period not to exceed 30 minutes, instead of being required to stop only long enough to make a sale.

The opinion, which has not yet been acted upon by the District Commissioners, stated that the recent regulation barring gasoline venders from the streets was invalidated by an opinion of Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court recently, but it was also made unnecessary.

Judge Schuldt held that no license is required to sell gasoline on the streets, unless the peddling is from house to house; but in another opinion he held that because gasoline venders are not licensed fuel hucksters, they do not come within the police regulation permitting hucksters to stop a half hour in one place. Instead, he said, they can stop only long enough to make a sale and can not drive "continuously back and forth" on a highway.

Automatic Failure Seen.

"If fuel hucksters, whether licensed or unlicensed, can neither stop longer than is necessary to make a sale, nor in the congested section can drive continuously back and forth for the purpose of making sales, the business will effectively be stopped," Mr. Bride stated, "for the very simple reason that it can not be conducted with profit. Thus the enforcement of the old regulation will indirectly prohibit street sales."

Corporation Counsel Bride recommended, however, that this old regulation be amended as well, because testimony offered at the hearing in the presence of venders on the streets was that "there was neither a substantially greater fire hazard, material damage to the highways, nor undue interference with traffic."

Offering an alternative for discarding the recent regulation and liberalizing the old one, Mr. Bride proposed that a committee be named by the Commissioners to make a more thorough study of the problem with particular reference to the questions of whether the gasoline hucksters constituted a fire hazard, whether streets are damaged by the spilling of gasoline, whether the movement of traffic is impeded, whether authority should be asked of Congress to forbid all street sales, and, if such venders are to be licensed, what legislation should be asked of Congress.

Committee Is Suggested.

For membership of this committee the following were suggested: Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief highway engineer; Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer, and Fire Marshal Calvin Lauber. All of these testified at the recent hearing.

Should the Commissioners persist in their efforts to drive the gasoline hucksters off the streets, Mr. Bride recommended that sufficient time be allowed the venders to dispose of their equipment and obtain other employment.

The superintendent of licenses, he said, should be instructed to issue no more licenses to fuel hucksters "at large," but that all such licenses should read "from houe to house."

Based on testimony offered at the hearing, Mr. Bride found as facts: (1) that no material damage is done to the streets; (2) that fuel hucksters constituted no greater fire hazard than filling stations; (3) many persons have invested their savings in equipment for gasoline vending on the streets because no previous attempt has been made to prohibit them; (4) that gasoline is sold at a lower price by hucksters than at filling stations; and (5) that many of those now employed as fuel hucksters would suffer hardships if they were deprived of their businesses.

2 From New York Face Robbery Charges Here

Two young men were brought yesterday from New Rochelle, N. Y., and charged with robbery in connection with holdup of the delicatessen of Lorenzo Costa, jr., 738 Fourteenth street northwest. The men are said to have been picked up by police of New York City while attempting to steal an automobile.

Joseph A. Wines, 19, of 733 Ninth street northwest, and Frank J. Scully, 1217 I street northwest, are the men returned. In the holdup $18 was taken at the point of a gun. The two are said to have gone to a restaurant a few blocks away directly after the holdup and, displaying the gun, boasted of the affair. A tip from witnesses to that incident is said to have established identity of the men wanted.

FIRE RECORD.

1:19 a. m.—104 Ridge road southeast; woods.
11:20 a. m.—Fifteenth and Massachusetts avenue southeast; automobile.
10:30 p. m.—101 B street southeast; awning.
